FRANK MAYO in "CAUGHT BLUFFING" A UNIVERSAL ATTRACTION

SUNDAY, JAN. 7 7:30 p. m. Don't Miss FRANK MAYO in the stirring story of adventure and romance in The Klondike

"CAUGHT BLUFFING"

The story is laid in Alaska during the gold excitement period when the only law respected by men was carried on the hip in pistol holsters.

Frank Mayo has the role of gambling house proprietor who always plays squarely himself and allows no one in his place to do otherwise. There comes a time, however, when the gambler is forced to resort to the underhand game to save the life of the only girl in the world he has ever loved. He not only saved her life, but despite his reputation for being an ardent woman hater, he loses his heart to her.

The story was written for Mayo and a popular magazine by Jack Bechtold and adapted to the screen by Charles Sarver.

Edna Murphy plays the leading feminine role opposite Mayo and displays an unusual ability for emotional acting. Though in her early twenties, Miss Murphy is rapidly approaching stardom. Others in the supporting cast are Wallace MacDonald, Jack Curtis, Andrew Arbuckle, Ruth Royce, "Bull" Durham, Jack Walters, Scott Turn-Alco Comedy Selznick News

JANE NOVAK in "THELMA"

Is Love alone worth living for - worth dying for? Is it the ONLY satisfying good we can grasp among the shifting shadows of our brief existence?

These are questions asked in Marie Corelli's great novel of the Norseland, "Thelma," which comes to the De Luxe Theatre on Tuesday, Jan. 9, with Jane Novak in the leading role, of the Norwegian girl who married a British nobleman and captivated London society by her beauty and charm.

In these days of tragic romances, with slayings and divorces crowding the public prints, theatregoers will give thanks for a screen romance of such strong, clean, wholesomeness as "Thelma." Millions throughout the world have read and re-read Marie Corelli's novel. It has been published in more than a dozen different languages. And all those who have read it will see it pictured with truly religious adherence to the original story. There have been no deviations in the film version. Chester Bennett, who produced it with uncommon skill, developed all the poignant heart interest, all the sweet charm and all the fiery drama that made the book such a world-wide favorite.

Marie Corelli answers her questions about love with smashing effect. She leaves no doubt about her convictions on this topic. Therefore, critics are hailing "Thelma" as not only one of the foremost artistic successes of the year but one of the most timely and engrossing as well. In the splendid cast are such well known players as Barbara Tennant, Gordon Mullen, Bert Sprout, Vernon Steel, Peter Burke, Jack Rollens, Harvey Clark, June Elvidge, Wedgewood Nowell, Harry Lounsdale and little Virginia Novak.

It's an F. B. O. picture.

Wallace Reid in the Paramount Picture, "The Ghost Breaker"

WALLACE REID

"THE GHOST BREAKER"

Supported by

Lila Lee and Walter Hiers We have booked what we believe to be the greatest Wallace Reid comedy-drama ever shown in our theatre.

This picture is "The Ghost Breaker," and it is a Paramount adaptation of a well known stage play of the same name which scored heavily some years ago. It deals with the adventures of a devil-may-care Kentuckian who aids a beautiful Spanish senorita to rid her castle in Spain of a band of robbers posing as ghosts and eventually wins her love.

There is action aplenty, and in addition to the humor supplied by the star, there is another hilarious brand supplied by Walter Hiers in his first black-face role. Lila Lee is a most capable and winsome leading woman.

COME THRILL WITH VALENTINO IN HIS LATEST TRIUMPH

RODOLPH VALENTINO

"THE YOUNG RAJAH"

Cast includes

Wanda Hawley and Charles Ogle

A Paramount Picture

Here is the greatest Valentino love-drama of them all! With Rodolph the Magnificent first as a virile American college athlete, then as a gorgeous Prince of India braving death for the charming Yankee girl he loves.

A story that sweeps you from New York's glittering ballrooms into the areless mystery and passions of the Orient.

Produced on a sumptuous scale, with settings and costumes of dazzling splendor. (Valentino's costumes designed by Winifred Hudnut.)

More tempestuous love scenes than "The Shiek," more spectacular than "Blood and Sand!"

The brilliant supporting cast includes Wanda Hawley, Charles Ogle, Maude Wayne, Pat Moore, Bertram Grassby, William Boyd, Fanny Midgley, and Spottiswoode Aitken. Comedy

SATURDAY, JAN. 13 Matinee at 2:30 Evening 7:30 p. m.

How would you like the Prince of Wales to propose to you?

Would you turn him down or throw yourself into his outstretched arms?

Would you be happy amid the regal splendors of the throne room?

Or would you feel out of place - like a plain little wren among a flock of dazzling peacocks?

These were the problems that beset a dashing American girl -

Imprisoned in a castle by a Prince Charming who loved her, she REVOLTED! She sought escape but he barred her way.

SHE WAS LITERALLY A PRISONER OF LOVE!

And then the climax so exquisitely romantic it leaves you completely overwhelmed.

Don't miss the greatest of all screen romances -

"IF I WERE QUEEN"

with gorgeous

ETHEL CLAYTON

in her most brilliant role.

The story, which was adapted from the novel "The Three Cornered Kingdom" by De Vernet Raball, has to do with the adventures of an American girl in a mythical principality in the mountain fastnesses of the Balkans. The romantic atmosphere of the memorable "Beverly of Graustark," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other stories that carry one back to the age of chivalry.

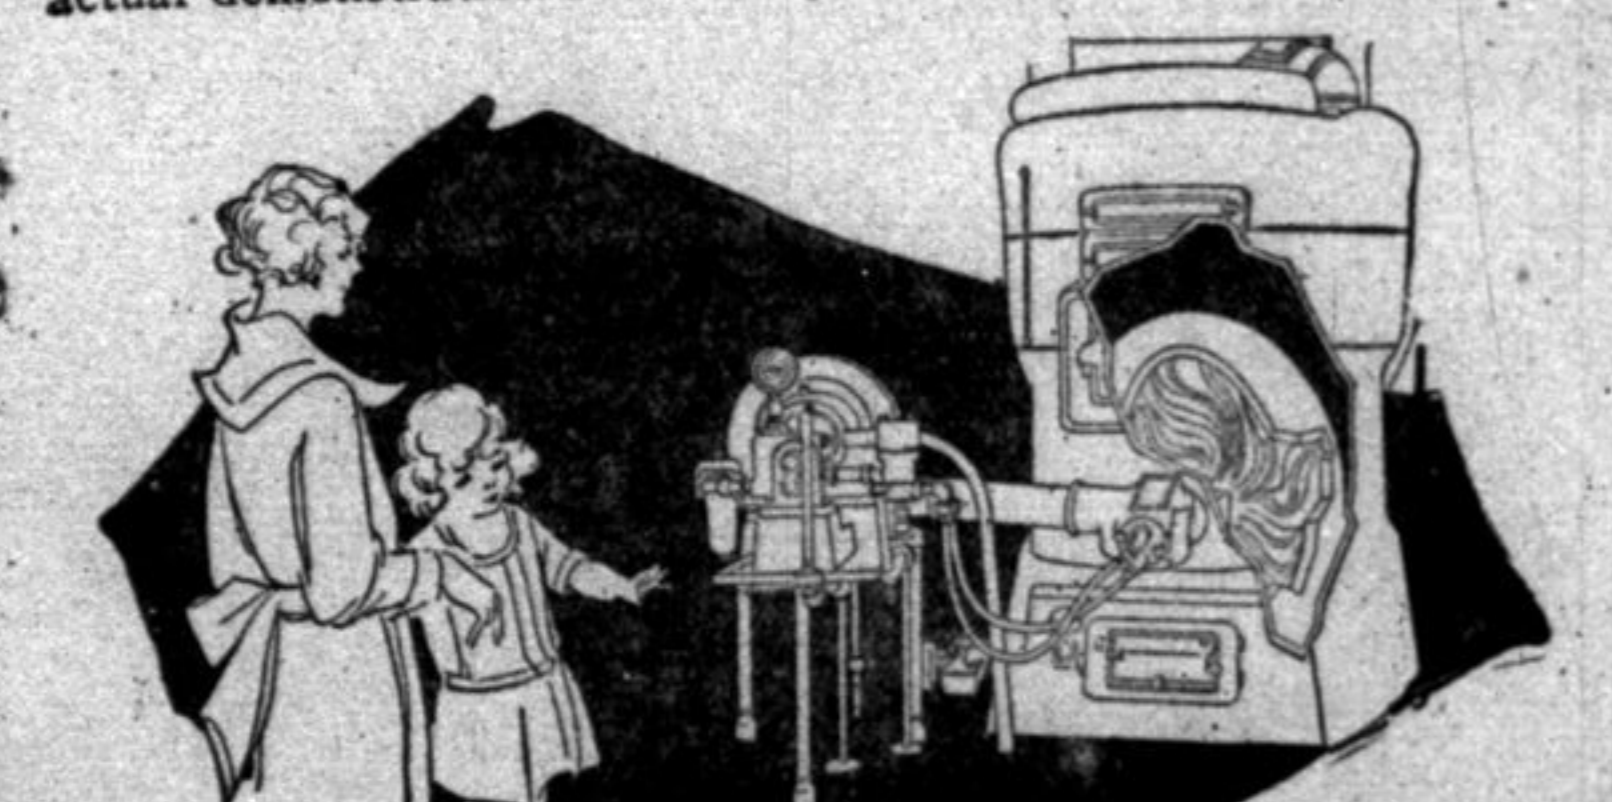

"If I Were Queen" has been constructed on imposing lines. There is, for example, a train wreck, which is quite the most realistic screen has shown in many a day. The court scenes are big with romance and royal pomp. The story moves swiftly to a roasting climax. The skilled hand of the director, Wesley Ruggles, is evident throughout.

Then, too, the cast merits commendation of the highest degree. In addition to Miss Clayton there are Andree Lejon, Warner Baxter, Victory Bateman, Murdoch Mac Quarrie and Genevieve Egan, each of whom contributes in no small measure to the distinction of the photoplay. "If I Were Queen" is sponsored by the Film Working Office of America.

Do Away With Coal Ashes and Dirt

Even the cleanest coal leaves ashes and requires a bin. With the CONTINENTAL all coal, ashes, dirt, odors and work are eliminated. Heat is furnished in abundance automatically by the control of a switch. Fuel Oil is burned instead of coal and there is no comparison in the added cleanliness, comfort, health and satisfaction that it gives over the old coal-burning method. The CONTINENTAL transforms your basement into a new and habitable room that can be made into a cozy den, billiard and library room, play room or gym. Its advantages are tremendous.
