FEAR FOR STATES SUPPLY OF WATER
 EXPERT ISSUES WARNING

Says Grave Consequences May Be Result of River Pollution Before Long; how Rainfall Used

A grave situation, "arising from the lack of an adequate pure water supply, will eventually imperil the people of Illinois if the present pollution of the state's rivers and streams continues," Fred R. Jeliff, president of the Knox County Academy of Science, Galesburg, said at Elgin recently in an address before the seventeenth annual conference of the Illinois State Academy of Science.

A survey of the water supply of the larger cities of Illinois, he said, disclosed that general movement for public enlightenment and more universal application of the law to abate the too common practice of conveying raw sewage and factory waste into streams and rivers is necessary.

How Rainfall Absorbed
 "Calculating the average rainfall of the state at 36 inches a year," Mr. Jeliff said, "it is estimated that approximately one-third of this rainfall goes as 'run off' into the streams, one-third of it into the ground, constituting the supply in the yellow clays, and one-third is evaporated."

"Based on state reports and common observation, it is known that the surface or yellow clay supply is no longer ample for an entire season, and that in periods of drouth people are forced to seek other sources."

"South of a line running east and west thru Urbana, the surface supply cannot be relied on, and deep rock supplies are not available in a large part of that section of the state North of that line deep rock supplies can be reached, but in most cases the water is too highly mineralized for mechanical purposes without treatment. The Potsdam and St. Peters formations furnish the greater part of the artesian supply, and there are indications that the water level in these is being gradually lowered. This shows that there will come a time when these supplies will not be available."

"Consequently, the importance of conserving the part of the rainfall that either directly runs into the streams or finds its way there thru seepage, tiling or springs, is emphasized."

Streams Polluted
 "All the large streams that flow into the Illinois river and the main river itself have been so polluted that the water both in the streams and the river is rendered unfit for domestic use without treatment and cannot be safely drunk by domestic animals. The same condition is true of the Rock river, the Mississippi and the Wabash."

"Pollution, therefore, limits the public availability of the supply and constitutes a menace to health. It is a public nuisance and kills aquatic animal life."

Conservation, where possible, by impounding was recommended by Mr. Jeliff, who said that the state water board should have an appropriation adequate to make a statewide survey of these conditions.

STICK TO VOCATION

Admiral Takes Boat Ride And Actors Stage New Play;
 Human Traits

Among those present is Rear Admiral Niblack, U.S.N., recently retired. After more than forty years of service in the Navy, one of his first acts is to buy himself a ticket for a nice long ride on a steamship. It's an old story of the hack driver joggling around town on the back of a friend who is working, says the Nation's Business. A New York theatre manager had his father, a Westerner, come on for a visit and took him to a frolic at the Lambs' Club. At the first intermission, the old gentleman said:

"You say these men on the stage and in the audience are all professional actors and theatre men?"

"That's right."

"And this is the one day in the week they have off?"

"Right again. Sunday is their only free day."

"And they get up shows and rehearse and put them on while the others sit out in the audience?"

"Sure, why not?"

"Now I know they're crazy! Let me out of here. I want no more of them. Suppose the Telegraph Lineman's Union had a holiday; would they all put on climbers and start to stringing wire all over the country? Would the Sewer Diggers' Benevolent Association at its annual outing load up with picks and shovels and start running ditches all over the picnic grove? Young man, you're in a crazy business with crazy people and you'll come to no good. I'm going home tomorrow."

But sailors, when they have shore leave, do like rowboats.

COMMENT IN HOUSE ON GERMAN RELIEF

Some Caustic and Some Apparently Irrelevant; Mostly Political

The matter of relief for children in Germany was being debated in the House by constitutional lawyers and others, and here are some of the things that were said, according to the Nation's Business:

Mr. Lowery (Miss.): I want to say that my friend Tucker, of Virginia, handed me $100 the other day and asked me to carry it down and settle a little matter for him at the bank. As I went down I came across a tramp with a cancer on his face and a crippled leg. I gave the money to the tramp and came back without going to the bank at all. I should have been heartless to do otherwise.

"If Tucker did not believe that poor tramp voluntarily, it was clearly my Christian duty to appropriate to that cause the money committed to me for the other purpose. You know, of course, that is a fable. First, you know that when I said that Tucker had $100; and second, when I said he trusted it to me, then you know it was a plain lie. But it has a moral in it."

Mr. Schall (Minn.): I have three young boys, two bounding boys, one tender, tangle-curley headed little girl. She will be four her next birthday, and just the other evening before going to bed she crawled upon my lap, rubbed her nose against mine, and said to me, "Daddy, can't you see me?" I said, "No, little curley-head, I can't." After a moment of silence she said, "Well, your heart sees me; doesn't it, Daddy?" In her childish philosophy she encompassed life. It is the heart that sees right.

Mr. Tucker (Va.): Gentlemen say in their report, "How any man can fight little children who are crying for bread is hard to understand." The eloquent gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. Schall) brought tears to my eyes. He says he has three lovely children, but I also have children. I have six, and only one pair of twins. This resolution should be more properly be denominated not a resolution for the relief of suffering babies in Germany, but a resolution for the consolidation of the German vote in America in the election this fall.

RADIO SET FAILS.
 OWNER WON'T PAY

Can't Get Distant Stations, So Refuses to Dig Up More Money; Sued

Here's a new radio twist with a catch. It concerns the outstanding features in the purchase of a radio set.

Just after the purchase of a radio set that is represented by a glib salesman as capable of tuning in from coast to coast and after it is found that the tuning in does not extend beyond Zion City what's a man to do? Should he pay the full amount of the purchase price?

That momentous question has been taken under consideration by Chief Justice Henry Cummings of the Civil court in Milwaukee. The salesman sold an instrument to S. R. Maglio for $95. Maglio testified that he was assured he could pick up any song or talk waves from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He said he tried for three nights with his utmost ability and the extreme limit of his patience to tune in on Chicago, but that under no circumstances would the radio pick up waves beyond Zion, Illinois. He said he listened in on Zion several times until he thought he had heard sufficient song and sermon and wanted to reach beyond.

Therefore, as the instrument would not reach beyond Zion, Maglio paid $15 for it and declined to pay the rest. The company is suing him for the balance of $80 and Judge Cummings concluded, in as much as the issue in the case presents an entirely new situation he wanted to take the matter under advisement.

SHERIFF APPOINTS HIGHWAY POLICEMAN

Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom last week put four county motorcycle officers to work on the highways, and two more will be appointed soon.

During the summer months Lake county roads are the mecca for thousands of tourists and for this reason automobile thieves and highway robbers are unusually active, and therefore the additional officers will be kept busy.

The four officers appointed to date are:

Thomas Burnett, Antioch.
 Frank Valenta, Ingleside.
 E. C. Hamlin, Lake Villa.
 Ambrose Beaudien, Highland Park.

Two more will be appointed probably this week. The officers will be on duty all over the county. They are to be in full uniform.

The county board some time ago voted an appropriation for the employment of these officers, but due to the fact that there are so many violations of the traffic laws, it is expected that the receipts from fines will be quite large.

With the addition of this squad to the regular deputies, the state highway motorcycle officers and constables, it is believed that many accidents will be prevented in the regulation of traffic.

The county motor police will be on duty for six months.

SUPERVISORS ADOPT NEW RULES OF ORDER

The county board last week adopted new rules of order and it was voted that hereafter all meetings are to begin at 10 a. m. and that all members must respond to roll call at all sessions during the day to get a full day's pay. They are to be paid annually. The regular meeting for the fiscal year will be on the ninth days of the following months: June, September, December, 1924, and March, 1925.
