GREAT LAKES LOSES TO HAMPTON ROADS

Also Loses Navigation Bureau Cup Held for Two Years; Score Is 7 to 6

Great Lakes failed to kick goal after Finch had plowed across the line in the game at Hampton Roads and lost the game by a 7 to 6 score, losing also the Bureau of Navigation Cup which they have held for two successive years. A win yesterday would have given them the trophy as a permanent possession.

Finch proved to be the star of the game and ripped into the Hampton Roads line throughout the test. Sailors from the lakes station all played their best and should have won, only luck and a misplaced kick were against them. The trophy now goes to Hampton Roads, which must also win for three consecutive years in order to add to their athletic treasure cabinet. Great Lakes has all so far competed for, but the football trophy, winning all others for two consecutive seasons with the exception of the boxing and wrestling trophy for which they fight Dec. 10 to retain a second time.

FOUR POLICE AND SHERIFF CALM HIM

John Anderson will tell the world there is no such thing as painless dentistry, attest four Waukegan policemen and Sheriff Elmer Green. The officers were called to his home in Waukegan last week to pacify him after a trip to the dentist's office. He had just had a tooth extracted and the pain was so excruciating it temporarily deranged his mind. He went on a rampage and his sister believing he had become insane called the police. He was subdued by four policemen, who held him until the arrival of Sheriff Green.

A physician was summoned and succeeded in alleviating Anderson's pain. When he calmed down the sheriff took him back to his home, with a warning.

The Cowboy and The Lady
Mary Miles Minter and Tom Moore

A romantic and exciting tale of the west, this play offers great opportunities as well for comedy. The idea of cowpunchers on motorcycles trying to rope steers, a modern idea of ranching, with filing systems and the like; the rancher who dresses like a gentleman of fashion—all supply mirthful moments which contrast with the tragedy at the end and the trial which results in the vindication of the hero from complicity in the killing at a dance of the worthless husband.

Julien Josephsen, who scenarized "The Old Homestead," also wrote the continuity for "The Cowboy and the Lady."

PLAN TO ENFORCE DRY LAWS BETTER

CO-OPERATION IS URGED

Commissioner Haynes Predicts Federal and Local Agents Will Work Together in Next Year

A program of more concerted co-operation between federal officials and local enforcement agencies is planned for the coming year. Federal Prohibition Commissioner R. A. Haynes advises Director Charles A. Gregory of Illinois.

Section II of the enforcement act divides the responsibility between the federal government and the states. Practically all of the states have enacted legislation to this end and the various agencies report increasing evidence of cooperation.

Every Community Responsible
Commissioner Haynes says that every state, county and city has the initial responsibility of cleaning its own conditions through locally selected officials, before the federal machinery should be expected to take charge. Hence the necessity for close cooperation between the states and the federal agencies.

Director Gregory is greatly pleased with the progress that has been made in Illinois and is most optimistic regarding the future, in view of the spirit of cooperation in evidence practically everywhere. More and more the public is becoming convinced that the success of enforcement lies as much with the people themselves as with the officers who are designated to enforce the law. In spite of obstacles and many complications, prohibition is showing itself as a means of pronounced public betterment, of improved living conditions and healthier human beings. There is evidence everywhere of marked progress in the way of enforcement.

Not Time to Be Discouraged

This is not the time to be impatient nor discouraged, for the friends of the law are truly in action, as shown by reports which Commissioner Haynes has received from the various states justifying the optimism which he entertains.

Reducing the source of supply through concentration, in the Commissioner's opinion, will aid materially in enforcement and also make for economy for, as he says, economy has been the watchword of the administration. Concentration of whiskey in a smaller number of bonded warehouses will result in the saving of at least $300,000 per annum. A saving of $250,000 has been effected through reductions secured in rental of offices and storage space and the disposition of seized property. A further saving of $156,900 annually has been effected by the readjustment of salaries.

Prohibition Is Success
Referring to the cry that prohibition is a failure, Commissioner Haynes says that in his judgment one of the most remarkable successes ever attained in the enforcement of a new and drastic law has been recorded in the present status of enforcement of the National Prohibition Act.

A complete reorganization has been effected in the past fifteen months. Fifty-one director's offices have been established in each state and Hawaii, Porto Rico and Alaska. These complete changes in the reorganization of the work have resulted in the elimination of duplication of work and a greater efficiency. Experienced men of undoubted integrity have been called into the service. The Washington office of over 600 employees and all the field forces have become enthused with the greatness of the task. Thirty-two hundred and one temporary and permanent appointments have been made during this 15 month period.

A new feature of the organization is the general agents' force operating independent of the directors' forces. To date this force has reported 3,231 cases and recommended taxes in the amount of $24,168,824.

Narcotic Forces
The narcotic forces, which also operate under the prohibition unit, have also been reorganized. There has resulted such an increase in efficiency that with no larger appropriation or appreciable increase in the field force, there has been an increase of some 65 per cent in the number of violations reported in the period of one year and an increase of 100 per cent in the convictions secured.
