BY-PRODUCTS OF GAS IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

Saving in Coal and Release of Constituents Is Beyond Estimate in Value

The manufactured gas industry, in recovering the essential values in coal, promises in a few years to free this country from dependence on foreign sources for fixed nitrogen and other by-products of gas and coke manufacture which are vital for the national defense.

The sum represented by the possible saving in coal and the capture of coal tar and other products through carbonization is so great that it cannot even be calculated. The elimination of the smoke evil will mean turning to useful purposes millions of gallons of creosote, enough to double the length of life of lumber resources, and hundreds of millions of gallons of coal tar.

Locked up in the nearly 600,000,000 tons of coal produced in this country every year, most of which is wastefully consumed in heating furnaces, are commercial products whose value is comparable to the total wealth of the nation twenty years ago.

Among them are explosives, fertilizers, dyestuffs, drugs, photographic developers, rubber substitutes, paints and varnishes, tanning material, artificial leathers, flavoring extracts, perfumes, disinfectants, printing inks, amber and horn substitutes, wood preservatives, motor fuels, soap, brake linings, linoleum, insulators, building materials and thousands of others.

Much discussion as to what constitutes the ideal woman, but millions of hungry husbands will say they can tell.

REFUSE SANCTION TO TRAIL MARKERS

STATE OFFICIALS WARN

No Such Associations to Be Permitted to So Deface Illinois Highways, Says Report

C. R. Miller, director of the department of public works and buildings, and Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer, today issued the following statement regarding marked trail organizations who have been active in Illinois and other states in promoting and marketing so-called trails.

"Many individuals have sought to capitalize the popular demand for marked cross country routes by organizing trail associations, collecting large sums of money from our citizens in return for routing trails through their cities, and giving little service in return. In some cases, they have sought to increase the amount of their collections by creating rivalry between different communities, and we are led to believe have, in many instances, marked the routes where the greatest fund could be raised.

"We have also been informed that of the amounts collected in the various localities, one-third was allotted those communities to pay for marking the roads. The balance, or two-thirds of the funds collected was to be forwarded to the headquarters of the trail officials with the promise that the funds would be expended in advertising the cities through which these so-called trails blaze.

"Devious, winding and twisting routes have been selected through some communities to satisfy the wishes of the more enthusiastic contributors of funds, and the traveling public oftentimes has been seriously inconvenienced and misled.

"Realizing the importance of systematic, thorough and judicious highway marking, this department has made a most careful study of this subject, with the result that Illinois today has one of the most complete and comprehensive marking systems in the United States. Need for the specially marked trail in Illinois has passed; yet we are constantly being besieged by the promoters of these organizations, and even by our own good citizens, who have been misled by the rosy picture of large financial returns for their communities, painted by these promoters and organizers, to permit marking of new routes on the same highways which have already been paved and thoroughly marked by the state.

"The matter is of such importance that the American Association of State Highway Officials, composed of the executive officers of the highway departments of all the states, at their last meeting in San Francisco, in November, 1924, adopted the following resolution: 'Resolved that no trail association be permitted to establish further routes on state or federal aid routes.' This is a convincing sentiment of the highway officials of this country against further marking of trails.

"Already plans have been worked out for the immediate numbering and marking of transcontinental routes by the United States bureau of public roads and the several states, without expense to the cities and communities through which they pass; and further activity of trail associations and their promoters will only tend to confuse and retard the development of a transcontinental system of numbered and marked highways."

MORE THAN MILLION PHONES IN N. Y. CITY

The statement that New York city has more telephones than the whole of Great Britain conveys a vivid picture of the number of instruments there must be in the city. Many people, especially foreigners unused to the telephone as a daily necessity, may have wondered to what extent such a huge number of telephones, more than a million, are used.

A recent statement of H. A. Trax, chief accountant of the New York Telephone company, throws some light on the question. During the year 1923, an average of more than 18,570 toll or long distance calls every day kept New Yorkers in close touch with the rest of the country, while at the present time the total number of calls, local and long distance, in the city averages 6,200,000 every day. In other words, every telephone in New York city is used, on an average, about five times every day.

EIGHT A MINUTE

Eight telephones a minute is the scheduled production during normal working time, of a single telephone manufacturing company. If a million dollars in gold had been laid away in a vault each year from the beginning of the Christian era to the present, the total accumulated hoard would not, today, amount to as much as the telephone plant investment of the Bell system.

MOTOR CLUBS TO OPPOSE GAS TAX

BURDEN TO CAR OWNERS

Would Really Mean That Total Amount Would Reach To Three or Four Cents Is Their Claim

Any attempt to put over a gasoline tax in Illinois will be met by the united opposition of organized motorists. The Chicago Motor club with branches in thirty-seven counties in Illinois will use all its power in fighting the gas tax. Charles M. Hayes, president of the club says: "The advocates of the gas tax say that the motorist will never feel it. The idea that the legislators who are advocating this tax want to convey is that it will be a small tax. Yet on a tax of two cents per gallon the average car owner driving the average number of miles would pay about $200 a year.

"The truth of the matter is that although a two cents a gallon tax might be passed by the legislature, the motorist in fact, would pay three or even four cents a gallon extra for his gasoline. Thousands of motorists would require special receipts from the filling stations so that they could deduct the proper amount from their income tax; this would require additional help, and the consumer would be forced to shoulder the burden. If there were any exceptions to the law such as in the case of gasoline used by dry cleaners, plumbers and printers, wholesale evasions would result. This would breed discontent and disrespect for the law.

"It is said that the tax will be a tax on recreation; yet 60 per cent of the cars in the country are used for business purposes according to the figures of the National Automobile chamber of commerce, so that it will be in reality a tax upon business."

FIRST ILLUMINATING OIL IN CALIFORNIA

Seepage Used in Southern Part Of State as Early as 1856, Report

Illuminating oil was distilled from petroleum obtained from a seepage in southern California as early as 1856 and used in lamps, and in 1860 this region, in our day so thoroughly advertised, was said to contain underground "rivers of oil" that could be carried to all parts of the Pacific coast through pipe lines. This pipe dream of the sixties found partial realization later, as may be seen by the fact that more than a billion barrels of oil has since been piped from wells in that region to Pacific ports.

In Los Angeles and Ventura counties many wells were drilled between 1880 and 1900, and then the output there and the interest in oil diminished. During the last few years, however, the rise in the price of crude oil has caused a renewal of activities in the oil fields in this region, and some new territory has been developed, not in the old haphazard way but by the application of modern geological principles. A member of the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, surveyed the valley of the Santa Clara river long ago, and another member, W. S. W. Kew, has recently surveyed what is called the Ventura-Newhall district, an area northwest of Los Angeles, and prepared a report on it. This report, which has just been published in the Geological Survey's bulletin 753, covers parts of west-central Los Angeles and southeastern Ventura counties, which embrace the oldest as well as some of the new fields of California. Among the producing districts in this area are the South Mountain, Shiels Canyon and Bardsdale fields.

ROAD WORK IS DONE BY FOREST SERVICE

More Than 1800 Miles of Highways and 5000 Miles Of Trails in Year

More than 1,800 miles of roads and nearly 5,000 miles of trails were constructed within or adjacent to the 147 national forests during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, according to the annual report by the chief of the forest service to the secretary of agriculture. In addition maintenance work was performed on 7,423 miles of roads and 32,105 miles of trails.

Including the construction work completed within the last year, the total mileage of national forest roads constructed by June 30 this year stood at 8,707 and the total mileage of trails at 15,855.

The sum of $9,351,142 was expended on the road and trail work of the forest service during the last fiscal year, the report says. This sum was augmented by funds from co-operative agencies, such as states, counties, and local organizations.

Thirty-one states and Alaska share in the pro rata distribution of funds made each year by the forest service to those states and territories containing national forest lands.

Claimed some taxpayers inflame their returns so as to get credit for bigger incomes, but no fear is expressed lest this practice become general.

WOMEN FARMERS IN ILLINOIS, 10,000

Of This Number Six Thousand of Them Own Their Farms; 800 Are Tenants

Illinois boasts 10,000 lady farmers, according to data analyzed by the Blue Valley Creamery institute. Of this number over 6,500 operate farms, 6,000 their own, 25 as managers and not quite 800 as tenants, the data disclosed.

Dairying, poultry and hog raising are some of the branches of agriculture in which the women farmers of the state specialize, the analysis revealed. The land under cultivation by the feminine agriculturists is close to 625,000 acres, of which 500,000 acres are improved. The value of these farms is 100 million dollars. The figures further revealed that women cultivate 2.8 per cent of all farms in the state and 1.9 per cent of the total acreage, the value being 1.7 per cent of the whole. The average value of the land and buildings on farms operated by women was found to be in excess of $15,400.

Commenting on the large percentage of women who go in for dairying and poultry raising, the institute sees a peculiar adaptation of these occupations to the feminine nature. From early times, it says the average farm woman had to care for the milk and act as dairymaid, too. And milking cows and selling butterfat with its requirements of close attention to details seems to be a type of work that woman naturally takes to. The same appears to hold true for poultry raising. For pin money for the thousand and one items needed in the home, the sale of eggs and poultry has ever been known as a sure means. Many a woman in need of more money has almost instinctively turned to milking cows and keeping hens.
