PUBLIC HEARING ON SHERIDAN ROAD JOB

Will Be Held At City Hall Tomorrow Afternoon; 27-Foot Pavement Is Proposed

A public hearing on the proposed repaving of Sheridan road from Cedar avenue to the county line will be held Friday afternoon at five o'clock at the city hall. The plans for the new pavement call for a 27-foot concrete roadway, including a new concrete bridge just east of the entrance to Ravinia Park.

BRIEF AND BREEZY

1922 will reward the survivor. Sir Harry Lauder is the same Harry that he was before he was "sired."

We might as well take the world as we find it, because that's the way it is going to be.

The man who sells calories and calisthenics is reaping a harvest of dollars from stout women.

Some people are born with a sense of humor; some acquire it, while others have it thrust upon them.

When newspapers learn that the public doesn't demand its news in red packages, they will have greatly progressed.

If men hate you, you are successful unsuccessfully.

If it was our idea, it's a peach. If it was the other fellows', we doubt its practicability.

If, when we accomplish our desire we lose interest, why start after it? Who says life isn't contradictory?

When an ordinary man goes to Europe it is a three line notice. When Charlie Chaplin goes it is a syndicated feature.

As long as Canada continues to supply intoxicants a certain proportion of American citizens will join heartily in singing, "God save the King."

WHY CALLED "OLD DOMINION"

Two Explanations Have Been Given for Nickname Bestowed on the State of Virginia.

There are two explanations as to how the state of Virginia came to be called "Old Dominion." The one given in the following account is generally regarded as the most plausible:

"In Capt. John Smith's 'History of Virginia,' edition of 1629, there is a map of the settlements of Virginia, which at that time included New England, as well as every other part of the British settlements in America. He there calls our present Virginia 'Old Virginia'—the word 'old' being so spelled at that time—in contradistinction to the 'New England' colony, which is called 'New Virginia.' Here, then, we have the word 'old,' the distinctive word of the title. Now, we know that, from the settlement of the colony to the Revolution, every act of parliament, every letter of the king to the governor, designated Virginia as the 'colony and dominion' of Virginia. Here is found the other word, and the change in common talk from 'Old Virginia' to 'Old Dominion' was easy, imperceptible and almost inevitable."

The other explanation is that the title "Old Dominion" was bestowed upon Virginia by Charles II, because the colony had refused to recognize the government of Cromwell, and, after the execution of Charles I had transferred its allegiance to his son. In gratitude for this loyalty, Charles II caused the arms of Virginia to be quartered with those of England, Scotland and Ireland, as a distinctive portion of the Old Dominion and an independent member of the United Kingdom.

TIME'S CHANGES IN ARCTIC

Fossil Plants Prove That the Region Once Was Mild and in All Probability Frostless.

The ancient vegetation of the Arctic region, as is shown by a study of its fossil plants, indicates that its climate was once very unlike that which prevails there now. Instead of consisting of a handful of small plants struggling for life amid snow and ice in a scant, almost perpetually frozen soil, its vegetation was abundant and luxuriant, and included ferns and palmlike plants, that grow only in a mild and probably frostless climate. This vegetation flourished in the Arctic region from at least late Paleozoic to middle Cenozoic geological time, millions of years before man existed. Although these lands are now so inhospitable and are rarely visited, the United States geological survey has gathered a large amount of information concerning their fossil flora.

A study of the coal beds of the Cape Lisburne region has incidentally disclosed many fossil plants. These coal beds are extensive and are the only known commercially valuable mineral resources of that region. A little coal is occasionally mined for vessels that are short of fuel, which, as there is no harbor, is offshore and perilously load on a few sacks of coal by means of lighters.

Fuel From House Refuse.

The annual production of Great Britain's house refuse, which amounts to some 10,000,000 tons, could be made to yield 3,000,000 tons of fuel without touching its three to four million tons fertilizer content. J. A. Priestly, president of the London conference of the Institute of Clearing Superintendents, declares. He also states the fuel content represents approximately one-tenth of the annual domestic coal consumption of the country and even taking into full consideration its comparatively small calorific value, the saving to the nation from its utilization would be enormous. This system of recovery of fuel in domestic refuse is no longer an experiment, he says, and is practical for universal adoption except for conflict with vested interests.

Early Astronomical Instruments.

The earliest known astronomical instruments of German make have recently been described by Dr. J. Hartmann of Göttingen. They belonged to the philosopher and astronomer, Cardinal Nikolaus of Cusa, who lived from 1401 to 1464, and comprised a "torquetum" for measuring the longitude and latitude of the celestial bodies, an astrolabe and two celestial globes.

A note has been found in the cardinal's own handwriting, stating that he purchased three of these instruments in the year 1444, together with 16 astronomical treatises, for the sum of 38 florins. Doctor Hartmann believes that at least two of the instruments were made by one Nikolaus Hybech of Erfurt, who was born in 1370.

"Musical Calls" of Birds.

It is strange that ornithologists and musicians who give such credit to the rooster, Bob White and whippoorwill do not include among highly distinctive bird calls those of the crow, cardinal and catbird, for while most ordinary persons cannot identify the calls of the robin, wren, bluebird, flick, bunting and the like, it is not to be believed that anybody, once having heard the "caw" of a crow, the "a-a-a" of the catbird and the "chuck-chuck-chuck," followed by a long clear whistle which the cardinal gives out, could ever fall thereafter to recognize these calls. But it may be that those calls are not felt within the classification of what is said to be the "musical calls."

URGE GRADE PUPILS TO WRITE ESSAYS

Is there any unwritten history of a pioneer woman in Highland Park? The State Historical Society and the Daughters of the American Revolution are anxious to have the school children from the eighth to the twelfth grades of the county bring out the history of the women of their own particular locality. This rule is not arbitrary and the children may, if they choose, take any pioneer woman in Illinois.

Letters, diaries, newspapers or other material may be used.

No essay should be over 2000 words in length. Contest closes May 1, 1922. A beautiful gold medal, suitably inscribed will be given to the winner of the best essay in the state, and a silver medal will be awarded for the best essay in each county.

The children of Highland Park are urged to try to win the medals.

For additional information apply to the secretary of the Illinois State Historical Society, Jessie Palmer Weber, Springfield, Ill.

Essays may be sent to Mrs. Charles A. Winston, Regent of the North Shore Chapter, D. A. R.
