BOY SCOUT TROOPS MEET; ACTIVITIES

What Several Groups of This Splendid Organization Are Doing Locally

Boy Scout Troops 2, 3, and 4, met at the Elm Place school last Friday evening and marched down to the beach where a fire was built. While the wieners were being cooked, the boys were divided into sides and had a tug-of-war. After the boys had had a "hot dog" apiece, they played several other games and extra "hot dogs" were given to the winners as prizes. Three-legged races, relay races, and a spar fighting contest were some of the other games played. Promptly at nine o'clock all the boys who had not had to leave earlier were dismissed.

At the next regular meeting of each troop, which will be tomorrow evening for Troops 2 and 4 and Saturday evening for Troop 3, the Scoutmasters will pass all tenderfoot tests.

All boys of scout age (12-18), their parents, parents of boys who already belong to one of the troops and any others interested are urged to visit at one or more of the meetings and learn what the Boy Scout movement is.

In the last meeting of Troop 1, Mr. Morris, whose son is a candidate for membership in the troop, demonstrated how to tie various knots correctly, and what their uses are. Mr. Morris has had much experience in the navy and elsewhere, so is well qualified to show the scouts "how to do it." Mr. Wyles, whose son is also a candidate for membership, was in the "circle," listening to Mr. Morris. Mr. Wyles is president of the Court of Honor.

At this meeting the scouts formed into gym classes, under the charge of Mr. Platt and John Gifford. Other meetings they have swum and played basketball.
