The Truth About Oil-Burning

Today there is no longer any question as to the ADVANTAGES of oil-burn. But in the maze of conflicting claims of many makers, it now seems difficult to decide WHICH oil-burner will be best. And yet knowing the facts—the solution is simple.

There are over 1200 oil-burners on the market. But, as in every other industry, there are only a FEW leaders.

You want no oil-burner, certainly, that is not passed by the Underwriters' Laboratories. Then note these facts—

Out of only 24 automatic oil burners listed as standard by the Underwriters' Laboratories—13 models are Kleen-Heets!

Most makers have but one or two sizes that they try to adapt to all types of homes, large or small. Kleen-Heet has the widest variety of sizes and models of any oil-burner manufacturer. You get the size and model exactly adapted to your particular type of home.

INSTALLATIONS CAN BE MADE NOW AND YOU PAY FOR IT IN THE FALL

TEACH CHILDREN SAFETY MEASURES

SET EXAMPLE FOR THEM

Parents Should Obey Regulations as Well as Instructing the Youth; Carefulness Can Be Taught

"To keep children safe we must set an example by obeying the rules of safety ourselves. If this plan had been religiously carried out 222 Chicago children would not have lost their lives from automobile accidents in 1924. Seventy-three per cent of the children killed in 1924 were between the ages of four and nine years, or at the age when example is the best form of teacher," says Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health, in this week's bulletin, "Chicago's Health."

"At this season of the year, none is, among city dwellers, so subject to accident as the child. Children are urged to go out into the open and to absorb as much fresh air and sunshine as possible by playing games out-of-doors. In the city, 'out-of-doors' means the sidewalks, streets and vacant lots. Children are naturally heedless and when in play become so absorbed as to invite injury from accident," states the commissioner.

Can Be Taught
"Children can be taught to be careful," Dr. Bundesen believes that carefulness can be made habitual. He sums up some of the things which conserve the life of a child: "Teaching how to cross streets and highways safely. Limiting playing or walking to the sidewalk. Training children to be alert and watchful. Never allowing very small children to go far from home, unless attended by an older person. Keeping children with bicycles off the boulevards and through streets. Enforcing measures against speeding, especially in respect to trucks. These usually take side streets where children play and therefore they take a heavy toll of child life."

"Have your children adopt the slogans, 'Better be safe than sorry' and 'The curb is your limit.' A great factor in the education of the school children is the organization of the school patrol force. Over 5,000 boys are engaged in this work in and about Chicago public and parochial schools."

Community Responsible
The community is responsible for the little children on the streets. Accident prevention is one of the most productive health fields in which all citizens may work because the prevention of accidents is principally a matter of habit formation and understanding of the causes of accidents and means of their prevention. Therefore begin safety training early," are the concluding words of the commissioner.

PROSPERITY LIKELY TO CONTINUE, BELIEF

Report of Federal Reserve Board Indicates That Good Times Are Expected

There is a substantial promise of continuing prosperity in the United States, according to the report of the Federal Reserve board, for 1925, just made public here.

The basic industries have increased their output considerably over the figures for the first quarter of 1924 and there has been a big increase in the foreign demand for American goods. The volume of merchandising in the United States has been at a higher level than during the same period last year and the sales of mail order houses, and agricultural implement manufacturers show a decided increase over both 1923 and 1924.

The payroll of factory workers is still somewhat lower than it was in the first quarter of 1924 but it is increasing steadily over the low point reached in June last year.

The increase in the value of our exports is due principally to the export of raw material at higher prices. Exports of cotton have increased nearly fifty per cent since last summer. Exports of copper have increased seventeen per cent, and exports of wheat have gained 153 per cent.

Among the domestic industries the manufacturers of automobiles and building materials continue in the van.

READ POETRY FOR RECREATION, ADVICE
SUGGESTION OF PROFESSOR
Says It Will Give New Interest in Life and Help Get Out of Tiresome Rats On Workaday World
If you would get away from the tiresome rats of life, read poetry. It is impossible to exercise all the sides, you would find a new interest in life, take up Tennyson or Browning. The average, everyday American needs poetry, says Prof. Frederick B. Kaye, poetry professor of English at Northwestern University, who talked recently over the Chicago Daily News radio on "What Poetry is Not—With Some Remarks as to What It Is."
Many Sides
"Our mental and emotional self has many sides to it and in actual life it is impossible to exercise all the sides," said Dr. Kaye. "If we try to, we shall only make fools of ourselves or get locked up by the police. The result is that most of us get running in a little rut. We do the same things again and again, and hardly ever do anything but those same things. The result is that a large part of us goes to seed, and whether we know it or not, we grow more and more dried up and ingrown—and all because we get no food and exercise to large tracts of our nature."
Keeps Feeling Exercised
"Not only can it give us much pleasure when we know how to read it, but by means of its appeal to various aspects of our emotional nature which in our work-a-day life is not unused, it keeps our feelings properly and pleasantly exercised; it protects us from drying up and stiffening mentally before our time. It is especially valuable to people of strong emotions—just as an athlete needs more exercise than an anemic invalid. Poetry, you see, is far from being just a plaything for spiritless people. It is
