Period of Revolution The period of revolution of Mars of the earth's revolution about the sun is 365-1/4 days. Therefore at intervals of 780 days they come together on the same side of the sun and Mars is said to come into opposition, the sun and Mars being on opposite sides of the earth. At such times Mars makes its nearest approach to the earth.

The distances at opposition are not, however, always equal on account of The graphite mining industry in the eccentricity of the orbits of Mars United States made considerable pro these occur at intervals of about fif- logical survey in cooperation with the of soil and climate and pests. teen years. THE GARDEN HARVEST

Many people consider gardening a toilsome occupation, but real enthusiasts feel amply rewarded about this time, when their little patch begins to yield its trophies. There is a fine flavor in a vegetable picked in your own little plot and eaten on the same day, that does not attach to the products that were a long and the earth, principally the former. gress in 1923 according to a report time getting to you. Nature seems to want to make such outdoor pursuits attractive. So she endows her products, not merely with healthful qualities and succulent taste, but with a wide range of brillian color, from the golden yellow of corn to the deep red of beets A garden basket filled with such trophies is a little symphon quently in the years immediately af- of color, celebrating the achievement of their producer.

LEARN FROM EXPERIENCE

If we as a people can learn from experience, without having entails a much longer path of light, amounting to 4,056 tons of amorphous to be hit on the head with a panic and hard times, the recent through the earth's atmosphere than graphite and 3,964,900 pounds of slight depression in this country should have taught its lesson When industry slowed up, jobs became scarcer-just enough scarcer so that no one was really hurt but enough to make sensible man think and realize that any movement or any agitation which interferes with normal industrial activity strikes first hand and hardest at the working man. As farm prosperity returns more men have jobs not only on the farms but in all lines of industry. A man who works in a sawmill or a mine should realize that advantageous position for observa- tion rose from 12,488 short tons in his job depends on prosperity in other lines of business which

> The brakeman or engineer on a freight train should realize that his job depends on "the other fellow" who makes an article for transportation.

If we pull together as a nation success awaits us. If we fight 22nd of August corresponds roughly person who thinks a republican ad- among ourselves we court hard times and failure

The work of the Dawes' committee of experts to formulate business-like program for settlement of the Allied Reparations tangle, further emphasizes the value of team work along constructive lines.

This committee figured out such a practical plan that it wil be adopted on account of its sanity and simplicity. After five years of European intrigue and jealousy, plain every day business sense and honesty had to win over political inefficiency.

The people of Europe have suffered five long years to learn their lesson-namely-that one nation cannot profit at the expense of another.

Thus do we see intelligence finally conquering ignorance. How long individuals or nations suffer during the "process of education" depends upon their ability to learn from observation and escape the severe lessons which experience gives those who refuse to learn otherwise.

The American people have only a bright future before them if they stand for the square deal policy which will assure continued agricultural and industrial activity.

Insurance

In All Its Branches

Life insurance is the only medium through which the contingency of death may be anticipated and discounted. No other known plan offers the same or even similar advantages, or accomplishes the same ends. In some form and in some measure life insurance applies to all, whatever one's circumstances or condition in life may be.

If you are a married man, life insurance will enable you to leave your family an estate, even though you do not live to earn that estate.

If you have a son or daughter, life insurance will guarantee their support and education after you are gone.

If you do not wish to own a home, a Monthly Income from life insurance will pay the rent.
If you are a business man, life insurance will strengthen your credit because it protects the creditor.
