

GIRLS, AND THE VALUE OF Y. W. C. A. TO THEM

Advantages of Associations To Industrial Girls; Rules at Home and Abroad

The acid test of any organization is made when any part of the group for which it was created gives voice spontaneously to what it means to them. Recently a national Y. W. C. A. secretary asked a group of industrial girls what the Y. W. C. A. meant to them. Quickly came these answers:

A place where a lonely girl can feel at home. A place where one learns to express herself. A bright light shining from a place where there is warmth of friendship and reality.

A place where one broadens out and gets a knowledge of the world and people. A place to supply lacks in education. A place to be better fitted for one's job.

Learning together that we are not only workers but have a larger something to give. A place where we learn the right feeling toward our work and its value.

A group of people asking justice and right, believing human beings are the most important things in the world. The A-B-C's of what the Young Woman's Christian association would have the industrial girls at home and abroad stand for is summed up in the creed issued by the girls at Altamont Industrial conference:

- 1. I believe in God. God is the great and powerful spirit of the world, a loving person with whom we may have relationship. The life and teachings of Jesus Christ help us understand what God is like. 2. I believe in myself. I owe it to myself to be all I can be. 3. I believe in my job. It is my chance to share in the work of the world, to be of service to other people. My work should be characterized by honesty, punctuality, and loyalty. 4. I believe in my employer. To help him in every way possible. I believe he will do right by me if I do the same by him. 5. I believe in the other worker. I owe it to the other worker to be cheerful and helpful at all times possible. It is my responsibility to join with the other workers to help improve conditions. 6. I believe in my home. In the changed condition of life, there is need for real homes. I shall do all I can to be a proper homemaker myself. 7. I believe in my community. It is my responsibility to know all about my community and to do all I can to better it. 8. I believe in my nation. I owe it to my nation to have the right spirit of patriotism, thought of loyalty and self-sacrifice in the times of peace as well as war. It is my duty to help make real the ideals of brotherhood and democracy for which our nation was founded. 9. I believe in the world. I believe America will be most truly great when she helps to spread brotherhood among all nations.

ORRINGTON HOTEL FORMAL OPENING

Splendid New Hostel Recently Completed at Evanston; Notable Features

It is pointed out that for those who seek a winter or permanent hotel home with every comfort and convenience, the Orrington offers accommodations far above the average, with the addition of suburban location and 22-minute transportation to Chicago. WORK NEVER HURTS ANYBODY, YOU KNOW

Anyhow It Isn't Half So Injurious as a Habit of loafing Becomes

Those who are so exercised over children doing a reasonable amount of labor are now inveighing against the long hours and alleged conditions of boys on the farm. Their pity is misplaced, says the Express of Monticello, Iowa. So far as future industry, manliness and good citizenship is concerned we will back the farm boy against the thirteen-year-old boys in town, who are obliged to loaf because the law prohibits their employment. We do not believe in grinding child labor, nor do we believe in keeping children from reasonable hours of light labor. Many a child has been developed into a loafer by not furnishing him a task in early life.

CORONER NOT CALLED IN MRS. MCGATH CASE

Regarding the report in a Chicago Sunday paper that Coroner Taylor had been called upon to investigate allegations said to have been contained in an anonymous letter touching the death of Mrs. Virginia McGath at Highwood last week, the coroner yesterday said that he had not been officially notified of anything of the kind. Dr. Winner of the state health board, the coroner had learned, had been in Waukegan, but that official had not seen the coroner nor communicated with him regarding the McGath death. Dr. Taylor said. He was inclined to discredit the Chicago report. The woman died in a Waukegan hospital last week, the cause being attributed to eating of fungi believed to be mushrooms, which were supposed to have been a poison.
