EXPERT ADVICE ON PRUNING OF TREES

CHOOSE WINTER SEASON

No Difficulty to Train if Knife Used When Limbs are Small; Damage Sometimes Done to Mature Trees

Winter is the season of the year chosen as the proper time to trim ornamental trees by many owners of them. Valuable suggestions as to the operation are contained in this article by L. J. Eddy the Public Service company's forester.

It is very little trouble to train a tree into a good shape by using the pruning knife while the limbs are small, but it is usually different to reform a tree after it has grown to maturity. One who understands tree growth, however, can often reshape the top of a neglected tree to advantage, though many who make a business of tree trimming know so little about it that they do more harm than good.

Damaged by Pruning

More mature trees have been hurt by severe pruning than they have been helped. Of course, dead or dying trees should be removed no matter what the age of the tree. This should be done by cutting off the limb of the nearest healthy crotch. A limb should not be cut off square across unless the tree is apparently in a dying condition and the whole top is treated thus to save its life. In such a case a second pruning should follow within two years, at which time the stubs left at the first trimming should be cut off in a proper manner near the newly started limbs. Healthy silver maples and willows are frequently cut in this way, but the maples in particular would better be cut down at once than to subject the public to the dangers of the insidious decay that almost always follows such an operation on these trees and completes their destruction promptly.

Neglected Trees

Trees that have been neglected a long time frequently have interfering or crossing branches, or are too low or densely headed for the place where they are growing. Defects of this kind may be at least partially remedied. The removal of the limbs by cutting them off at a crotch in such a manner that the wound is parrelled with the remaining branch, inflicts least possible damage. Such a wound in a healthy tree will soon heal over if the cut is made through the slight crotch this cut can be made to the present at the base of a branch. The trunk of the cut can be made to the trunk the better the appearance when the wound is healed. The closer the cut the better the wound, but the difference is unimportant if the wood is well protected until it is healed. These operations are entirely different in purpose and result from the "healing in" or "heading back" so often practiced under the guise of tree trimming either from a false notion of pruning should not be attempted, forming a tree or for the passage of wires.

Changing of Form

Changing the form of a tree by Each species has its own form or forms and no attempt should be made to change or distort a tree from its original habit of growth. Successful pruning will accentuate rather than disguise a tree's characteristics.

All cuts should be made so that no stubs or protuberances are left to prevent quick healing. Small wounds need no after treatment if the cut is well made. Large wounds should have the wood of the center of the cut well protected to prevent decay until the new growth has had an opportunity to heal over the cut. An application made to the center of the cut to preserve the wood should not be permitted to come near the cambium or inner bark, especially of soft wooded trees like the tulip and magnolia, as the oil or other substances contained in the paint, tar or other covering may spread to the cambium layer and kill it. It is well not to make any application within half an inch of the outside of the wound unless the coating has been thoroughly tested.

Remove Dead Wood

Dead wood should be entirely removed, the cut being through the good live tissue. Removing such wood frequently exposes decayed cavities from bad stubs or injuries which have started decay that has followed back to the main limbs or the trunk. The treatment of such cavities is the province of tree surgery, but if one thinks of having some such work done he should be very careful to employ responsible persons.

One source of trouble with a large tree that has developed with two trunks or branches instead of three or more is the liability of their splitting apart in the crotch. This is especially characteristic of the elm. Careful attention to the early pruning of trees may eliminate this defect, but when it exists in mature trees it is frequently advisable to connect the branches by a strong cable in order to prevent the limbs from being torn apart.

Events of Interest in the Last Week Here and There in This Section; and County Seat Doings

Mrs. William Riess, aged 41 years, died last week at Waukegan, after a 60 hour sleep from which she could not be awakened, all efforts of physicians to arouse her having proved futile.

The building owned by the Knights of Phythias, 110 Madison street, Waukegan, has been sold to Joe Oltusky of that city, for a consideration said to be around the $30,000 mark.

Thieves, gaining an entrance by cutting and jimmying a window in the rear of the rectory to St. Joseph's Catholic church at Libertyville, ransacked the entire lower part of the home of Father S. Luttrell, and escaped with a gold watch belonging to his housekeeper, and $2 in change.

The Salvation Army and Navy Military hotel, Waukegan, for years the largest hotel in Waukegan, has been purchased from the Salvation Army by a corporation—a group of Chicago business men headed by B. W. Sangor. The new owners will take possession February 1.

The most sensational realty deal which involves the construction of a huge railroad depot and terminal in the downtown section of Waukegan, was closed today when the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee electric railroad purchased from Frank Dady the Arlington hotel block, and 44 feet of frontage on County street from M. B. Salmon.

Walter Pieniazak, of North Chicago, an employe of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company, was ground to death under the wheels of a Chicago, North Shore electric street car at Waukegan, last week. ### BOOST MILK PRICE TO 12 CENTS A QUART

Report from Waukegan is That Raise Due to Demand of the Producers

Announcement was made by Waukegan dealers last week that effective immediately the price of milk had been advanced to 12 cents a quart, the old price being 11 cents. Dealers attribute the increase to the higher price demanded by the milk producers whom, they say, have increased their price from $2.30 per hundred pounds to $2.85 per hundred.

This is an increase of more than fifty cents per hundred and the only thing left for us to do was to pass the increase on to the consumers," one local dealer said today.

Other increases announced by dealers here are as follows:
Coffee cream—half pints, now 16 cents; were 15 cents.

Whipping cream—half pints, now 25 cents; were 20 cents.
Buttermilk—quart 10 cts; was 9 cts.

An increase of one cent per pint is announced in the milk price. Pints formerly sold for 6 cents—they now cost 7 cents which is at the rate of 14 cents per quart.

INDIAN RACE NOT DYING OUT; GROWS

U.S. Commissioner Reports More Births Than Deaths in Last Ten Years

The Indian race is not a dying one. E. B. Merritt, assistant Indian commissioner, says the 340,917 Indians now in the United States represent an increase of approximately 13,500 over the number ten years ago.

The increase has been brought about, the assistant commissioner says, by improved housing conditions and increased hospital and medical facilities. There are 78 hospitals at the Indian reservations and schools, and there are employed in the Indian service 150 physicians, 81 nurses and 70 field matrons, the latter visiting the homes of Indians to improve conditions.

"We are educating in our Indian schools and in the public schools of the country 60,000 Indian children," Mr. Merritt says, "and are asking for increased appropriations with a view of ultimately placing every Indian of school age in school, on the theory that education, industry and sanitary conditions are the solutions of the Indian problem."

Being urged not to let any grass grow under their feet, the young crowd are doing a lot of fox trotting.

Another of those great evils from which the country is suffering, is the tough, stringy, and streaked cold boiled ham they put off on you in these decadent days.

Some folks are now carefully keeping their New Year's resolution that they would keep out of sight of their creditors.

TRYING TO DEVISE SKID-PROOF ROAD

National Motorist Association Devoting Attention to This Feature

How to make the modern highway skidproof is an engineering problem to which the National Motorists' association is going to direct its attention this coming year. The number of automobile accidents accompanied by fatalities which can be attributed to slippery pavement surfaces has been sufficient in past years to make solution of the problem imperative.

An announcement just made public says in part:

"Thus far the problem of constructing and maintaining a smooth non-skid road has baffled the skill of the engineer. The roads most nearly non-skid in the country today are those constructed of brick, or blocks of granite.

"A concrete roadway can be more non-skid by scarifying or roughening the surface before the top finishing hardens, but experience shows that it will not stay non-skid. Earth, waste, oil drippings from traffic, all fill up the crevices in short order with the result that the road is soon without the non-skid feature."

Feeling that the time has come when the utmost in skill and science should be brought into play in building American highways, the National Motorists' association intends to co-operate to the fullest extent. A study will be made to determine whether concrete and asphalt surface can be made as nearly skid-proof as brick or granite block.

LAND TAX REDUCED 27 CENTS ON $1,000

Six Per Cent Reduction on the Assessed Valuation of Railway Tracts

Low A. Hendee, county clerk has set to work a force of clerks figuring the state tax as affected by the six per cent reduction on assessed valuation for state purposes on all lands and railroad lands of Lake county.

The six per cent reduction means 27 cents tax for each $1,000 assessed valuation on lands in the county. This does not affect lots or any other property, and makes no difference in the city or city school taxes.

The state tax rate is 45 cents on each $100 assessed value remains the same as last year.

While the six per cent reduction does not mean such a large amount for Lake County it will cause a $1,000,000 decrease in revenue to the entire state.

Anyway the students say the examinations should not be made so difficult that the teachers and professors can't pass 'em.

Claimed the non-athletic students are not given sufficient attention in schools and colleges, but anyway they are allowed to come to the games and holler for the teams.
