PLAN CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING MEASURE

PRESIDENT FAVORS BILL

If Congress Follows His Suggestions Problems of Both Producer & Consumer May Be Solved

A co-operative marketing bill will no doubt be introduced at the coming session of congress. This will be directly in line with the utterances of President Coolidge, who, in an address before the National Republican club in New York, said, "I have already encouraged organization and co-operative marketing that organized agriculture may cope with organized industry."

In an address to the Association of Land Grant colleges, held in Washington last year, the President said, "I want to see courses in co-operative marketing and farm economics alongside of soil chemistry and animal husbandry. The agricultural problem of today is not on the side of production, but on the side of distribution. I want to see a good farmer on a good farm raise a good crop and secure a good price."

Action Necessary
That some action is necessary is best evidenced by the fact that the "spread" between the producer and the consumer is becoming greater every day all over the nation. A small class of middlemen must be reaping enormous profits, for the small retailer declares that his profits are not large. The producer, while receiving good, is not getting fabulous, prices for his products. The consumer is paying prices that are out of proportion to the amounts received by the producer for his products.

A striking example is shown by a shopping tour made by a Washington householder last week. This is the result. Seventeen potatoes, not first class potatoes either, cost 25 cents. In another store two lamb chops cost 30 cents; while in still another place lemons, not even of A-1 grade, cost $1 a dozen. At another store orle and a half pounds of string beans, rather anemic in appearance, cost 23 cents. A dozen oranges ate up a dollar bill.

Good Barometer
The articles mentioned are a good barometer of prices of other food products. While it is true that the wages in the United States are far higher than in any other country, and while it is also true that the people do not object to paying the producer a good price for his goods, it is also a fact that there is a general complaint throughout the country against the small group of middlemen who have little, if any, capital invested and who take practically no risks in business.

It is acknowledged by economists and other experts that the President's suggestions along the lines of co-operative marketing, if followed by congress, will do much in solving the problem of both the producer and the consumer.

QUESTION RULING ON NORTHWESTERN RATES

Head of Illinois Commission States State Body Will Continue Probe

Washington despatches on Tuesday morning brought report that the interstate commerce commission had authorized an increase of 20 per cent in Northwestern commutation fares within the state of Illinois. This ruling, if carried into effect by Nov. 23, 1925, as decision allows, will affect chiefly suburban traffic out of Chicago.

Considerable Speculation
There is, however, considerable speculation regarding the matter, as the question of increase of fares asked for by several railroads entering Chicago, including the Northwestern, is still before the Illinois Commerce Commission, and those who are opposing the increase hold that the Illinois commission only has jurisdiction in the case and that the interstate commission cannot dictate rates within the state, but only as regards inter-state business.

Regarding the decision of the interstate federal commission, Cal. Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission, is quoted as saying:

Has Jurisdiction
"I believe that the Illinois Commerce Commission has the jurisdiction of interstate rates and shall proceed with the theory and base our opinion on the facts presented in the evidence and rules whether or not in our belief the increase asked for by the road is justified by the facts presented."

EDUCATION WEEK
"American Education Week" will be observed again this year. The week of November 16 to 22 has been chosen for it, and once more the American Legion, the National Education association, and the Bureau of Education of the Interior Department are co-operating to promote it.

One thing this country needs, is more people scattering seeds of sunshine, as the old song said, and not so many scattering seeds of moonshine.

ART CONTEST

An art contest for children, conducted this spring in the St. Paul Public Library, was participated in by more than 300 children. The schools co-operated and work of a high order was presented. Sixty of the children received prizes of attractive art books and framed and unframed pictures.

People are no longer called lazy if they don't work, but are said merely to be suffering from persistent fatigue.

Those roving homeseekers who wander from place to place and never settle down, are likely to become homeseekers before long.
