ARBITRATION PLAN IS BUSINESS AID

NEW POLICY IS ADOPTED
Instead of Litigation Appeal To Arbitrating Council Is Favored by Many Large Firms

Commercial arbitration, founded upon mutual confidence and the desire of business men to do right in adjudicating business differences, is a plan that is rapidly gaining favor in Illinois, where it is being promoted by a special committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

Of the 118 cities in Illinois having chambers of commerce that are members of the Illinois association, 25 have already adopted commercial arbitration policies, 25 more are now forming committees to execute this means of keeping business misunderstandings out of court and others of the remainder are considering this highly satisfactory means of settling business difficulties.

What General Secretary Says
Outlining the vigorous manner in which the state chamber, one of the most active in the country, is taking up commercial arbitration, Harvey T. Hill, its general secretary, stated that:

"The Illinois Chamber of Commerce believes so thoroughly in the good that business can derive from the use of commercial arbitration that we have made the promotion of its use one of our major activities. The group of men that have this in charge are working under the leadership of one of our vice-presidents, Gerald B. Franks of Peoria.

"During the last few weeks this committee had adopted a set of commercial arbitration rules which, if followed, will make the arbitration both legal and binding. These rules will be used as the official guide by all local committees throughout the state.

Meeting to Promote Idea
"The committee has also prepared forms for submission blanks that will be used in connection with the arbitration of cases. District meetings have been held in five Illinois cities, in the interest of creating a greater use of commercial arbitration. Meetings have already been held in Cairo, Danville, Peoria, Freeport and Chicago. District meetings will be held in Aurora, May 23, and in Quincy May 29.

"At these conferences will be business men from 118 cities that are now working with the Illinois Chamber of Commerce on this project. The chief object to be accomplished will be to get a strong active committee at work in each of these local communities. At the annual meeting of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, which will start on Oct. 9, a one-day session will be held on commercial arbitration."

In general explanation of the idea as promoted through the state, it is further said at the Illinois chamber: "In Illinois the arbitrator who is named by mutual agreement of the parties having a difference is empowered to issue subpoenas and his findings, upon being filed in court, have the legal effect of a judgment of the court.

Growing in Favor
"The idea" is one of co-operation. Commercial arbitration is perhaps the most natural way to determine who is right in a business dispute, without causing ill feeling. The plan is preferable to ordinary court procedure and is growing in favor in Illinois very rapidly for several definite reasons.

"It is the quickest way to settle disputes or misunderstandings, because it is a means of disposing of cases immediately the arbitrator has been selected by both parties concerned. It is cheaper and more businesslike than court action, because the arbitrator selected to decide who is right is a man qualified by years of actual experience in the particular field under discussion. It is not necessary to take the time and effort to familiarize the 'Judge' with a host of technical details that would otherwise be necessary in a case.

Maintains Friendly Relations
"Perhaps the chief value of this form of settling commercial differences is that it keeps friendly relations between both parties and that it permits business to be operated unaffected by the dispute. The plan eliminates publicity, which sometimes is not only undesirable, but is very destructive.

"The plan is easily operated. Parties to a controversy agree in writing to submit their dispute to arbitration and the arbitrator committee of the chamber of commerce then acts. An arbitrator acceptable to both parties, hears the evidence from both and then makes a written award covering his decision. In case of any disputed point of law that the immediate advice of a qualified judge is given and the arbitrator acts accordingly.

"Arbitration is not merely an ideal means of obtaining justice but experience in Illinois has shown that it is a very practical means of keeping people out of court."

IDENTICAL panels with frames four feet high and eight feet long, constructed with sills and studs 7½x3½ in. and studs placed 16 in. on centers, were prepared.

FRAME A had one side covered with ½x6 in. dressed sheathing nailed at each stud with 8D nails, and the other side covered with common lath spaced 2 in. on centers and staggered in the usual way.

FRAME B was covered on both sides with Expanded Wood Lath sheets 8 ft. long and 16 in. wide, fastened at the juncture of each rib and stud with 5D nails.

In testing these panels the bottom sill was clamped to the base of testing machine and the pull applied to the top sill in the direction of its length.

Expanded Wood Lath, by this test, has been proven much stiffer than the old standard construction. But added to this advantage are its high insulating qualities and the much lower construction cost when used for either exterior stucco or interior plaster.
