

EVANSTON GROWING;
MANY MOVING THERE
Over 450 New Residents Arrive
Last Month, According to Late Report

Four hundred and fifty people moved to Evanston during September, according to figures released by the Evanston Chamber of Commerce.

The figures indicate that 270 families, including 675 persons, moved into Evanston in the annual fall migration. This is the largest gain in a single month in the city's history. A total of ninety families, including 225 persons, moved out in the same period, leaving a gain of 450 for Evanston.

Analysis of the lists shows that by far the largest contribution to Evanston's net population comes from Chicago. During the month 172 families, including 430 persons, moved northward from the city. North shore villages and suburban district of Chicago supplied fifty-two persons for local residence, and cities outside the metropolitan area of Chicago and from other states supplied the remainder, totaling 192 persons, with the exception of one family which moved down from Canada.

From Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, the increase in the population, exclusive of births, has been 1,575 persons, making the total population 56,845, according to the carefully tabulated figures of the chamber of commerce.

Within the city itself, there was a heavy movement going on all during September. There were 383 families who are listed as having changed their addresses during the month, representing the moving of 957 persons. One of the significant items revealed in the lists is the fact that there were 302 families out of the 383 who moved into apartments. Of these, only 119 formerly lived in apartments, indicating that the movement was 3-to-1 in indicating a preference for apartment residence. The unusual building program which has been going on all summer, with the completion date set to coincide with the fall moving rush, has brought the apartment renters real results.

NO MORE OBEY.
NO, TO ATHEISM.
RUSSIA THINKING.
BEAR TOOTH NECKLACE.

The Protestant Episcopal Church House of Bishops definitely removes "obey" from the marriage ceremony. Many married ladies had already removed it from the routine of daily life, common sense telling them that if marriage is not an equal partnership, it isn't such.

The old idea about women is dying out not too soon. British husbands no longer are allowed by law to beat their wives with a stick "no thicker than the thumb." The French unwritten law gave fathers authority over their children, according to Westminster, on the theory that the child is the property of the mother, and the mother was the property of the father.

The Moors, according to the same Westminster (see "Origin and Development of Moral Ideas"), believed that old men became saints and old women witches.

Breach of promise cases prove that old men become foolish and old women have to be very patient.

In New York City a group of foolish young men seek to charter a corporation to encourage atheism, and "destroy the power of church and clergy."

Quite a programme, but the judge wouldn't let it go through.

In Russia, on the other hand, a delegation of orthodox priests and bishops begged the government "for an equal civil status with citizens of the Soviet State."

The priests asked the right to publish literature and have for their children (priest of the Greek Church marry) the same education as is given to the children of peasants. The Russian Government said NO.

Russian women also show intelligence fighting an attempt to reduce the marriage age for girls below sixteen, declaring that a girl at sixteen is "only a baby." She is more than that, but it is foolish to let her marry younger than sixteen. The right law would be no marriage under twenty.

The mother gives to the child health, strength, plus moral character, and many other good qualities. She should wait until strength and health are fully developed.

A man contributes to the child character and intelligence, if he has any. He should wait until both are fully developed, say until thirty, among the mentally poorer sort; fifty—as Plato suggested—among the really intelligent.

At Eyzies, in France, has been found, made of teeth from the cave bear, a necklace 25,000 years old. Passion for adornment is as strong as it ever was. Twenty-five thousand years ago cave women pulled teeth from a dead bear to hang something shiny around their necks. Now pearl divers go "all naked to the hungry sharks" to bring up more expensive necklaces.

An estimable lady, just dead in New York state, leaves a collection of jewelry worth literally millions of dollars. It couldn't make her look a day younger or any more beautiful. But, as, with the lady that owned the cave bear teeth necklace, the "urge" was there.

Scientists investigating the alleged transmutation of mercury into gold by a German chemist say the thing has not been done.

Gold basis of currency will not be threatened until some genius finds a way to extract gold from the waters of the ocean as they roll through the English Channel, or out of the Bay of Fundy.

Every ton of sea water contains fifty milligrams of gold. Not much, from a ton, but a good deal if you could get it all. There are on earth about one quintillion three hundred and eighty quintillion tons of sea water, containing about sixty-nine trillion tons of gold. Or one hundred and one thousand two hundred pounds of solid gold for each of the one billion five hundred million men, women and children on earth.

If each of us owned nothing but his share of gold that is in the oceans, he would be worth $48,000,000. However, if any man asks you to invest in a plan to get gold from the ocean, arrest him.

BAPTIST CHURCH IN EVANSTON GETS GIFT
Receives $33,500 from Estate of Late Charles F. Gray, Pioneer in That Section

Receipt of $33,500 from the estate of Charles F. Gray, pioneer of Chicago and Evanston who died last spring, was announced recently by the First Baptist church of Evanston, of which Mr. Gray was a member.

The gift to the church was not contained in Mr. Gray's will, but he verbally requested his family shortly before his death that the money be given.

Twenty thousand dollars of the sum is to go to the woman's society of the church, part of which is to be given to Anna B. Grey, granddaughter, who is at present medical missionary in Burma. This money is to be used toward financing the missionary post where Miss Grey is stationed.

The remainder will be turned over to the Woman's Home Missionary society. The amount to go to each of these agencies will be decided by Mrs. Howard G. Grey, daughter-in-law, and Mrs. Robert L. Scott, a daughter.

The sum of $13,500 will be allotted to the church building fund to help pay for the recent addition and renovation of the structure.
