WAR BETWEEN U. S. AND JAPAN FUTILE

GAIN NOTHING FOR EITHER

Writer in Thoughtful Magazine Says It Would Be Absurd; Predicts Pacific Commonwealth

A war between the yellow races and America seems so absurd as to be practically impossible. But Ramsay Traquair declares that even if such a war were blundered into the only possible results would be that the yellow race in case of victory would be able to remove American influences from their countries.

In talking of "The Coming Commonwealth of the Pacific," Mr. Traquair in the November Scribner's Magazine says:

Tutelage Impossible
 "In the first place it seems impossible that the United States should establish a tutelage over China and Japan. The civilization of these countries is too advanced. In the event of complete victory the United States could at most demand an indemnity and trading facilities. The experience of the recent war seems to show that indemnities are more easily obtained from allies than from opponents—especially from ruined opponents. As for trade, war with the United States would more probably tend to send the Mongolian trade to New Zealand or to Vancouver than to a recently hostile country. The United States can hardly interfere with the trade of China or Japan in the Pacific; these countries have nowhere else to trade. The United States could, of course, prevent the Chinese and Japanese from settling in America, but they can do that already. It seems impossible to find any rational gains possible for America, North or South, in a Pacific war.

Could Not Conquer
 "In the event of Mongolian victory the victors could, of course, sweep American shipping from the Pacific, to their own immediate detriment. Japan could not conquer America, any more than America could conquer China. Any attempt on her part to pass the Rocky Mountains would bring her into conflict with the Atlantic, and the Atlantic commonwealth is the greatest power in the world. It would only need Japan in America to unite the Atlantic once and forever.

"Japan could not even compel the United States to admit her colonists as equal citizens. This too, would really constitute an attack upon the Atlantic, and would eventually be resented by it. What the Oriental powers could and would do would be to remove Atlantic influences from their own countries. They will probably do this in any case within a very few generations. We need only consider how we may regard a number of Buddhist missions scattered through this country openly trying to 'Chinify' America."

War Unprofitable
 "The more one considers a war between the East and West in the Pacific the more utterly unprofitable does it appear. America could gain nothing. The Oriental powers might gain a little. Australasia would probably gain the most. An ocean is controlled by the people who live on it, trade on it, colonize its shores, and exchange its products. Such a group of nations will develop a culture of their own, they may quarrel among themselves but they cannot admit of control by an external power."

FINE CONCERT GIVEN OTHERS IN PROSPECT

 Romanza from Sonata in C Minor for Violin and Piano (Opus 45)

Bohler Moszkowski
 This organization is unique in the mid-west music world being a tabloid symphony made up of solo players, many of whom have been first deak men in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.
 Their playing is beautifully balanced and lovely in quality and the encore, "Serenade" by Percy Pitt, for strings, was something to always remember.
 The fine playing of Hans Bruckner was enthusiastically received and encored.

Attendance not Large
 The Elm Place Auditorium was half filled. The community seems to realize the splendid opportunity the Civic Music Association is offering but those who were present received a great treat and the demand for subscriptions since this concert promises capacity houses for the rest of the season. Until November 15 the subscription tickets will be available for the remaining five programs at reduced prices when purchased for the full number of concerts. Single admissions for the remaining concerts would amount to more. Tickets are on sale at Gell's drug store, or telephone the chairman, Mrs. Arthur Byfield.

Remaining Concerts
 The following are the remaining concerts of the series:
 Sunday, December 7, Guy Maier and Lee Pattison (two piano recital)
 Sunday, January 11, the Gordon Trio, Mr. Jacques Gordon, Mr. Alfred Wallenstein and Mr. Edward Collins.
 Sunday, February 8, Delamarter Solo Orchestra.
 Sunday, March 8, Business Men's Orchestra.
 Sunday, April —, Program to be announced later.

 netka and many other popular players. Several Highland Park children will appear in the pantomime in the second act and they are: Abbott Byfield, Katherine Bard, Sylvia and Phyllis Peter, Doris and Osburn Mason.
 There is music and a ballet incidental to the play and those who have seen rehearsals are most enthusiastic. There are a few tickets still available, by calling Mrs. Arthur Byfield, Highland Park 345, or Mrs. Wilford Shipnes, H. P. 901.
 Membership in the guild costs $8.00 which includes one pair of tickets to each of the season's four plays and six tickets to the Evanson Playshop plays and the professional seats at the Playshop.
