Claimed the women have shortened everything including skirts, sleeves, hair, etc. Not complained that all of them have shortened their talk, however. No wonder the men call their best girls "sweethearts," considering how hard it is to get 'em by a soda fountain. The time formerly spent in hoeing the back yard now seems to be occupied in polishing the automobile.

SURTAX REDUCTION WOULD AID BUSINESS

In Opinion of Government Official: Huge Sum in Tax-Exempt Securities

Reduction of surtax rates means the diversion of investments by the wealthy from tax exempt securities into productive enterprise, and a consequent increase of the revenues, according to Garrard B. Winston, Under Secretary of the United States Treasury in an address recently given before the National Association of Credit Men.

Mr. Winston stated that $13,000,000,000 worth of tax exempt securities are now being held in America and the amount will soon be increased to $15,000,000,000. Under these conditions men of wealth who hold most of the securities, escape taxation and the money is withheld from productive enterprise. Under excessive surtax rates therefore, the money goes into tax exempt securities, industry cannot function normally and business is discouraged.

Mr. Winston said: "It is not the total amount of taxation which is objectionable but the effect of the unscientific high rates upon the normal play of economic forces. Idle funds in the hands of a wealthy man are not attracted to a six per cent taxable bond or to an eight per cent investment when a perfectly safe four and one-half per cent tax exempt security yields more net income to him. A man is not interested in risking his money and his energy in a new enterprise where, if he wins, the government appropriates half his winnings, and if he loses he stands the whole of his loss. An investor does not desire productive asset when he can let a property lie idle and its increment in value is not reachable by the tax collector. All this is wrong. Its effect ultimately is to increase costs and to narrow the margin upon which the credit of business rests.

"If, however, we cut down these tax rates to a reasonable figure the high differential of a tax-exempt over a taxable investment is brought within proper limits, and funds seek normal investment; initiative and new ventures are not so heavily penalized, and we can expect movement ahead; artificial restraint on business and artificial methods of handling industry no longer are worth while, expense is saved and we have a greater margin of profit available. This is the solution which is within the power of the country to make and which I feel confident must ultimately come."

58 YEARS OF GOOD FURNITURE

AUNT JULIA'S ROCKING CHAIR

"You can put only a quart of water in a quart bottle," said Aunt Julia, "and by the same reasoning a woman can do only a certain number of things in a day. None of us can ever watch the sun go down without thinking of something we wanted to do or ought to have done that will have to go over till the next day. But some of us are smart enough to pick out the really important things and tend to them."

A big help in getting time for the really important things is to let our laundry take care of your washing. For "home washing" ceased being one of the important things just as soon as our many family services made it possible to turn the work over to us. But it is still a habit with many women—a habit it will pay them to break before it breaks them.
