THE SNOWSHOE TRAIL

Superlative cast including Roy Stewart

For downright, clean-cut drama, it would be hard to beat Jane Novak's latest melodrama "The Snowshoe Trail."

Based on a novel by Edison Marshall, this most recent F. B. O. picture starring Miss Novak, has to do with the experiences of a beautiful society girl who goes adventuring in the frozen places of the North in search of her fiancé. Her struggles in blizzards and against the other hardships of the snow-bound region develop several thrilling episodes which are calculated to hold the spectator spell-bound—or very close to it.

Miss Novak, always superb in out-door characterizations, surpasses herself in this picture. Of unusual beauty and appeal, she is fascinating in her fur garments. In the big situations, she rises superbly to emotional heights that bring into effect every ounce of talent she possesses.

Roy Stewart is equally good as her leading man. Always a rugged, virile, upstanding character, he could hardly be improved upon. Others in the cast are Lloyd Whitlock, Herbert Prior, Kate Tomcray, Spottiswood Aitkin and Chai Hung, a noted Oriental player, who gives to the story an element of comedy that serves now and then to lighten the dramatic power of the theme.

Joe. M. Schenk presents

EAST IS WEST

Directed by Sidney Franklin; Adapted by Frances Marion from the play by Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer. Produced by William Harris, Jr.

A First National Attraction

What does "East is West" Mean?

When it comes to a matter of love and hate, good and evil, West is East, and East is West. And that's true. To prove it the story takes an altogether delirious little China maid, who "don't feel China," and puts her in danger of the hideous things that can happen to a Chinese girl whose father sells her as a slave. In the picture this little Ming Toy, who later boasts she is "99 per cent American girl" is Constance Talmadge, and all through the picture she seemed to be just about the most charming thing ever seen on the screen.

The story begins in China with little Ming Toy flashing into a most un-Chinese and thoroughly American bit of temper in a shoe shop because the shoe merchant dares hint that her feet are too large for beauty. By the time she has said her say with her tongue and her paper umbrella the street before the shoe shop looks as if China had just had a bad spell of riot and raw rebellion. This, naturally enough, attracts the attention of Billy Benson who happens to be "seeing China." Billy is an athletic young American, son of the American Minister, and as Ming Toy has about 47 parcels to manage, as well as 16 little sisters and her temper, Billy sends them all home in rickshaws or whatever the things are called in China. That is how he meets Ming Toy and is all he sees of her just then, but we are in mysterious China and know some thrilling thing is about to happen. And it does.

EBB TIDE

Directed by George Melford

Jacqueline Logan in "Ebb Tide" A George Melford Production

By E. L. STEVENSON Every reader of Robert Louis Stevenson, the famous British novelist, will be delighted to learn that one of his most powerful stories, "Ebb Tide," a dramatic tale of the South Seas, has been pictured by Paramount and that it will be the offering at this theatre for two days.

Here is a picture directed by George Melford, the man who made "The Sheik," "Burning Sands" and other screen masterpieces. The cast includes such screen favorites as Lila Lee, James Kirkwood, Hutton, George Fawcett, Noah Raymond, and Jacqueline Logan, and all take part in one of the strongest and most dramatic stories ever screened.

Talk about thrills! The picture is packed with them. Fanning three human devils starting at Papeete who suddenly are thrown into a vortex of real drama. It is a story of regeneration and love, and there is humor and pathos happily blended in a congruous whole. An unfolding of this remarkable Stevenson story will captivate, charm and thrill you. Of course you will see the picture. You cannot afford to miss it. Comedy

A DAUGHTER OF LUXURY

A Paramount Picture

Agnes Ayres in "A Daughter of Luxury" A Paramount Picture

A role so unique as to make the picture different from any story hitherto filmed is portrayed by Agnes Ayres, famous Paramount star, in her latest vehicle, "A Daughter of Luxury," which will be presented at this theatre Saturday. The role that of a girl reared in luxury and suddenly left destitute, is not, however, some new bizarre fancy. Though the situation is primarily dramatic it has been treated in a light vein. Miss Ayres, as Mary Fenion, accepts her trials with a keen sense of humor, and drama and comedy are admirably mixed, making the picture most entertaining and amusing. Among her experiences, Miss Ayres is forced to pose as a wealthy heiress and is involved in a burglar insurance fraud. The picture is lavishly done and the star wears a succession of gorgeous gowns. Paul Powell, director of many successes, directed the production, and the cast is admirable. It includes Tom Gallery, as leading man; Edward Martindel, Sylvia Allen, Barton and other noted players. Comedy. Two acts of Vaudeville.

recently stated that the securities of public utility companies demand the careful attention of every thinking investor.

Money invested in public utility companies is invested in an enterprise operating as a most essential factor to present day life, selling and delivering their product the same instant it is produced, and receiving compensation practically upon a cash basis.

Public utilities expand as the community expands, and not only profits by the demands of modernized industry, but also reaps benefits of the modern desire for comforts and convenience.

Public utilities are emerging from five years of heavy costs, inadequate rates and general business difficulties, and are experienced in the practice of operating economically.

CHURCH BASKETBALL LEAGUE IS FORMED

Games Last Saturday Show Fast Playing; Contests Scheduled For This Week

Some fast playing is promised in the Church Basketball League just organized by the Leaders Club of Community Service, if last Saturday's games are to be considered a sample.

The Methodist team showed some real class in floor work and also in shooting baskets, when they shut out the fast Presbyterian team to the score of 21 to 0. Leagler and Boyd of the Grace church team seemed to be able to find the baskets with ease while the Presby's, who were doing some fast team work and had several chances, could not locate the baskets.

The real thriller of the afternoon was the game between the girls of the Ebenezer Evangelical church and the Presbyterian girls. Both teams of girls put up good games, and fast ones, and at the finish of the last half the score stood Ebenezer, 6; Presbyterian, 4.

Next Saturday afternoon the following games will be played at the high school:

Boys—Presbyterian vs. Evangelical; Methodist vs. Episcopal. Girls—Presbyterian vs. Evangelical; Ebenezer vs. Episcopal. Games start at 2:30. Forty games will be played in these series, four games each Saturday.
