

LOCAL PEOPLE GOING TO LANDSCAPE SCHOOL

Much interest is manifested locally in the Institute of Landscape Design being conducted this week and part of next in Lake Forest under the auspices of the Lake Forest Garden club, and a number of Highland Park people are attending the sessions, which are held in the Gorton school each morning, with visits to noted estates in the afternoons. Landscape architects of national reputation are in charge and the course is a highly interesting and profitable one, with students present from many distant points and other states.
