UTILITIES DOUBLE STOCKHOLDER LIST

Increase Since War in Public Ownership of Shares in These Companies

Electric light and power and gas companies have more than doubled their total number of stockholders since the World War, according to a survey, the results of which recently were reported to the Academy of Political Science.

The report was made by Robert S. Brinker, vice-chairman of the Committee on Public Relations of the Eastern Railroad.

More than half of the gain, according to Mr. Brinker, has been among customer-owners of the utilities. The increase in this class of stockholders since January 1, 1918, has been 815,955. The increase of all classes of stockholders, including employe-owners, during the period covered was 1,361,279.

In 1918 there were 1,250,000 investors in common and preferred stocks of electric and gas companies, as compared with a total of 1,283,511 in all other industries for which statistics were available, including the railroads. Today there are 2,611,279, as compared with 2,400,900 in all other industries. Upwards of 75,000 more gas and electricity company employe-owners stock in their respective companies than did so in 1918.

Since 1918, Mr. Brinker's report estimates, there have been added at least 3,500,000 stockholders to the lists of the public utilities and other corporate enterprises. Of this total some 500,000 are employes, 1,000,000 are customers and the other 2,000,000 have been drawn from the general public.

"In addition to the stockholders," the report continues, "there has been an increase of at least 2,500,000 bond-holders—on a most conservative basis. In some industries, such as the telephone, the street railways and other public utilities, the increase in bond-holders is almost parallel to the increase in stockholders."

More than 7,000 persons were guests of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois during its first Open House Week, held recently.

During the week all of the company's gas plants, electric generating stations and offices were thrown open and the public invited to visit them and get an insight into the intricate details of the mass production and the delivery of gas and electricity for use of approximately three-quarters of a million persons who reside in the territory served. Guests were personally conducted by guides qualified to discuss every phase of operation.

Invitations were extended to the general public, schools, colleges, civic clubs, churches and other organizations.

The interest manifested by the public in the company's first Open House Week will result, probably, in its being made an annual event.

LAFOLLETTE'S DEATH BLOW TO RADICALS

Especially Felt in Wisconsin Where Swing Back to Conservatism Seen

The death of Senator Robert M. La Follette in Washington recently will have a sweeping effect on the fortunes of the so-called radical movement both in and out of congress, according to the belief of the political observers here.

So far as the state of Wisconsin is concerned, it is believed that the tendency will undoubtedly be back toward conservatism, and that the regular Republicans will eventually regain control of the state. Two of the La Follette chiefs in Wisconsin are Attorney General Enck and Governor Blaine, and these two men will doubtless figure in the senatorial election in Wisconsin next year. It is not believed however, that either of them can unite the La Follette forces, and it is said that there is not a figure in the state capable of taking the place of Senator La Follette among the radicals.

There is much speculation as to the name of the person who will assume the leadership of the so-called radical block in the senate. Of the senators who joined the radical movement in 1924 Senator Ladd is in danger of losing his seat to the Democratic contestant and Senator Wheeler has rejoined the Democratic party. The name of Senator Norris has been brought forward, but Senator Norris has never officially left the Republican party, though differing widely with the regulars.

Observers are agreed that the death of Senator La Follette will have wide influence on the fortunes of the radical statesmen of the country and they will doubtless be greatly handicapped by lack of a leader with force enough to unite them even so far as they were united in the 1924 campaign.

WANT ALL NATIONS DISARM BUT RUSSIA
Communists' Pacifism Does Not Extend to Soviet Government

"It is fair to say in behalf of the socialists and communists who assemble in mass meetings in this country and declare in favor of disarmament that they are not so pacifistic as they claim to be," says the National Republic (Washington) editorially. "They are in favor of disarming all nations in which private property is permitted to exist, but they are also in favor of the maintenance by the comrades in Russia of the largest standing army in the world. With all other nations disarmed and the "red" army of two-thirds of a million men on the job, there would be no one to resist the communist ambition of world-wide domination. This would ensure peace on earth, good will to men as it flourishes in Russia, where no life insurance policies are written on people who differ politically with the party in power."

HORSEPOWER SERVICE CHEAPER THAN EVER

Worth 40 Cents an Hour in Old Days; Only 8 Cents Now in Electric Units

There was a time—and that not so many years ago—when a person could buy the service of a horse for 40 cents an hour.

Today, the electric equivalent of a horsepower costs about eight cents an hour, depending on the size and efficiency of the generating station. A person can use the electric horse for five minutes, then dismiss him for a while and use him again later in the day for another five minutes. Perhaps he would be used for a whole hour, in the course of the day. And his cost for that hour would be only approximately eight cents.

But, if one were hiring a 4-footed horse, and were to use him in 5-minute stretches twelve times a day, what would be the difference? The person using him would have to pay 40 cents an hour for the eight hours of the working day, or $3.20 for the day, as compared to the eight cents which the electric horse costs.
