This Week

By Arthur Brisbane

THIS WEEK
THE BIRTH CONTROL DEAN.
GAS WAR "BARBAROUS?"
IF SO, WE NEED IT.
RESPECTABLE REAL ESTATE.

The old style of war was to burn the city, kill the men and women. The poison gases, so called, mustard gas, tear gas and other gases are more merciful than powder or bullets, just as powder and bullets are more merciful than weapons of an earlier kind.

In the big war entire regiments, made temporarily blind by tear gas, were taken prisoners and brought into camp, tears streaming down their faces, unable to see their way, with not a man wounded. Not one dead, and the blindness did not last.

Only a sickly sentimentalist can call that kind of warfare "more horrible" than the old fashioned war that shot men to pieces and left them to die of festering wounds on the battlefield.

Meanwhile the army's chemical department, concentrated on study of chemical warfare and chemistry generally, is engaged in work of value to the nation, APART from war.

We are not going to attack anybody, and should develop to the highest point every known method of warfare, including chemical warfare, to be ready for attack.

GARNETT'S

Dean Inge, eminently respectable clergyman at the head of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, favors birth control. He says "LIMIT FREE EDUCATION to not more than three children, from any one family."

He believes parents will limit the number of children, if they have to educate all but three at their own expense. Good, gloomy dean, he knows little about human nature.

And he worries, because common people have most of the children, the birth rate being lowest among the educated classes.

What would the dean have said to Nancy Hanks, with bare feet, a lady unable to read or write, caring for a heavy baby in a hut with a dirt floor, and without windows?

He'd have said "Leave child bearing to the educated upper classes, my dear." But the big baby was Abraham Lincoln. You never can tell.

The latest asinine, intensely dangerous proposition is that the United States should sign an international "protocol," pledging ourselves against the use of chemicals, including poison gases and other gases in future warfare.

Chemical warfare, in addition to being MODERN warfare, is the least brutal, most merciful form of war thus far devised by human brutality. Chemical warfare could render unconscious the inhabitants of a whole city, capturing without killing them.

Be careful about little things. Sigmund Brietbart, called the strongest man in Germany, bent iron bars with his hands, tore horse shoes apart, held two horses pulling against each other. He scratched himself with his nail, blood poison developed—he's dead! Germs too small to be seen with a microscope are stronger than any man. Such germs are usually on the hands.

Real estate is a respectable and considerable business. August Heckscher, who says he is like the old cab horse in Dickens, that would fall down if its driver allowed it to stop, goes on working and occasionally buys something.

A few days ago for "all cash" he bought a 32-story building at No. 61 Broadway, New York, for $17,000,000. That would surprise old Astor, who used to buy farms on Manhattan Island.

Moral: Buy a piece of real estate now, where the $17,000,000 building will be later.

ENROLLMENT INCREASES

Enrollment in universities and colleges of England, Scotland, and Wales of full-time students is 56.9 per cent greater than before the war. This gain has been made in spite of an increase in fees and personal expenses and in the face of financial distress among the classes from which most of the university students are drawn. The demand in Great Britain for university education continues to grow in volume and intensity.
