There was linoleum flooring to replace and the murals that escaped the flames had to be carefully restored. This has been very paintings. Besides all this special preparations were necessary to provide classroom space for every group of pupils and two additional recitation "nooks" have been fitted up. It seems now that everything will be ready for the coming of the pupils next Monday.

Excellent progress is being made in the construction of the new building. Practically all of the extensive concrete work involved in utilizing the unique site the building is to occupy has been completed and the brick masons have begun their work. Structural steel is at hand and stone trimmings and it seems now that the from breaking under the weight of walls of the building will be up by November 15 and the first floor ready for occupancy by January 1.

FIRE DEPARTMENT BUSY

The local fire department received a great many calls the past month. Several of them were house fires, an auto truck, barn and a great many woods and prairie fires. They have answered two house fire calls from D. AYNSLEY'S MOTHER Highwood and one from Glencoe. Three of these have been night calls.

There has been several false alarms where people have been burning shrubbery or burning off a vacant lot and neighbors seeing the fire would call the department without investigating. The department is ready to answer all calls, but make sure that it is not a false alarm before calling as costs the city considerable money each time a run is made.
