It strikes us that true economy, in times like these, consists of going after business in the most economical way, and that extravagance consists of sitting still and letting the overhead eat us up, while the other fellow is hard after what business there is. Good printed matter is an economical weapon with which to round up business. Are you lying on the bank waiting, or wading out into the stream? Being exhorted to take an interest in flowers, the women folks are getting some fine artificials on their spring hats.
