INDIANS NOW ARE TELEPHONE USERS

In Early Days Their Prejudice Had To Be Overcome Very Slowly

When the telephone was introduced into Oklahoma—then the Indian territory—some 38 years ago, the prejudice of the Cherokee Indians had first to be overcome. In 1885, the Cherokee legislature granted a license to a small company to build a telephone line from Tahlequah to Muskogee, but, owing to the fear that it might prove an opening wedge for the railroad which would bring the white man's civilization into their territory, the Cherokees imposed certain restrictions before the project received their approval. Some of the conditions embodied in the bill were that the line must be constructed through the hills along a route which it would be impossible for a railroad to follow, that white help should not be employed in its construction and that habitations should be avoided to lessen the danger from lightning to the Cherokees' homes and stock.

Some years later an exchange was established at Tahlequah, the first in the state, and an Indian was placed in charge. His father had used the signal smoke to carry messages, afar, but now the Indians use the electric spark and the white man's harness. The signal smoke fire is no more. And the Indian, once the most tactful of all races, through the use of the telephone, has become, if not garrulous, at least fluent in speech.

From the start the Cherokee telephone was a success. When the Indians assembled to "see the wire talk" and found that it could do so not only in English, but in Cherokee as well, their enthusiasm was unbounded. The soft gutturals of the Cherokee tongue were found to be the easiest of any language spoken in the southwest to transmit over the telephone, their musical tones being free from any harsh notes.

Today, Oklahoma has over 250,000 telephones, one for every nine of the inhabitants. In fact, there are more telephones in Oklahoma than there are in Italy, Hungary, and Portugal combined.

"MINICK" COMING TO PLAYHOUSE, CHICAGO

New American Comedy Opens Feb. 16; O. P. Heggie Features in Title Role

A New American comedy of whimsical humor and incisive characterization will be presented by Winthrop Ames at the Playhouse, Chicago, commencing Monday, February 16, when he will offer "Minick" by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, with the noted character actor, O. P. Heggie, feature in the title role.

"Minick" is a play of married life with its alternating trials and joys. The characters are such as we all know and love in our every day existence. For Fred and Nettie Minick, comfortably ensconced in their comfortable Chicago apartment, life progresses placidly and happily until the day when Fred's father, a widower from a small town, comes to live with them for the course of his remaining years. The old man is inquisitive, perky, lovable, jovial—a man of many woods and parks. His advent causes at first cracks, then finally open ruptures in the horizon of his children's life. His ways are not their ways, nor his outlook on existence is not coincident—nor could it be expected to be—with theirs. The resulting situations are compact with ready laughter, the sort of humor which springs readily from its reflectiveness of our mundane experiences: With his well-intentioned, yet invading ways, old man Minick manages to disclose carefully guarded business secrets, to break up a meeting of club women, to bring Fred and Nettie to the brink of separation. The old gentleman's final solution of the difficulties in which he has unwittingly plunged himself and those he loves and who love him, is surprising though wholly logical. The scenes of the comedy transpire in Chicago and Winthrop Ames has supplied a company and scenic background entirely in keeping with the charm of the human, gripping story. Besides Heggie, the company includes many well known players, as Phyllis Povah, Antoinette Perry, Frederic Burt, Sydney Booth, Ralph Bunker, Beatrice Moreland, Lavina Shannon, Ann Winslow, Charles R. Burrows, Jessie Graham, John Clements, Emma Wise and several others.

LIVES THERE A MAN WITH SOUL SO DEAD, WHO NEVER TO HIMSELF HATH SAID: "SOME DAY I'LL LIVE IN FLORIDA!"

On an Easter day, more than four hundred years ago, Ponce de Leon and his Spaniards landed in Florida in search of gold and "The Fountain of Youth." Prolonged youth and wealth have been found in Florida,—a combination of a climate that makes life a pleasure, and a soil that to the thrifty and industrious yields ample rewards.

The United States paid Spain Five Million Dollars for Florida, but the total yearly value of the farm crops in Florida now amounts to over $80,000,000, or more than sixteen times the original purchase price.

The reclaiming of the Everglades, 4,000,000 acres accomplished by the building of four large canals crossing the entire state, gives to us a garden spot equal to that of the Nile.

After a recent survey of conditions in Florida Roger Babson stated that nowhere in this country was there an opportunity for the investor and home-seeker that could compare with South Florida, and stated that the old adage, "Go West, young man," should be revised to "Go South."

I have just returned from Florida and am prepared to furnish you with very valuable information concerning investments there. I have invested my own money there and have secured an option on several hundred acres, to be sold in small units at a very low price and on terms that will allow any one to share in this good fortune and secure for you a handsome yearly return.

USE OF ENVELOPES FOR AIR MAILING

Directions Show That Ordinary Type O. K.; The Rate of Postage

Due to the fact that a number of persons and concerns have received the erroneous impression that the postal department is requiring envelopes of a particular design for air mail use, postal authorities state that any ordinary envelope may be used when proper postage at the air mail rate is paid.

"It will be helpful, however," he said, "if senders of air mail will use an envelope which clearly shows that the matter is to go by air mail. This may be shown by placing the words 'via air mail' in the upper right hand portion of the envelope immediately below the space reserved for stamps. In placing this indorsement on matter to go by air mail it should be prominent, so that it may be seen at a glance that the mail is for transmission by air mail.

"Another means of identifying letters intended for air mail which would be the placing of two blue lines horizontally across the envelope about one-fourth of an inch apart. In such case the word 'via air mail' should be plainly and boldly written, hand stamped or printed between the two lines in the right hand portion of the envelope. Similar lines may also be placed vertically across the envelope.

"These lines may be placed on the envelope with an ordinary blue pencil, or, if desired, printed thereon in blue ink. Care must be taken to see that the lines are uniformly placed and that they do not cover the address or return card."

BUILDING RECORDS BROKEN IN STATE

Both in Chicago and Elsewhere In State of Illinois, Says Report

All previous records for building volume in Chicago and Illinois were broken in 1924, according to a statement issued by the F. W. Dodge corporation which has compiled statistics.

Building contracts awarded in Chicago reached a total of $302,044,300; in the state as a whole, $441,314,600. Chicago's increase over 1923 was 35 per cent and the state's 18 per cent. Actual construction, however, did not appear to keep up with the demand.

Fifty-five per cent of all construction was constituted by residential buildings; 14 per cent by public works and utilities; 13 per cent for commercial buildings; 5 per cent by industrial buildings; 4 per cent by educational buildings. Residential buildings composed 64 per cent of all construction in Chicago.

Some energetic taxpayers discovering so many deductions, that the government may have to pay them before they get through.

The wedding bells will ring frequently during the coming year, but some crusty bachelors can't distinguish them from dumbbells.

When the newspapers print as many "Found" ads as they do of "Lost" ones, the more pressing need for moral education may have passed.

OPERATOR'S WIT PREVENTS SUICIDE

The quick wit and prompt action of Miss Serena Haimovitch, a San Francisco telephone girl, recently saved the life of a young woman who had attempted suicide. When the tiny signal light on the switchboard flashed, the operator heard a choking call, followed by a low moan and the sound of a muffled fall. She at once set to work to trace the call, with the result that the ambulance surgeon reached the scene just in time to save the young woman's life.
