

Edward F. Dunne

Former Governor of Illinois
Ex-Mayor of Chicago

“I HAVE been a constant subscriber for and reader of the Chicago Herald and Examiner for many years past. While I am not always in accord with some of its views I can cheerfully and truthfully say that as a rule it has stood for popular rights in Chicago, the state and the nation. The Brisbane and Hinman columns are always most entertaining and instructive. I always look for the literary page of the Sunday Herald and Examiner and am never disappointed in it. That page is more valuable to me than most of the current magazines. To the credit of the Herald and Examiner it may be said it has taken the lead in many of the recent struggles for the maintenance of the peoples' rights.”
