EASTER CAROLING BECOMES POPULAR

IN SUNRISE SINGING PLAN

Gaining in Favor with Public Like Yuletide Custom: Many Old Favorite Hymns Sung

One of the newest phases of the community music movement, which has made such important headway in this country since the war, is outdoor caroling on Easter morning along the lines of the very successful street caroling on Christmas Eve. Plans already are under way in many places for the rehearsing of the young people's groups which usually take part in the singing, and it is probable that within the next few years this public-spirited musical activity will become as characteristic a feature of the Easter celebration as the Christmas caroling is of the Yuletide festivities. The pleasant weather likely to prevail in the early spring is an added advantage.

Massed Chorus
 Great massed choruses of men, women and children have gathered for sunrise singing on Easter morning, notably on the Mount of Olive near Los Angeles and on the Mall in Central Park, New York, but the idea which is now being fostered by choir and club leaders, Sunday school superintendents and community organizers, is the recruiting and training of smaller bands to traverse a fixed route through the town or take their stand at different locations, bringing to all the message of joy and awakening life. The sick and shut-ins who cannot go to church to hear the services are given particular attention. The initial impetus has been given the movement by the Community Service, Inc.

Like the Christmas Eve caroling, now held in hundreds of cities and towns throughout the country, outdoor singing at Easter is the revival and transplanting of a beautiful Old World custom. As is well known, many of the practices connected with the festival of the Resurrection are traceable to the heathen races of northern Europe, to whom the occasion represented the coming of spring, release from the bonds of winter and greeting to the re-birth in all nature. Easter eggs, signifying the germinating fertility of the season, Easter salutations and Easter plays and spectacles come mostly from this source. The caroling is an expansion of the friendly salutation.

Favorite Carols
 Not more than five or six hymns are used by the outdoor singers, and the actual programs are often confined to two or three of these, repeated as occasion demands. The favorite Easter hymns probably are "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," by Charles Wesley; "The Strife Is O'er; The Battle's Done," arranged from Palestrina, and "Come Ye Faithful, Raise the Strain," by Arthur Sullivan.

Daddy, Daddy,
 Have you any money?
 Yes, sir! Yes, Sir.
 Lots of it, Sonny,
 Some for the sick folks,
 Some for the town,
 Some for the auditorium, where the children can sit down.

So far not much complaint is made about the electric light bills that are run up by the courting parlors.
