LESSON FROM THE ELECTION

The election of President Coolidge is the greatest evidence yet offered to prove that the American people think straight on basic questions. The vote for Coolidge was not a vote for the man so much as a vote for sound principles of government.

The present vote shows that the American people cannot be stampeded by professional political practices which seek to cloud the main issue.

The election year has also shown that questions like the tariff and discussion of changes in the constitution no longer seriously disturb business and industries as they have done in the past. From the day of the national conventions our country has enjoyed confidence and the stimulation of rising markets.

Candidates Davis, Coolidge and LaFollette were all highly respected by the people for their ability and sincerity as political leaders, but all departures from fundamental political traditions were bitterly opposed and all inclinations to try experiments at public expense lost the proponents public confidence.

All political parties would do well to learn a lesson from this election, namely, the voters are able to differentiate between men and measures and can no longer be so easily fooled as some persons think.

We will continue to advance along the pathway to success under one flag, governed by a constitution the equal of which has not yet been written, if we forget not the words of the great emancipator, "With Malice Toward None, With Charity for All."

Let the public officials in power remember that they are only the servants of the people and that no political party can survive except as it gives a better government to citizens who are daily becoming more enlightened on public questions.

THINK ABOUT THOSE GIFTS

The real reason why such a disagreeable rush occurs at the post and express offices and stores at the holiday period is that so many people put off selecting their gifts until the last moment. Some of course have no ready cash on hand and are forced to wait until the last minute before spending it.

But there are many more who have money ahead and could just as well make their gift purchases in November or early December. But as a result of a certain mental inertia, they fail to decide what they want. It will take until about 10 days before Christmas before many of them will wake up and decide what would be suitable presents for their families and friends.

If people want to make suitable gifts they should put a little more heart into them, and keep them in mind for a longer time. If right now they would think what they want to give, they could decide within a few days and get the matter finished, so they would not have to worry about it.

Obituary

Dr. Andrew Robert Warner, executive secretary of the American Hospital association, passed away at his home on West Deerfield avenue, on Thanksgiving day from heart disease. Dr. Warner purchased the Jacob Antes home, about four years ago and has improved the grounds and home, until it has become one of the beauty spots of Deerfield, with its spruces, pergolas, and wondrous flowers.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home with Rev. McDonald of Trinity church, Highland Park, officiating. Dr. Warner is survived by his wife, Gertrude S. Warner and two little daughters Anne and Jane.

Mrs. Warner's relatives from Sandusky, Ohio, and Dr. Warner's people of New York were in Deerfield for the funeral.

William J. Osterman died suddenly, Friday afternoon, November 28th. He was born in Highland Park, Ill., April 24, 1864, and was married to Martha Osterman, (nee Rasch) of Chicago on April 25, 1897.

William Osterman served on the Chicago Police department for twenty-seven years.

He was a charter member of the Deerfield lodge No. 1110 A. F. & A. M. and York chapter No. 148 R. A. M. and Deerfield camp No. 1661 M. W. of A.

Mr. Osterman and family moved to Deerfield from Chicago about two years ago, residing on Osterman avenue.

He is survived by his wife Martha, and daughter Florence; one sister Mrs. Anna Willman, of Deerfield and four brothers, Michael of Northbrook, Albert of Oak Park, Henry of Austin and Edwin of Deerfield.

Funeral services were held from his late residence, Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 2, at one o'clock, and at Rosehill chapel. Burial was in Rosehill cemetery, Chicago. Rev. Pister of St. Paul's Evangelical church of Chicago officiated after which the Masons had charge of the funeral.

The Garden club of Deerfield will hold an open meeting, the first in its history, in the Presbyterian church, Wednesday afternoon, December 17th. Mr. Henry Mack of the Tobey Furniture company, of Chicago, assistant of Mr. Lionel Robertson, of national fame, who is lecturing at the Art Institute on interior decorating, will talk on "The Art of Home Making."

Mrs. Chester Wessling will read Edgar A. Guest's "It takes a heap of living to make a home."

The program promises to be an interesting and inspiring one, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Metcalf, of Whitehall Farm, on the County Line road.

It will be the first meeting since Miss Sadie Galloway was elected to the presidency, and it will be an opportunity for all the women of Deerfield to see the operation of the club.

Universality

UNIVERSAL telephone service must be universal in scope—it must reach anyone, anywhere. But it must be universal also in cost—it must be within the financial reach of everyone, everywhere.

Years of research have been required to provide the telephone instruments, switchboards, wire and supplementary apparatus which afford inter-communication between housewives, shopkeepers, farmers and millions of other American telephone users.

But these facilities do not in themselves make America's telephone service a universal service. Telephone engineers have spent years of additional study in order to build, maintain and operate this nationwide system so economically that the cost of service may be kept at all times well below its value to the telephone user.

Upon the two fundamentals of extensiveness in scope and economy in cost the Bell System has built the most universal telephone service in the world.

During the past few years much of the telephone plant in Illinois, originally erected at pre-war costs, has worn out or been outgrown, and has been replaced, at post-war prices for material and labor. This has added greatly to the average investment per telephone
