THE EXTRAVAGANCE OF ECON-OMY
You say that you are going to "get along on something cheaper" for the time being; that perhaps in a year or two you will buy the right thing, and can then afford to pay the price.
You call this Economy because it means a smaller outlay of money right now.
Mr. Buyer, in the congested sections of our great cities poor people are practicing the same sort of economy, says N. E. Edwards, Jr., writing in "Demonstration." They pay 60¢ a sack for coal. Each bag is about 85 pounds. Twenty-three and a half of these sacks would make a ton, and at 60¢ a sack each ton of coal would cost $14.10, and yet the retail price of this same coal is only $7 a ton!

Cheap things are made for people who can not pay more; who must "get along" the best they can. And the people who buy goods or services in this way invariably pay out more in the end by having paid less in the beginning.

A family living in the better part of town pays $50 for an apartment containing 1,500 square feet. That is at the rate of 30 square feet for every dollar. The families over in the poverty-stricken district pay $8 for one room containing 150 square feet, or at the rate of 19 square feet for the dollar. That's the DIFFER-ENCE—a difference that reaches out and embraces goods of all classes, and for all purposes.

Long before the time has come for you to "afford" something better, you will have paid the price times without number, in inconvenience, lost efforts, and poorer results. If you need a thing, Mr. Buyer, you need it so much that you simply can not afford to get along with any but the best. The more you need a thing the more certain you may be that it should be the best. Always, without exception, the cheapest thing is the thing that delivers the best service. To consider anything else is to practice false economy, founded not on future benefits, but on the dollars retained at the little per reader that counts.

—The American Stationer.
EDITOR'S NOTE—The above article should prove of particular interest to many users of advertising, who in buying usually forget "That it is not how much per page, but how little per reader that counts."

It is well for the firemen to be alert, but not necessary for them to come merely because the men's suppers send forth a powerful cloud of smoke.

PUBLIC LIBRARY
Now that the crispy fall weather has come again, how shall we, after an outdoor summer life, be enticed back to reading again? Perhaps nothing is so appropriate to the evening fireside in the autumn as the essay, the short, crisp, delightfully familiar bit of literature that is as cheerful as the jug of cider at one's elbow and as complete in itself as the accompanying doughnut. And there is plenty of variety—something for everybody.

Montaigne is racy, Bacon pithy, Hazlitt cheerful, Lamb whimsical, Alice Meynell full of sound sense, Pearsall Smith unique, Christopher Morley full of the impudent fun of a boy. Here alone is enough for various readers, and there are more.
Come and find them! If you have enjoyed your garden during the summer, you will enjoy what Francis Bacon has to say On Gardens. If you like to be alone, Abraham Cowley will talk to you Of Solitude. Joseph Addison will present to you a charming country gentleman of the eighteenth century—those "ante auto" days. And we haven't mentioned Carlyle or DeQuincy or Robert Louis Stevenson or a dozen others that will beckon to you from the shelves the moment they see you. Come and renew these pleasant old acquaintances and be introduced to the new.

The following books have been added to the Library this fall, and there await the eager reader, beckoning from the shelves, and even, perhaps, in the case of the lighter fiction, winking a gilt title. There are about one hundred volumes; none, we hope, unworthy of your consideration. This being an advertisement of our wares, in proper advertising fashion we bid you "come early and avoid the rush."

"Imagine—Comfortable and Smart!" What all women have longed for and some didn't know existed —underclothing that fits the figure faultlessly yet gives perfect ease and freedom! That's Athena.
Dainty knit underwear that doesn't pull up in front or down in the back; that doesn't bunch under the arms, or do any of the other annoying things many women have thought necessary evils of all undergarments. The secret lies in the making. Athena is not stretched into shape, it is cut to the lines of the figure. Yet it costs no more than ordinary underwear!

ATHENA
UNDERWEAR
For Women and Children Ask the saleswoman to show you why Athena fits with such easy comfort. Examine especially the sloping line of the neck, the tapering back and fitted seat, the extra width through the bust.
Athena will give you a new conception of real comfort in underclothing. It may be had in all styles and weights, in knit fabrics.
