NORTH SHORE LINE

The Human Equation in Transportation

A RAILROAD is known by the employes it keeps. Excellence of equipment is only fully realized when the men in charge of the equipment are of the highest type.

That is the reason why the North Shore Line has used the greatest care in picking its employes. They must be skilled in the operation of the equipment—this much is sought by every railroad—but the North Shore Line has additionally seen to it that the men it employs have a real spirit of courtesy and friendliness towards its patrons.

The Charles A. Coffin Medal awarded to the North Shore Line for distinguished contribution to the development of electrical transportation for the convenience of the public and the benefit of the industry.

That the personal relation between operative and passenger on the North Shore Line has come to be a most pleasant one, is evidenced by the number of letters received every month commending trainmen and station representatives for various extra services they have shown to patrons.

This spirit of helpfulness extends, of course, to the kind of transportation furnished by the North Shore Line. Fast, frequent trains link Chicago's south side, loop and north side to Milwaukee's business center, and to every town between.

DELAY BOND SALE FOR BETTER BIDS

FOR A $10,000,000 BONUS

Highest Offer Received by State
Not Deemed Sufficient and
Bonds Will Be Again
Offered Later

The sale of another block of $10,000,000 Illinois soldier bonus bonds, on which bids were received yesterday, will be delayed until next month. Bids were made by four groups of bond firms, but all were rejected by State Treasurer Oscar Nelson because they were slightly below par.

The present block of bonds bears a 1-2 per cent interest, compared with a 3-4 per cent for the previous block sold several months ago. Several weeks ago Gov. Small and Mr. Nelson conferred with Chicago bankers as to the current interest rate. They were told that a 1-2 per cent bond would not bring par. However, total premiums received from earlier issues aggregated about $160,000 and attorneys agreed that this premium could be used to make up any deficiency from the price received for subsequent issues.

The highest bid received yesterday was $9,945,000, or $55,000 below par. If the bid had been accepted and the deficiency made up the state still would have a surplus of $105,000 from the sale of bonus bonds up to date.

"We feel that the bonds should bring par," Mr. Nelson said after rejecting the bids. "Up to date we have not had to sell under par. We felt the best thing to do was to reject the bids, as we are in no immediate need of the funds. The bonds probably will be re-offered in a short time, within thirty days."

TAKES EXCEPTION TO MAGAZINE ARTICLE

Miss Kirschner Finds Children of Highland Park Taught
Proper Conduct

"The Literary Digest" for March 15th, 1924, prints a review of the article which recently appeared in "Good Housekeeping", by William G. Shepherd. In the article, Mr. Shepherd shows very conclusively the results of educating children in everything except the principles of Christianity. Our huge national losses from fraud, forgery, embezzlement, burglary, etc., which total $3,000,000,000 a year, he believes can be traced directly back to our lack of proper religious education. He tells us that there is no place in America to which a parent can send his children, "and keep them within the limits of democracy," where they will receive instruction in morals and religion.

To Mr. Shepherd's statement, as to all generalities, one may take certain exceptions. Highland Park, and other similar communities, are the exceptions which prove the rule. One would have to be totally ignorant of what goes on in our public schools to say that morals are not being taught here, not taught directly indeed, but indirectly and every day. Perhaps the greatest opportunity for the best kind of teaching of morals comes on the supervised playground or in the well-directed gymnasium. Not only are morals taught, but the conditions are not only "within the limits of democracy", but more nearly approximate true democracy on the playground than in any other place.

It is true, however, that religion, as such, has no place in the curricula of the public school. Yet it is also true that where the teachers are of a high type of personality, in which personal religion has a prominent part, religion, too, will be taught, not formally but informally and indirectly. Religion cannot be divorced from life, and where real religion exists it must appear and will be reflected necessarily in the teaching which is done, not as sectarianism, but as a matter of deep, underlying influence.

The Churches of Highland Park believing that greater opportunities are necessary have gone further and with the cooperation of the Elm Place School Board, have provided for the teaching of religion, as such, in connection with four grades of the Elm Place School. Because of many and varied difficulties this limitation was necessary, but the Council hopes ultimately to make possible religious instruction for all children of the community whose parents desire to avail themselves of the opportunity.

The classes meet at 8:30 on Tuesday and Thursday for the 5th and 6th grades, and on Wednesday and Friday for the 7th and 8th grades. While the work for the second semester is well under way, new pupils will be welcomed in all of the classes. Visitors also will be most cordially received.

The Way Candidates are Picked

The Two Billies Pick and Now Fight as They Try to Beat Senator Swift

Billie Stratton, Small's Fish and Game Commissioner, at $4,000.00 per year, put his appointee, Charles W. Eldredge, "rabbit shepherd" of McHenry County, who is a state employe at $1,300.00 a year, into the race for state senator to beat Senator Swift.

Billie Smith, Waukegan SUN editor, and Small's self-chosen political boss of Lake County, and State Commerce Commissioner, at $7,000.00 a year, with a new Packard Limousine that cost $6,000.00, didn't propose to let Billie Stratton, a four thousand a year man encroach on his preserves, and so he selected his young restaurant friend, Leslie George, proprietor of the "Let-George-Do-It" restaurant in Waukegan, to also enter the race for state senator.

And so the two Billies fight, and Stratton tries to take his few Eldredge votes in Lake County over to McHenry County, for Eldredge, and Billie Smith retaliates by sending George by aeroplane over McHenry and Boone Counties.

The notion was that the new Packard would so impress the "rubes" of McHenry and Boone that votes would flow to George, but the mud is so deep that the Packard will look like "two-cents", and so an aeroplane will take "George and his campaign manager over the farms and towns of the rural districts."

Wouldn't George, with his secretary and aeroplane and with state money make things hum at Springfield? What a change he would be from Senator Swift "who has saved the state millions by his scrutiny of appropriations."

With it all, we make the prediction that Swift will get more votes than both his competitors.
