Following is an extract from a letter received by Prof. Herbert F. Evans from one of his scholars after leaving his class at Berkeley, Calif. "I want to express, Professor Evans, as I did not have opportunity to before you left, my appreciation of the past year's course. Although I did not prepare either semester paper, I think I lost nothing else of the entire work. I gained from it a new horizon, for which I feel indebted to you. And, if you will permit me to say so, I gained from you personally that intangible something which one personally imparts to another that suggestion of certain qualities and worth, which will be a challenge to me and a course of my growing towards the same. I shall be a better and stronger minister to others for having known you, and I am glad to have you know it. Whether we chance to meet again or not, I want to take this opportunity to express my indebtedness and appreciation."
