AMERICA'S ENEMY—FAT.
A SHORT-HORN BULL.
A ROOF TO THE EARTH.
10-POUND BABY?—WRONG.

What is more dangerous than ocean travel, riding on railroads, or flying in an airplane?

The answer, given by Mr. Johnson, of the National Life Insurance company, is FAT.

Fat kills Americans more rapidly than anything else. Fat degenerates the heart kills many. Fat accumulates on middle-aged business men, and that kills them before their time.

In old age especially fat is dangerous. And in old age it is most difficult to get rid of dangerous fat. The heart won't stand exercise that might take the fat off. The people will cannot control diet.

The safest place in the world as regards accidents is the cabin of a big steamship on the ocean.

Next in safety comes a railroad train, and before long the flying machine will be safer than either.

The man in greatest danger is the fat man past middle age, eating heartily and hurriedly when he is tired. Don't insure him.

Good news for little automobile owners. Gasoline prices are slashed all over the country. Yesterday, in eastern territory, the cut was three cents a gallon. In the middle west many buy gas under 14 cents. It makes a big difference to those that count the cost of living and motoring.

It means nothing to the big men; they don't care what gasoline costs. And many of them, owning oil stocks, feel rather sad. A three-cent cut in gas may mean a $30 drop in oil stock.

A short-horn bull was sold in the Argentine Republic yesterday for $60,000, record price for that breed. The real record is the price paid in this country by the Carnation Farms company for a Holstein bull—$102,000.

These prices show what can be done by breeding among animals. You can get a perfectly good bull for $40. But a little change in the shape of the animal, produced by a careful selection of the mysterious chromosomes, makes a big difference.

Students of eugenics think careful breeding will produce equal improvement in human beings. They are mistaken.

Learned men, including church-men, once taught that there was a roof to this earth, solid, held up by its own strength and called the sky.

When Galileo denied it and said the earth was a round ball whirling around the sun, he had to get down on his knees saying that he "retracted, abjured and abhorred his false teachings"—which happened to be perfectly true.

The idea of a solid sky above us, with stars planted in it here and there, faded out. But now the radio experts of the Navy say the earth actually has a "roof" of another kind. It exists, presumably, where our thin atmosphere melts away into the ether, "an ionized region in the higher levels of the atmosphere," the scientists call it.

The "imponderable ether," so dense that solid steel in comparison is like a coarse fish net, certainly does enclose our earth and its thin atmosphere.

Radio waves such as we use may be able to travel outside that atmosphere. If so, science will find some other wave that will take messages to other planets.

If light-producing waves can travel from the sun to the earth, men will find some wave that will carry information from the earth to the sun and beyond.

Learn, proud parents, that the much prased "ten-pound boy baby" isn't the thing at all. The average normal boy baby weighs 7 1/2 pounds at birth.

One learned Italian has written a book to prove that women, by special diet, can and should keep the unborn child from becoming too fat for its own sake and for the mother's sake.

We have a lot to learn about taking care of children before they are born, including the science of saving them from piling on fat that makes birth more difficult and is lost right after birth.

Possibly not so many tears would be shed in this country if the people thereof would consent to shed a little more sweat.

The fake stock salesmen do not probably read the Bible much, but someone seems to have informed them that the fool and his money are soon parted.

INCOMES GAIN MORE THAN COST OF LIVING

Washington, D. C.—According to a report soon to be issued by the National Bureau of Economic Research for the years 1909 to 1921 the average American income during those years steadily increased and there seems no reason to doubt that it is still increasing. In 1909 the total income according to the report was $27,100,000,000 and the annual total rose steadily until 1920 when it reached the total of $74,158,000,000. Then followed the period of deflation and in 1921 the total dropped to $62,736,000,000.

"The price changes during the more recent years of this period have been so violent that comparisons of money values for different years tell practically nothing about the variations that have occurred either in the physical volume of business or in the quantity of goods that the income will buy," said a statement by the bureau supplementing the advance figures.

"It has been necessary, therefore, to convert many items into figures representing values in money of constant purchasing power. For this purpose, prices of the year 1913 have been commonly taken as standard.

Five indices of prices were used by the bureau for this purpose.

"The results indicate that while the income in current dollars fluctuated widely in 1919, 1920 and 1921, the actual purchasing power has varied but slightly and for the thirteen years under review, the real income of the people has shown a practically continuous upward trend."

The results revealed that for the thirteen years under review, the hypothetical "average person" had more than doubled the number of dollars constituting his current income, and that even when this income was reduced to dollars of 1913 purchasing power, his economic position had been considerably improved.

The average nominal incomes of the "gainfully occupied," also virtually doubled during the thirteen-year period, according to the summary. Changes in the purchasing power of this income, however, were much smaller in extent, but nevertheless the average in recent years has been considerably higher than in the earlier ones, "indicating a persistent increase in the economic welfare of the nation's moneymakers."

High speed electrified service on
New Skokie Valley Division

~adds the beautiful Lake County
Countryside to Chicago's suburban area

FOR years Chicago people have visited the beautiful Lake County Countryside to enjoy its trees, hills, flowers and other natural advantages. And families of means have established their fine country estates in this picturesque vicinity.

But most Chicago families, much as they would like to, could not heretofore consider living in this ideal home locality, and for one reason: the absence of adequate fast transportation. To these people, then, and to thousands of others, the new extension of the North Shore Line Railroad brings welcome news.

An existing arm of the North Shore Line, serving the towns of Mundelein and Libertyville in the Lake County Countryside, has already been double tracked. Early in 1926 the new Skokie Valley Division, connecting with the Mundelein-Libertyville division, will be completed, affording fast, frequent, through service to downtown Chicago.

Mundelein and Libertyville are established towns, with good schools, stores, churches and all modern home conveniences. These ideal home communities offer you all the allurements of the country plus the home comforts of a large city.
