FINGER PRINTS AS USED IN THE NAVY

AS IDENTIFICATION MEANS

Many Interesting Circumstances Cited to Show Value of the Plan in Keeping up Naval Records

In the Navy Department at Washington, D. C. under the direction of the Bureau of Navigation, is an office which has on file the finger prints of each enlisted man who has enlisted in the navy since January 1, 1907. Through the operation of this system, it is impossible for any man, whose finger prints are on file, to lose his identity in case of death.

"This system is used primarily to prevent undesirable men from entering the service under assumed names. Since this system was installed on January 1, 1907, 13418 men have been identified. These men had previously been in the service and were either deserters or dishonorably discharged from the service and were attempting to return under assumed names, but as soon as their finger prints reached the department, their identities were immediately established.

Over Million Records

The navy finger office now has on file over a million records which have all been properly classified and can be readily found within a few minutes. The system in use is the "Henry System of Classification and Uses of Finger Prints." There are only four general types of patterns used; the arch, the loop, the whorl and the composite. The human hand is a hundred thousand secondary classification numbers. A man who has had his finger prints taken and placed on file in the bureau can not return to the service under an assumed name without the fact becoming known, for when his finger print record is taken and classified under his assumed name, they will be identical with the first record obtained.

Used Since 400 B. C.

Finger prints have been used since 400 B. C. and since that time there has never been found two finger prints that are identical. It would appear beyond conception that in so vast a number of individual leaves in the forest there should be no two without points of differences, and scientists state that there has never been a man who has found two leaves that were exactly alike. This has been found the case in finger prints. Not since the year 400 B. C. have there ever been found two finger prints that were exactly alike. The contour of the pattern may be the same, but the ridge characteristic, upon which identity is established, are invariably unlike in different individuals.

No Two Alike

The possibility of a ridge characteristic appearing in the same place in two different individuals fingers is one in a million, and as each finger has about sixty-five ridge characteristics, it can be readily seen that it would be impossible for two different individuals to have the same ridge characteristics in their fingers. By making a comparison of all ten fingers, it would be found beyond a shadow of a doubt that no different individuals would have the same finger prints.

The finger print system has been found to be absolutely reliable by all police departments throughout the world, and is the only absolute system of identification known today.

DEAN OF WOMEN AT N. W. U. ON FURLOUGH

About to Take Year of Absence For Rest and Travel; Is Widely Known

Mary Ross Potter, dean of women at Northwestern university and well known in educational circles of the country, is about to take an absence of a year for rest and travel. Some time ago, Dean Potter found herself in poor health—nothing serious, she told President Scott, but weariness resultant from hard work and unceasing responsibility. She suggested a year's furlough and President Scott agreed. She leaves Evanston, May 1st, for a few months' rest in Michigan. Thence she will go abroad for several months. Dean Potter hasn't made out her European itinerary but besides travel and recreation, she says she plans to do some studying. Dean Potter has been dean of women at Northwestern for eighteen years and did not take her sabbatical leave three years ago when it fell due.

Her place as acting dean of women will be filled by Mrs. Winifred Goodsmith Richardson, 4528 Bacon street, Chicago, who was graduated from the college of liberal arts of Northwestern University in 1911. During the interim Mrs. Richardson, whose husband died a few years ago during the flu epidemic while in training at Fort Sheridan, has done volunteer work with the United Charities, Chicago, and welfare work at Chicago Commons. For two years recently Mrs. Richardson was engaged in social service activities with groups of telephone operators of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

PLAN TO BAR HEAVY TRUCKS IN SPRING

Five Counties, Including Lake, May Keep Them Off Soft Roads 45 Days

An order barring motor trucks weighing 8,000 pounds or more, including the load, from all unpaved roads in Lake, Kane, DuPage, Will, and Kendall counties for a period of forty-five days, will be issued within the next few days if the present weather continues, it is announced by the superintendents of highways in the five counties named.

Under the state law highway commissioners have the power to prohibit the use of unpaved roads to trucks weighing 8,000 pounds for a period of 45 days in the spring of the year when the frost is coming out of the ground. The roads are soft at this period of the year and the heavy trucks tear them up so badly that it is almost impossible to get them back in shape.

The American people are not worrying because the office seekers now have to travel farther to see President Harding.

Social Calls By Long Distance

Keep in touch with your friends in other cities by means of the Bell Long Distance telephone system.

Long distance telephone calls have that personal touch which even the most personal of letters lack and are equal to two letters—the one you write and the reply. Besides, they tell in minutes what the written word takes hours or days to transmit.

Evening and night rates for "station-to-station" calls are lower than day rates. From 8:30 p. m. until midnight the evening rate of a little over one-half the day rate applies. From midnight to 4:30 a. m. the night rate of about one-fourth the day rate is in effect.
