TARIFF PROTECTS ALL INDUSTRIES
IS COOLIDGE'S OPINION

Excerpt from Speech Indicates He Believes Farmer, Laborer and Capital All Benefited

The concern with which President Coolidge regards the protective tariff policy, and its importance as one of the primary issues of the campaign, is well brought out in his acceptance speech and the following excerpts on the tariff are quoted from that speech:
"By means of a protective tariff we have saved American agriculture, labor and industry from the menace of having their great home market destroyed through the dumping upon it of a flood of foreign products. Under this wise policy we saw an economic revival, and our people as a whole, in marked distinction from sufferers from the financial distress and depression of other lands, have come into an area of prosperity and plenty. As a source of revenue the tariff surpassed all exceptions in producing an annual return of the unprecedented sum of about $550,000,000. A fiscal policy which places a large and much needed revenue in the public treasury, while stimulating business to a condition of abounding prosperity, defends itself against any criticism. Its merits are demonstrated by its results. We have protected our own inhabitants from the economic disaster of an invasion of too many foreign people (the immigration law) or too much foreign merchandise.

Broad Principle
"The republican party supports the policy of protection as a broad principle, good alike for producer and consumer, because it knows that no other means to prevent the lowering of the standards of pay and living for the American wage earner toward the misery scale that prevails abroad has ever been devised. Were such protection removed, the result would be that manufacturing would languish, factories would close, commerce and transportation would be stagnant, agriculture would become paralyzed, financial distress and economic depression would reach over the whole country. Before we are carried away with a visionary expectation of promoting the public welfare by a general avalanche of cheap goods from foreign sources, imported under a system which, whatever it may be called, is in reality free trade, it will be well first to count the cost and realize just what such a proposal really means. I am for protection because it maintains American standards of living and of business, for agriculture, industry, and labor. I am in favor of the elastic provisions of our tariff law. I propose to administer them, not politically, but individually. As the business of the world becomes stabilized, without throwing our economic system into confusion, we can raise or lower specific schedules to meet the requirements of a scientific adjustment."

MAKE GRAPE JUICE FROM THIS RECIPE
And If You Want to Get Most Out of Plan, Grow Your Own Grapes

The manufacture of home made grape juice will be found to be unusually simple. The following recipe makes delicious juice: Heat thoroughly ripe grapes on the back of the stove. When soft strain through a cheesecloth bag without squeezing if you want clear grape juice. Measure the juice in a quart measure and replace on fire bringing to the boiling point. Add one-half cup of sugar for each quart of juice and let the mixture boil for five minutes. Then bottle in well sterilized Mason jars or in bottles with patent seals. If your bottles have not patent tops they should have the corks sealed tightly into the bottles with hot sealing wax. Well corked and tightly sealed bottles keep the juice far sweeter than the fruit jars.

In making your own grape juice you save on each quart—as a quart of grape juice costs you from 45 to 50 cents, and naturally any product made under your own supervision in your home kitchen is much purer than a factory made product and you KNOW it is unadulterated.

But if you really wish to save and to make your grape juice cost you almost nothing—look forward a little this spring when you and the "head of the household" are setting out your new garden and insist that a few grape vines are included along with the rest of your spring planting. A very few grape vines planted now to be trained over the back kitchen porch or on a trellis or arbor will not only add to the appearance of your place, but within a short time will furnish you with sufficient grapes to "put up" pints of clear jelly and quarts of unequalled grape juice. Be sure your grape vine is sunny and airy. If you set out your vines in a spot that is too shaded or that is close or that is not open to the air—mildew will be likely to attack them. To grow grape vines successfully they must have ample room for spreading out in the full sunlight and air.

PROSPECT GOOD FOR BUCKWHEAT SUPPLY

The prospect for buckwheat cakes in Illinois this winter is good. At least A. J. Surratt, federal agricultural statistician, estimates the state will produce nearly twice as much buckwheat as usual this year.

The August buckwheat outlook was for a crop of 118,000 bushels, which should make enough buckwheat cakes to insure every Illinoisan a second helping. Last year's production was 90,000 bushels and the average yield for the state is 77,000 bushels. Seven thousand acres were devoted to the crop this year, compared with 6,000 last year and the average of 4,000.

One of the biggest problems facing the American people is to devise new names for breakfast food.

The business of movie censors is to first get a kick out of the films they censor, and then raise a kick because of them.
