MAJESTIC PRESENTS SEASONAL OFFERING

"THE GOOSE HANGS HIGH"

Players, Under Direction of Oscar O'Shea. Give Comedy Good Interpretation; Matinee Xmas

ROBERT BRISTER
who plays Hugh Ingals, the older brother, in "The Goose Hangs High," this week at the Majestic Theatre, Waukegan.

A versatile cast, who are in the main well placed, are this week giving "The Goose Hangs High," a comedy packed with the Christmas spirit, to capacity audiences at the Majestic theatre in Waukegan. Under Mr. O'Shea's direction, the players give the scenes an interpretation that bring tears, smiles or guffaws, when the playwright intended they should be.

Particularly convincing in their roles are Walter Bonn as Bernard Ingals, the kindly but harassed father; Esther Evans as Eunice Ingals, the brave mother, and Eugene Head as Bradley Ingals, the son-home from college. A good few lines were well done by William Jule as the upstart Leo Day; and the hand he received on his entrance testified to his popularity with Waukegan audiences. Oscar O'Shea is competent as Kimberley.

A Christmas Play

The theme of the play is seasonally and perennially appropriate. The superficial sophistication and forgetfulness of the twins, in college, melt into sacrificing solicitude when they learn that the family is in hard straits, chiefly because they have been the big expense. As all the three children and a prospective daughter-in-law rally to the family's help, good news comes in from several sources, and the Christmas spirit, sorely threatened, is supreme again.

Clark and Sistare, the lessees, are giving, in addition to their regular performances, a matinee of the play at 2:30, Christmas day.

"Welcome Stranger" Next

Starting Sunday, December 27, the world famous comedy "Welcome Stranger" will be the offering of the players at the Majestic Theatre. This is the piece which has a record of a whole season in Chicago and another in New York, in both places breaking records for receipts and attendance. It is described as one of the most charming entertainments that has ever appeared on the American stage. The Majestic players are among the first stock organizations in the country to secure this great vehicle.

A special midnight show, at 11:45 December 31, and an extra matinee on New Year's day, have been arranged for "Welcome Stranger."

An eastern university professor says that football is a menace to college. Still at that, it isn't much more harmful than studying social-ism.

Nick Longworth is doing his best in congress to convert the blocs into sawdust, and the country is with him.

The battle cry of the pro-league senators in the league court fight is going to be "half a league, half a league, half a league, onward."
