Laud Efforts of U. S. Newspapers to Aid Humanitarian Enterprises

Lack of public support has caused drastic curtailment of British relief work in Greece, where the Lord Mayor's fund has maintained refugee feeding kitchens for 50,000 people. The committee in charge blames the British newspapers, saying that "the press in England does not give adequate space to humanitarian projects, and the public is therefore inadequately informed?' | The committee compares British newspapers unfavorably with the American and Canadian press, "which give as much space to humanitarian achievement as they do to political squabbles and police-court.

A PLEA for THE POPE

The Pope represents "religious authority." Catholicism is "a religion of authority, -exclusive, intolerant, missionary and successful," says Dr. Frederick Joseph Kinsman, former Episcopal Bishop, now a Roman Catholic, in the third of THE FORUM series on "Catholicism in America."

"AttacksupontheCatholicChurch are the result of misunderstandings, confusion and spectres of imagination." He denies any conflict between Rome and our Republic, and urges that "open discussion is good for any cause."

In June, Dr. Charles Fama, Protestant Italian-American, a well known investigator of alien and other agitations, has some startling revelations to make-facts gathered at first hand during years of close contact with Roman Catholic Italian colonies.
