Man Walking on Dees Struck by Car; Wo Children in Coll Trainman Kill

Four auto crashes and one tractor accident in and near Highland Park in the last week resulted in injuries, more or less severe, to nine adults and children, of whom were given attention at Highland Park hospital.

The most recent and most serious accidents occurred Monday night, about 9:30 p.m., on the Deerfield road, just west of the first bridge, when Carl Fosberg, of the Meyers camp on the North Shore, was struck by an automobile while walking west with a party, Erling Norman. Fosberg was fractured at the hip and arm places and an arm broken. He was taken to the hospital. Norman was not hurt.

Walking on Road—Fosberg and Norman were west with the traffic, according to reports to the police. L. Berg, driving a Buick, came up behind them and turned out to pass them. The Buick cars were behind the Buick car, evidently the first car in the rear of the group. Berg went the wrong way into the ditch. Norman did not get out of the car and the police searched for some time fearing he was badly hurt and lay in the ditch. He was later found at the camp, where he had been during the accident. Fosberg was taken to the hospital, where his injuries were reported serious.

Ran Over by Tractor—On Monday William Ryden, of Leuer Bros., while driving a Fordson tractor on a vacant lot near Rapp Bros. store, fell off the machine, which ran over his leg, according to police reports. His leg was badly crushed. He was taken to the hospital.

Four Chicago people were less cut and bruised in an auto collision Sunday at the corner of Sheridan and Linden. The report says that Mrs. W. E. Rutledge, of Cailliac, was going west on Linden and stopped at the stop sign, and after starting the stop sign, a Ford sedan, driven by Koolconian of Chicago met her in a head-on collision. Koolconian was not hurt, but four others in the car were bruised and cut. The Mrs. Koolconian, her son, aged 3, and Mrs. and Miss Ahlstrom, all of Chicago, were left in the hospital on Tuesday afternoon. The report says the Ford was going west to make the turn properly.

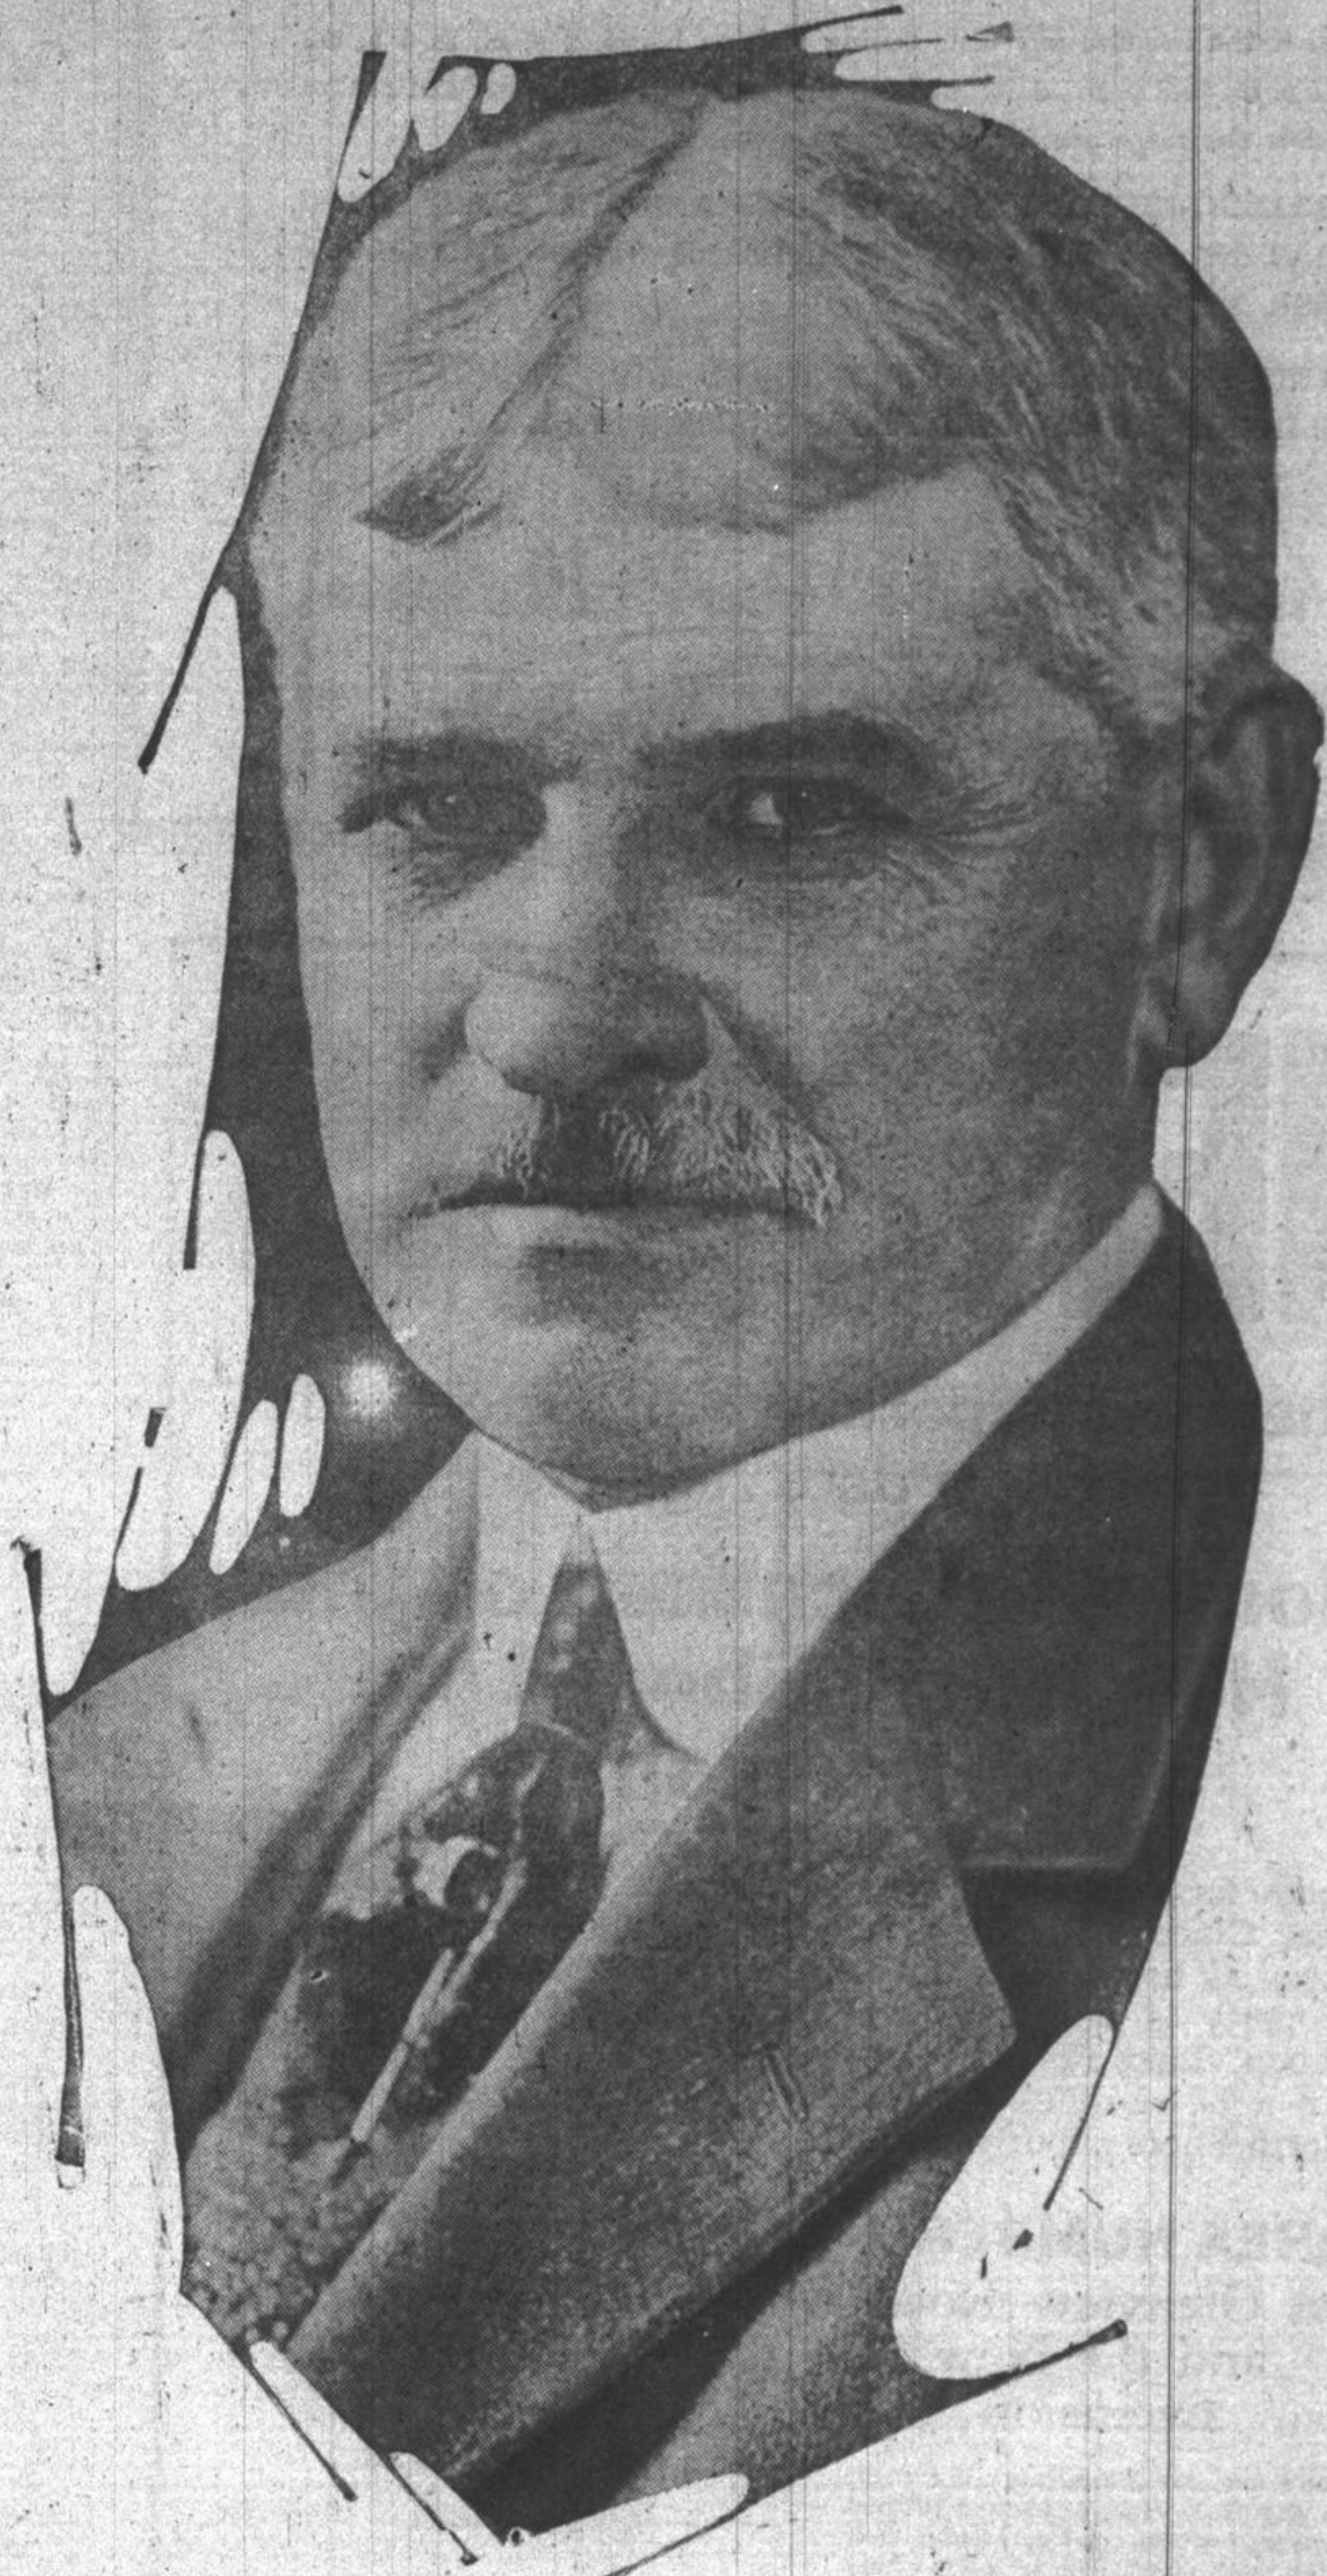

Another Smashing—Another auto smash occurred Sunday at the intersection of Linden and Highwood, caused injuries to Mrs. W. E. Rutledge and two children of Highwood. A Chevrolet sedan they were driving north in Linden avenue, according to the police report, and their car struck head-on by a Ricker coupe, driven by Mrs. Ed Strother of Chicago, whose car was going west on Vine. The Chevrolet was overturned and occupants spilled out. They were taken to the office of Dr. Jackson, where their bruises and cuts were given proper attention.

Killed in Train Wreck—In a freight train crash Sunday evening, near the Deerpath crossing of the west line of the North Branch railroad, E. W. Routen, brakeman, who was riding on top of one of the cars, was killed. He was hurled from the car and farm machinery of the wrecked cars piled on him and he was dead when taken out.

The wreck was caused when a northbound freight jumped the rails and fell across the southbound train, on which it was braking, crashed into the passenger car, derailing six or seven of its cars. Shortly afterwards a section from Lake Bluff came along on the main line, and crashed into the wreckage, injuring seven of the 12 men on it, some of them quite seriously. They were taken to the Forest hospital.

I GREATLY appreciate the Religious Department of the Herald and Examiner, —both because it gives liberal space to the news of the churches and also because its reporters seem anxious to put the public utterances of religious leaders in true proportion and away from sensationalism.”
