OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR 1926

With a year of improving business conditions and general prosperity just closing, the United States looks forward with confidence to increasing prosperity in the year just beginning. Everywhere there is expression of a spirit of optimism and confidence in the future of business during the next year or two at least, and there is a growing belief that the United States is entering one of the greatest periods of development and business growth in the nation's history.

Indications also are that conditions in Europe and elsewhere throughout the world are improving, with prospects of a long period of peace and increasing prosperity for all nations according to their industry and business activities. There is a widespread feeling of optimism that augurs well for the future, and those who watch keenly the trend of the times predict a period of unsurpassed progress in all lines during the next few years.

Here at home we are benefitting from these conditions. We feel the effect of the general improvement in business conditions and the universal confidence in the future. All in all, the New Year opens most auspiciously, bringing with it promise of peace and prosperity for the world in general and especially for the United States.

AGRICULTURE PROSPECTS IMPROVE

Digesting the year's reports received from our 4,000 farmer field observers and from information compiled by statisticians, reports on agriculture show that as a whole it has steadily forged ahead during the past year. This is the fourth consecutive year in which progress has been made in regaining losses sustained as a result of the economic depression which overtook the agricultural industry in 1920 and 1921.

The average level of farm prices and gross income from farming operations were the highest in 1925 since 1920. This does not tell the full story, for the ratio between farm products and other commodities, or the purchasing power of farm income, attained a level which has not been heretofore reached in the last five years.

For 1924, the Department of Agriculture estimated the gross value of agricultural products at $12,404,000,000. For 1925, it appears now, that this figure will be slightly increased; a slight decrease in total agricultural production was more than compensated for by an increase in prices. In 1924 the farm cash income was estimated at $9,777,000,000. It seems probable that the cash income for 1925 will exceed $10,000,000,000 in cold cash.

Reports made by field observers indicate that production costs during 1925 have been approximately the same as in 1924. Reports on farm wages indicate a slight increase over a year ago. Taxes and interest payments show a slight decline, while other farm operating costs were about the same as prevailed during 1924. Some products have been much more profitable than others. Live stock and live stock products have brought very satisfactory returns. Potatoes, while a short crop, have proved the salvation of many debt ridden farmers. Corn and oats, both large crops, have been disappointments from the cash standpoint. A bumper cotton crop has caused the price decline which will offset most if not all the increased yield. Sugar crop returns were low.

Goodspeed, of the University of Chicago, at the lecture room of the Parish house. All welcome. Before people complain too loudly about the coal strike, might be well to ask if their sawhorses are working. Principal trouble with road conditions nowadays is that the drivers do not usually have a horse to depend upon for the use of intelligence.
