RICHARD J. STREET
FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Was Well Known Here; Remains Brought to Lake Forest for Burial

Mr. Richard Jason Street who died in a sanitarium at National City, California a week ago and was buried in the Lake Forest cemetery Tuesday afternoon, June 16, was well known to the old residents of Highland Park where he lived for many years in the house now owned and occupied by Mr. L. A. Hine on the corner of Laurel and Linden avenues. Mr. Street was a brother of Mrs. George D. Boulton, and their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Street, well known to the older generation, lived here many years and died here in 1903 and 1897 respectively.

Mr. Street at the time of his death was in his seventy-eighth year and until his retirement was in the employ of the First National Bank, Chicago, having been cashier for many years. Mr. Boulton too, was in the service of the same institution, retiring as vice-president.

giving away of a four-door Ford sedan with complete equipment.

General chairman for the celebration are George Kreusch, representing the Legion post, and J. P. O'Connell for the Elks lodge. Clifford Moran is the general secretary.

This promises to be a fine celebration, and Highland Park residents are urged to co-operate with the Elks and the legionnaires and the committees with a view to making the observance in fact as well as in name a real Highland Park celebration in which all the people of the community may participate.

It is hoped that merchants and householders will unite in the matter of general decoration of suitable character for the day, so that the city as a whole may present a truly festive appearance in keeping with the great anniversary and the celebration marking it.

Everybody is invited to help make this a real Fourth of July celebration beginning with the big parade which will form at the corner of Ravine and South St. John's avenue at 9:45 o'clock in the morning and march north to Central and down to the new flag pole, where a stop will be made while the D. A. R. ceremonies or dedication of the staff will be held. Then the column will move north on Sheridan road to Park avenue, west on Park to St. Johns and thence to Green Bay road and Sunset park.

Skokie Valley Breeding Places
Cleaned Up or Oiled; Will Minimize Pest

Operations of the oiling crews recently sent by the Sanitary District of Chicago into the Des Plaines and Skokie valley regions subject to acute mosquito infestation have resulted in destruction of millions of the winged pests.

This gratifying progress in the warfare against the insect hordes, undertaken annually by the district as an aid to communities with affected areas, is indicated in reports from the field to Edward F. Moore, the district's superintendent of maintenance and operation, who is in charge of the program.

Fifteen men divided into squads were assigned to the Skokie Valley, where they will continue work until the situation there is well under control; a result already in sight. The Skokie ditch has been sprayed with oil from near Highland Park south to Evanston, the area of treatment also including all surrounding ditches where evidences of mosquito breeding are observed.

Other Skokie birthplaces of the wriggler, which unless stamped out in this stage becomes the full grown house mosquito with a highly developed capacity for raising minute but painful bumps on the human anatomy, were a large swamp along the country highway near Ravinia Park, an open sewer from the Ridge road and Lake avenue to Sheridan road and Kenilworth, and the well-known Skokie ditch.

The oiling crews now have reached these points which they will clean up and inspect thoroughly at regular intervals afterward until the possibility of more mosquito breeding is permanently obliterated for this year at least. In this section, as in the western suburbs, the inspectors report that the first oiling has seemingly overwhelmed the mosquito and that no recurrence of breeding is noticeable.

From a general check-up on the results of the mosquito war both in the Des Plaines valley and Skokie sections, Superintendent Moore declared that complete control of the pest has been virtually established in both regions.

"During the recent period of excessively torrid weather," Mr. Moore said, "our inspectors were unable to find any signs of mosquito breeding in the places which had been included in the treatment work started in April."

While surface appearances indicate the total abolition of the winged pest, trustee Morris Eller, chairman of the district committee on finance, is authority for the statement that the control workers will not be withdrawn until all doubt of a revival of mosquito infestation this year has been positively removed.

Renewed assurances also were issued by President King today of the Sanitary District's intention to push the control program without abatement until fall. Squads are being assigned to sections which have transmitted urgent requests for co-operation, just as rapidly as possible, he said, adding that the anti-mosquito war will be continued on its present scientific basis until the situation is cleaned up completely.

Mr. King again directed attention to the previously published list of mosquito hints to be followed by home owners and asked for careful co-operation in this regard with the efforts of the Sanitary District to combat a nuisance that annually detracts much from full enjoyment of the summer months in the suburban districts of Cook county.

VILLAGE OF DEERFIELD IS SHORT OF WATER

Owing to the great shortage of water, it has become necessary for the village authorities of Deerfield to pass an ordinance prohibiting the use of sprinkler systems or hose for the purpose of watering gardens or lawns between the hours of 7:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. from May 1 to October 1.

Provision is being made by the village officials to better their water supply situation.

In the meantime the administration asks the co-operation of every resident to enable all to enjoy the use of water in their homes at all hours.
