BOY AND DOG STORY ALWAYS INTERESTING

HOW EDITOR REGARDS IT

Eloquent Reply of Head of New York Herald to Criticism; Says Boys and Pups Before Babylon

How important is the oft-repeated story of the boy and his lost dog? Editors may widely differ in their opinions of its value, but there will be those who, though news is so plentiful as to clog the presses, and the price of paper soar to top-lofty figures, will give the boy and dog a place on the front page. Not many of them, however, can justify their policy so eloquently as the editor of the New York Herald has done in his reply to an inquiring reader, as we think you will agree after reading the following:

"To The New York Herald: Have you gone crazy—to use a full column of the front page of The Herald to tell of a boy who lost his pup, when the papers are all crowded with important things?"

Editor's Reply

"No, The New York Herald has not gone crazy. Papers become demented only when they lose track of the human race and never put the boys and the pups on the front page.

"Our correspondent forgets the variety of news appetites. There are ten thousand men in New York who could tell him how many home runs Babe Ruth has made this year, but could not tell him whether Scutari is in Europe or in Asia. There are hundred thousand mothers in New York who have not the slightest interest in Southampton or Lenox, who like to read about the boy and the pup. For the boy might be their own boy.

"The world likes to read about boys, and especially about boys that own pups. The boy and the pup have been pals since the axis of the earth first began to creak under the weight of the human race. There were boys and pups before Babylon, but Babylon and its brass gates have gone and the boys and their pups remain. There will be lost boys with lost pups, and kind policemen to find and feed them, long after wars and strikes have disappeared.

"And so often as something happens to a boy and a pup that makes the world recall its youth, The New York Herald will find room on the front page for it, even if it has to relegate the doings of some stodgy statesman to the inside."

PROBATION OFFICER ON JUVENILE WORK

Makes Report on Activities of Her Department in Last Three Months

Miss Mary Pohmeter, county probation officer, last week submitted a quarterly report of the work done in the juvenile court during the past three months, which showed that the quarter has been an unusually busy one. The report was accepted by the county board of supervisors.

The summary follows:
 Total number of children supervised, 240.
 Total number cared for in county hospital, 0.
 Total number committed to detention home, 16.
 Total number returned to own home, 5.
 Total number permitted to remain in own home, 32.
 Per cent of commitment, 6 plus.
 Number of home visits, 239.
 Number of persons interviewed, 221.
 Number of new petitions, 25.
 Number of adoptions, 7.
 Total number committed to institutions, 14.
 There were 46 cases of delinquency, 21 involving boys and 25 girls. A total of 194 dependency cases were handled. Of these cases 32 were permitted to remain in their own homes under supervision of the probation officer, while five were returned to their homes.

BAR FEMALES FROM SACRED MOUNTAIN

No feminine creature, not a cow, nor a mare, nor even a hen may set foot on the sacred lands of Mount Athos monasteries in Greece. But this strictest of monastic settlements has opened its doors to receive 3,000 destitute orphan youngsters, according to a cablegram received by Harry A. Wheeler, Chairman of the Smyrna Special Relief Committee of Illinois.

"They must be boys only, no girls can be received," the good monks stipulate. The orphans are a few of those rendered homeless and friendless by the Smyrna and Thrace tragedies. The monasteries, far from wealthy, can give these children shelter only; their food and clothing is supplied by funds raised in America.

GOVERNOR VISITS BIG FEATHER FARM

GAME BIRDS PARADING

Unique Spectacle Witnessed by State Executive at Evans Game Farm in Kane County, Ill.

The visit of Governor Small and several members of his family to the Wallace Evans game farm in Kane county, recently, was an occasion of more than usual taken to entertain the chief executive of the second greatest commonwealth of this country.

The governor has officially reviewed many notable processions, but none as novel as that which passed before him Saturday. Maneuvered by eight gamekeepers, thousands of brilliantly plumaged pheasants, ducks from Manchuria, Australia, and other remote countries, geese from Egypt and Canada and a fleet of stately white swans passed in review before him—a fashion show de luxe of feathered beauty and grace. The entertainment closed with a deer drive in which more than a hundred of these graceful animals gave an exhibition of high jumps and other athletic stunts which delighted the onlookers.

Unique Spectacle
 That this unique spectacle, which might have delighted and impressed an oriental ruler, gave peculiar pleasure to the governor, could not be doubtful by any one in position to watch his face as this strange and colorful concourse passed in review before him.

He was reminded that his reviewing stand commanded a vision of the favorite hunting grounds of the Indians of pre-pioneer days; that this, the world's greatest game farm, was dedicated to the task of restoring to this region, and the entire country as well—the riches of wild life and free game food which once formed an un-failing source of supply for the original Americans and for the white settlers who supplanted them.

Many Famous Visitors
 The Wallace Evans game farm has been visited by the special representatives of the King of Sweden and the Emperor of Japan, besides many other notable including the late William Rockefeller, General Miles, Rex Beach, Emerson Hough, Senator Gordon of Mississippi, Senator Norbeck of South Dakota, John T. McCutcheon, Colonel Robert McCormick and Julius Rosenwald. The chief game wardens of most of the states have also personally visited this enterprise which once had the distinction of entertaining, in a body, the legislature of Illinois.

Great Game Preserve
 Hundreds of thousands of Ringneck pheasants have been raised and distributed by the Wallace Evans game farm and its annual distribution of eggs of this "King of game birds" is above 100,000. When the prairie chicken and the partridge are mere memories recalled by older sportsmen the boys and young men of America will be having pheasant shooting in plenty and close at home—a condition for which they will mainly have this monster Kane county game farm to thank.

WEST DEERFIELD MAN IS RAISING LEMONS

E. E. Fritsch, constable of West Deerfield, while in Waukegan this week, told his friends that, notwithstanding the zero weather, he has in his cozy home in that township a reminder of the southland and balmy breezes in the form of a lemon tree that is bearing fruit in December in this wintry climate. Two fully developed lemons are on the tree and nearly ready to be picked. The tree is about three feet in height.

NEW LAKE COUNTY ROAD MAP ORDERED

To Be Prepared by Committee of County Board of Which Ejchler is Head

The supervisors Saturday afternoon authorized the printing committee, of which Supervisor Harry Ejchler of Highland Park is chairman, to prepare and have printed a new road map of Lake county. This will bring up to date a map printed in 1919 and which has become obsolete because a large number of highways have been improved or created since the time it was published.

A good deal of the moonshine would not seem to be contrary to the 18th amendment, as it is sold for suicide rather than for beverage purposes.
