The following editorial, "A Real Need," which appeared in Sunday's Presbyterian church bulletin, was written by Rev. Martin Luther Thomas and is well worth reading.

A REAL NEED

Man is primarily a social being and each of our natures demand and must have social intercourse with our fellow men or we will grow stale and cankered. Up until two years ago, our community was greatly inter-related, everyone knowing everyone else intimately, but conditions have greatly changed, new people are constantly arriving in our community and are feeling the lack and restraint of social intercourse.

We do not mean to be self-centered or unsocial and many of us will feel greatly surprised when the matter is even mentioned, but the facts are too obvious to need an enlargement. We must build a healthy social relationship, especially for the wives and mothers who are constantly tied in the house. To do this it will demand some time and well directed efforts on the part of our people, especially our ladies. The picking out of a few and placing them in small groups will not answer the purpose, it will only make for a divided community and church life. What is needed, is an inclusive social programme where all may participate if they so desire. We trust that our leaders will be able to work out such a programme.

OIL BURNERS

For the past year we have been experimenting with oil burners and we wanted one to fit with our policy: "THE BEST ONLY AT THE LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICE."

We wanted an oil burner that would give the owner the least trouble because the owner's troubles are our troubles if we install the burner.

We wanted one that was economical in fuel.

We wanted one that was gravity feed so it would not have to depend on electricity, saving the cost of operation and increasing reliability.

We have just installed a Worthington Oil Burner in our store at 15 South St. Johns Avenue, and invite anyone interested to call and inspect the same, whether he or she intends to install an oil burner or not, or if he or she already has one installed, we would be glad to demonstrate our burner.

Price of the one we have installed is $120.00 with tank extra, and we believe it is the best offered on the market for anywhere near the price and better than many that cost two or three times as much.
