America's Food and Medicine May Go for Naught if Russians Cannot Secure Clothing

"If Russia's children, and adults as well, are to be saved from death this winter from exposure—after the charity of America has brought them through the famine of last winter, they must be supplied with clothing." This is a consensus of opinion of the American Relief Administration staff in Russia, from Colonel Haskell down to the inspectors, according to their reports to Herbert Hoover, head of the A. R. A.

From every part of Russia where the A. R. A. has been feeding children and adults, and has been instituting sanitation and medical service and inoculations to save literally millions of lives, the story is the same—that the children lack even the barest essentials of underwear, shoes, stockings or outer wear, with which to protect themselves against the rigors of the Russian winter. And the need of aid in this direction for adults, too, is indicated by statements of recently returned workers, who state that in cases where Russian employers have been given a blanket for extra services the blankets have almost invariably been made into overcoats. Literally millions of children, say reports, have no shoes—an item which in itself may make it impossible for them to go to American Relief child-feeding kitchens. Free shoes and stockings have been provided for 250,000 children who are absolutely without footwear, but the whole problem is beyond the reach of any general funds now available.

The American Relief Administration, to meet this emergency, has put into effect a Clothing Remittance, functioning in every way as does the now world famous Hoover Food Remittance. For twenty dollars, sent to the A. R. A. at 42 Broadway, New York, the following articles, or their equivalent in value, will be delivered to any designated person in Russia: 4 2-3 yards fifty-six inch twenty ounce dark blue wool cloth; 4 yards of thirty-two inch black cotton flannel; 8 yards of twenty-seven inch flannel; 16 yards of unbleached muslin; 8 large black ivory buttons; 16 small black ivory buttons; 16 small white bone buttons; 2 spools No. 30 black cotton thread; 2 spools No. 40 white cotton thread.

One package will clothe one adult or two children all winter, and remittances ordered for general relief will be used for neediest cases, thousands of which are heart-breaking.

Much stirring oratory is heard, but it is not usually claimed that it stirs up people to go to work.
The Greeks executed their public officials who didn't do right but in this country they would go around and shake hands with the voters and promise to reduce the cost of living and put up everybody's pay and would get re-elected.

FAMOUS OLD RUGS OF ORIENTAL MAKE

COLORS ARE PRESERVED

Ballard Collection at Art Institute Results of Seventeen Years of Travel; Rare Effects

The love of color! It is like the love of music, refining and elevating in its influence upon the soul. It is the love of color that induced James Franklin Ballard to begin, seventeen years ago, the collection of oriental rugs.

Mr. Ballard is a wealthy manufacturer of St. Louis, who at present is in Chicago inspecting the installation at the Art Institute of seventy-four choice Oriental rugs which he recently presented to the Metropolitan Museum of New York. It appears that the Metropolitan Museum is the only large museum in the United States which had the nucleus of a notable rug collection, and Mr. Ballard's gift of 128 of his most valuable carpets makes the Metropolitan's collection the finest in the world.

From Near East
Mr. Ballard has but recently returned from the Near East, where he was, caught in the war zone and passed through some thrilling experiences. He was an eye-witness to the horrors attendant on the burning of Smyrna and was arrested by the Turks while in Thrace. In his quest for the rare and the beautiful in oriental carpets Mr. Ballard has traveled over 275,000 miles.

In the collection now installed in the Art Institute, in gallery 50, and on the main staircase, are seven Damascus carpets said to be the finest in existence. One of them was made from the second growth wool of Angora sheep, and is now only 1-16 of an inch thick. Many of them are over 400 years old, and have been worn down to the warp, but still retain their marvelous beauty of color and design.

A book could be written on this collection alone. As it is a 96-page catalogue has been printed giving a detailed description of each of the seventy-four rugs, with over thirty illustrations, four of which show, in full color typical motifs of the Caucasus and Asia Minor rugs.

Greatly Enjoyed
As may be imagined Mr. Ballard has greatly enjoyed the time given to the acquisition of these carpets and now he is passing the enjoyment of them on to others. He still retains some of them in his home in St. Louis.

"Oftimes," he said, "at night, when I am disturbed and unable to sleep, I go into my rug-room and there sit for an hour or so contemplating the wonderful beauty of the carpets. They exercise a very quieting influence over me and I am soon able to go to bed again and enjoy a sound sleep."

The collection will remain on view at the Art Institute until February, 1923.

EUROPE PREPARING FOR MORE WARFARE

Will Spend All Money Obtainable on Preparation For Fighting

The closest watch is kept upon the Near East situation by all officials. It is pointed out in connection with America's attitude toward the Near East, toward the cancellation of European debts or making of any new loans to European nations, that the more help this country gives Europe the longer will Europe engage in war.

Proof of this is offered in the recent Associated Press dispatches which contain the statement:

"Greece is already seeking loans whereby it will be able to equip its army and make up the munitions loss which it suffered during the retreat in Asia Minor."

Agitation has already been started for the United States to give to Greece the remainder of the loan authorized during the war, but which was never completely exhausted. It is being urged that Greece needs this money in order to recover from the effects of the war but such advice as the above more nearly approximate the truth.

With possibly the exception of Belgium and Italy, there is not a European country which is not expending vast sums of money in military and naval equipment and increasing their supplies of munitions and otherwise preparing for more war instead of peaceful reconstruction. It is felt that every dollar America gives to Europe now, either directly in the form of new loans or indirectly in the form of cancellation of old loans, will be immediately re-invested by European nations for the purpose of continuing their own destruction.

Claimed the boys are unable to express themselves in debates, but they will argue a long time who is the prettiest girl.

It is hoped that horses won't entirely disappear, as a number of them are needed to tow the broken down automobiles to the garages.

Never put your name on a Christmas present, as it prevents your friend from passing it off to some one else next year.
