

As you look at the wasted resources of the United States, it is evident that there has been too much conversation and not enough conservation. Much has been said about the evils of the smoke nuisance, and that was before the women took it up.

If a part of the energy used in making golf drivers were devoted to pushing the bucksaw, some of our national problems would be solved. A tax on luxuries is suggested, but it will come hard on people who buy their luxuries before the necessities.

New Roadster

Business men—with whom the runabout has always been very popular—are well pleased with the changes embodied in this model. Always rugged, the car has been made decidedly trimmer and more comfortable. This result is obtained by raising the radiator and enlarging the cowl, making a decided improvement in looks and providing more leg room. A well designed top and slanting windshield do their share toward adding a finished, clean-cut appearance. Make it a point to see the other new models also on display in our show room.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

PLANT BULBS NOW, BLOOM NEXT YEAR

TULIPS, NARCISSUS, ETC.

Hyacinths and Others Should Be Started in Fall to Get Results Following Season

By F. F. Rockwell
 (Horticultural Editor of "Farm and Fireside")

If you love flowers, but have only a limited amount of time to devote to growing them, there is nothing that blooms that will give you greater satisfaction than the spring-flowering bulbs, such as tulips, narcissus, crocuses, hyacinths, and the like.

The reason for this is, that the flowers are already in the bulb when you buy them.

All you have to do is to put the bulbs in the ground, where they remain over winter, and with the first warm days of spring, old Mother Nature gets busy and coaxes the flowers out, without any trouble on your part. And they are in full bloom when your hardy flowers have scarcely begun to come to life.

Wonderful Darwin Tulips

Standing on erect stiff stems, two to three feet high, their giant cups remain in perfect condition for days, only refreshed by the rains and dews; and the range of gorgeous colors which they cover cannot be described in words. Among the dozens of varieties there are to select from, the following are especially satisfactory. Clara Butt, a beautiful, deep rose pink. Barrone de la Tonnay is a deeper shade, with the edges of the petals lighter colored, so that when first opening it looks almost exactly like a beautiful rose. Europe is a deep flaming red. Rev. Ewbank a wonderful orchid shade of lavender, Louis IX, considered by many the most beautiful of all tulips, is purple and old gold. Marconi, extremely heavy in growth and one of the last to bloom, is so dark as to look almost black.

Selecting Tulips

To have tulips for a stretch of considerably more than a month, some of the Single Early and Cottage Garden varieties should be added to the Darwins. These two types are not only earlier than the Darwins, but much smaller, and if they are planted with the Darwins, should be put in front of them.

Narcissus For Years

When you are planning your tulip bulbs, include some narcissus. They are just as easy to grow, and from a few bulbs planted this fall, you will enjoy flowers for years to come. "Paper Whites" and the "Chinese Sacred Lily" are not hardy north of Washington, D. C., for planting out of doors; but most of the other varieties are just as hardy as the tulips, and many of them may be "naturalized,"—planted out under trees, or along the edge of shrubbery, where they will make themselves perfectly at home, and come up spring after spring just as if they had naturally grown there like any native wild flower.

Among the best of the narcissi for planting in the garden, or in beds around the base of the house, are such sorts as Emperor and Empress, the former a most magnificent big golden fellow, with a giant "trumpet." Glory of Leiden, "the king of daffodils," was given its nickname before the appearance of King Alfred and Van Waveren's Giant.

Hyacinths For Formal Garden

Hyacinths are still popular where a formal "bed" of flowers is desired, but they are by no means limited to such use, as their bright intense colors lend a note of cheer to the early spring landscape that is like the song of the first bluebird, wherever they may be planted. A few clumps of a half-dozen each, in the shelter of the house foundation, or in the hardy garden, will prove the first, and therefore a doubly welcome, sign of returning spring.

And not to be forgotten are the little crocuses, which are the first of all to bloom, and which can be scattered broadcast over your lawn, or used as a "border" for the beds of other bulbs.

With a moderate supply of these four kinds of bulbs—crocuses, hyacinths, narcissi, and tulips—your home will be made gay from late March to June; and, best of all, they will come back spring after spring to welcome the bluebirds and robins. Isn't that worth the few hours work that will be required to plant them this fall?

How to Plant

Planting bulbs is about the easiest kind of gardening there is. All you have to do is to cover them about twice as deep as they are thick thru. This will mean three to four inches deep (to the top of the bulb) for narcissus, hyacinths, and tulips. If the soil is light and sandy, or the bulbs extra large, they may be put five inches deep. Crocuses, being much smaller, should be put about two inches deep.

Where the bulbs are to be planted right in the sod, all that is necessary is to make a cut with a spade or a turf edger; and then make a hole with a "dibber" or a sharp stick. In beds or borders the soil should be dug up and well prepared, so as to make it easy to get the bulbs down to the right depth. The richer the soil of course the better they will do, but do not use any fresh manure. Coarse bone meal, well worked into the soil, is the best thing. Planting can be done any time up until the ground freezes hard, but the sooner after the bulbs are received the better. The beds may be covered with leaves or old manure, after the ground freezes hard, but this is not necessary except where the winters are very severe.

POST OFFICE GAINS IN BUSINESS LARGE

Great Increase Makes Necessary Addition of Many More Employees

In order to take care of the constantly increasing volume of business, Postmaster General New has increased the U. S. postoffice staff by 3,200 clerks, 3,000 carriers and 500 laborers. The business of the Post Office department is not only much greater than ever before, but it is increasing at an unprecedented rate. Even with this additional help, located at important points in the country, the Post Office department will be hard put to handle the business. During the last fiscal year the Post Office department handled 18,000,000,000 pieces of mail, of which 12,000,000,000 were letters. This was an average of 112 letters for every man, woman and child in the United States. In addition to the mail carriers and the railway mail trains, the government uses a fleet of 6,000 motor trucks and an army of rural route conveyances to get the mail delivered.

What the American people need is to use their arm muscles a little more and their hind legs a little less.

Europe resounds with the tramp of armed men, while in this country the noise is being made by the heavy feet of the fox trotters.

National Education Week will be thoroughly celebrated by some very interesting football games.

ROOFING METALS

An important branch of our business is the making and fixing of all kinds of roof metal work, including plain and ornamental copings, capitals, finials, bases, skylights, etc. These are accurately fashioned and fitted for durability. Our prices are fair, consistent with good work.

THE D'ORLEANS

When kings feasted, Solid Silver was their pride, and today it is still Solid Silver that contributes the final touch of luxury to the table laid for a formal dinner. To meet the exacting demands of such functions, Charles E. Graves & Company announce the introduction of the D'Orleans pattern of table silver.

This table silver de luxe has a richness and inspiration of design that lends a distinctive beauty to the table it adorns, and so adds immeasurably to the impression created by the dining-room as a whole. The D'Orleans is truly a design worthy of becoming a part of the most carefully conceived decorative scheme.
