Temporarily wounded pride is often mistaken for permanent heart-ache.

No difficulty was experienced at Christmas in finding people willing to play Santa Claus with gifts provided by other folks.

Formerly people used to seek kindred spirits, but some folks will take any old kind of spirits these times.

ART EDUCATION FOR CHILDREN IS AIDED

Urged and Helped by Women's Clubs Interested in This Work

The art education of children is being interested in their welfare. Funds are accumulating to establish a Children's room in the Art Institute, where they may be grounded in fundamentals of real creative art. It is hoped to have installed in this room a series of niches in which are shown miniature figures engaged in the actual work of producing objects of art. In this way may be shown the construction of a ring from the raw material to the finished gem; how an etching is made from the original copper ore to the printed sheet; and how textiles are made in like manner. It is also planned to have traveling exhibits, housed in specially constructed cases, which may be sent from the Institute to various schools. One of the most interesting lessons in the absorbing study of light and shade, is to select some interesting objects outdoors, and paint it at different periods of the day. And to have the same object painted as eight different artists, is a most revealing lesson, for it will show as many different aspects as there are painters. The idea behind this is to indicate how externals impress themselves on the mind of each particular artist.

The School of Life is an institution where no one ever gets a diploma by cramming the night before examination.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

The records of the Highland Park public library show that 1,869 books were withdrawn from the library during December, 1922. Assuming that an average of two hours of a reader's time was spent on each book, aside from the time spent in selecting and carrying home the books, 3,738 hours were spent last month in reading books from the library. These 3,738 hours represent 155 days. That is, it would take one person, reading steadily night and day, over five months to read all the books which were issued from the library last month. And yet December is by no means one of the library's busiest months.

Of these 1,869 books, how many are you responsible for having read? Or didn't you read any books last month? If not, why not come into the library this week and become acquainted with some of these books which other people are reading and enjoying?

Speed is the watchword in all state departments of Illinois having to do with the coming distribution among former service men of the $55,000,000 bonus. The friendly suit to test the validity of the bonus by way of a legal formality has been filed in the circuit court at Springfield and will be heard early in the January term. Its next movement will be to the supreme court, and state officials confidently expect a decision by that tribunal early in the spring.

Governor Len Small, State Treasurer Edward E. Miller, Carlos E. Black, adjutant general, comprising the service Recognition Board, against which the friendly action is directed, were served with process by a deputy sheriff of Sangamon county December 20. One of the most pleasing Christmas parties was held at the Center on Thursday evening, Dec. 21. It was a party was held at the Center on the Americanization class. The Leaders club furnished a tree and arranged a nice program of games and dancing. Everyone was made to feel at home and it was a great demonstration of democracy. Mr. Morris, one of the teachers, remarked that an evening like that is worth two of the regular lessons for it teaches them real American citizenship and neighbors.

The Junior Boy's club assisted the Lake County Tuberculosis society with the sale of Christmas Seals and with the advertising.
