ELKS TEAM WINS FROM EVANSTON

BREAK LOSING STREAK
Rudolph Hits Homer; Play Glenview Next Sunday on Local Field; Big Battle Is Expected

(By K. Skidmore).
The local Elks team broke its losing streak Sunday by taking the Evanston colored team into camp, the score being 7-5. George Rudolph's homer over the left field fence with Angelo on base in the 6th and Hessler twinning featured.

In the first Glader, Little and Zauder's fluke double to count the runs. The colored boys counted one in the second on a single, a double and Walsh's error. The home team scored three more in the sixth on a hit by Hessler, two errors and Rudolph's circuit smash. One more counted in the seventh on Birchhoff's single and Angelo's double. The Evanston team counted two in the eighth and two in the ninth. Hessler fanned ten but his support was poor.

"OLD MAN" BALKS AT BALLOON TROUSERS

Leaves Younger Generation Flat When That Fad Hit Town; Safety First

Just when it is that the "old man" behind the big desk of the office becomes distinctly "old" and is marked off by some invisible line from the younger generation?

One such executive remembers that when he was a boy he stood in his soft shirt, with link cuff buttons, before an employer who wore a "boiled" shirt, diamond studs, and "perfect circle" cuffs held together with great onyx-topped cuff buttons, says a writer in the Nation's Business Magazine.

He felt alien to this man, and swore softly to himself that he would never fence himself off thus as an "oldster" and lock off the younger generation. He read the writings of David Starr Jordan and learned from them that "the old are always losing—the young are always winning" and that "the outraged cry of parenthood echoes down the ages."

When soft collars for young men came in he rebelled, but laid aside his starched collar for one that felt like a Turkish towel around his neck until he got used to it. He even wore a soft shirt with his Tuxedo coat as his growing boys did.

But that's all over now. He has defied youth and has sworn to battle on the side of old age without compromise.

Youth's latest advance proved too much for him. He saw some pictures of Princeton lads calling the President Coolidge. They wore trousers conspicuously bell-shaped at the bottoms. And big brogan shoes "set off" the bell-shaped trouser bottoms.

Then came the day when his own sons came home from college in bell-shaped trousers. Would father follow through and adopt them? It was a hard moment for father. All arguments in life had made it necessary to adopt his new-growth along with the rest.

Father noticed that bell-shaped trousers meant immunity for his own within his closet. And that brogan shoes meant similar immunity for his well-tread but narrow-toed shoes. The new fashion—it can go, have its "safety first for father," it dominates this oldest to an oldest stand.

There will be special music at both the morning and evening services, and the annual offering for Foreign Missions will be received.

BRITISH PREFER AUTOMATIC PHONE

Automatic telephones are gradually being introduced in Great Britain, and, in the near future, it is planned to install 32 automatic exchanges in the city of London to connect about 160,000 lines of telephone, and 129 provincial exchanges with more than 200,000 lines. The British have found the automatic telephone efficient, fast and sure. It is estimated that it will take between 15 and 20 years to convert London entirely to automatic telephones.

Y. W. C. A. MERITS SUPPORT

No organization in Highland Park is more worthy of support than the Young Women's Christian Association, the annual budget campaign for which is now well under way. The financial statement for the past year, published last week shows that the affairs of the association have been ably handled and used to the best advantage, and the reports of the various departments evidence the great worth-while work which has done for the benefit of the girls and young women of the community. This work is rapidly increasing in scope with the marked growth of the city, and this year the association will need all of the $5,948.00 asked for in this campaign for current expenses.

It is believed that the people of Highland Park, who have hitherto given the Y. W. such loyal support, will not fail to again generously rally to its support, realizing the great and good work which is being done by the association in so many ways for the benefit of the young women of the city.

Sale of the association's property at the corner of Green Bay road and Central avenue is pending, but the board rightly holds that any profit therefrom should be reserved for the ultimate establishment of a permanent home for the association rather than that any part thereof should be used for current expenses. The association must have a building, and funds which may be obtained from such sale must necessarily be devoted to that purpose. In order that the regular work of the association may be continued and expanded with the growth of the community money for ordinary expenses is required from year to year. To raise this money the present campaign is being carried on. It is a most worthy cause and one which should have the hearty support of the entire community.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF RUBBER

The prices of automobile tires have been advancing rapidly during the past few weeks. The cause we are told, is the unprecedented rise in the price of crude rubber which has advanced from 36 cents to more than $1.50 per pound. The advance is due to the corner on the crude rubber market by the British who control the rubber output of the world.

There have been vehement protests from tire manufacturers and from automobile users. Conferences have been held with a view of remedying the situation. It has been suggested that Americans go into the rubber growing business. This might ultimately bring relief but the trouble is that five or six years must elapse at best, before American crude rubber can be brought into the market.

The reason that America has depended upon British crude rubber is that the British, using native labor could produce it cheaper. According to free trade doctrine the arrangement should have been ideal. But unfortunately it did not work out that way, the National Republic explains. The cheapest market has become the dearest.

The free traders maintain that we should do the same thing about sugar—buy in the cheapest market. Eliminating the sugar tariff would cut off American production because the Cuban producer could undersell the American producer. But what would happen when the wily Cuban had eliminated all competition? Exactly the same thing that has happened in the rubber situation.

It is human nature to demand the highest price when one has a corner on the product. The only way to prevent being held up is to prevent the corner, and this can best be done by competition—American rubber coming from the Philippines or other points in the tropics would do this just as American sugar is doing it. The cheapest market in the long run may become the highest market if domestic competition is eliminated. The rubber situation proves it.

EDUCATION OF GIRLS

Many American husbands and expectant husbands will commend the declaration of Miss C. J. H. Cowdroy, head of one of the principal schools in London, who says that girls who cannot cook, sew, wash and iron clothing are not well educated, even though they hold the degrees of all the universities under the sun. Some educators, according to Miss Cowdroy, want girls to be trained like boys, with an eye to their future careers, but since ten out of every eleven women marry this fact ought to be considered in feminine education. Her opinion is thus quoted in the National Republic magazine:

"I deprecate the view some educationalists hold that a woman can possess far higher qualities than those which go to make a wise wife and mother" said the head mistress. "Some think the clever girls too good for that, the dullards being good enough to continue the race.

"I understand that in some British schools for girls the pupils are divided into two sections, the clever half studying science and the dead language, while the duller girls give their time to cookery and housewifery. I also understand the second set refer to the first as the 'brainless old maids,' so perhaps they are not so dull after all.

"A girl should be proud that she can cook and sew, iron and wash and that she can save some money wisely and well. I hold that a girl who cannot do all these things is not well educated, although she may have been awarded the degrees of all the universities in the world."

In America we hear a great deal nowadays about the flapper and her inefficiency in regard to domestic pursuits. Despite popular belief, however, it is a good bet that the average girl of today is just as capable of evolving into a good housewife and becoming a good parent as was her mother before her.

Modern invention has taken away a great deal of household drudgery which was formerly regarded as inevitable. It has not however taken away the domestic and maternal instinct of the modern girl. If given the opportunity and treated right she will perform her part of the bargain.

There is, however, a great deal of food for thought in Miss Cowdroy's remarks on some of the theories of modern education.
