OUR PLATFORM FOR A BETTER HIGHLAND PARK

1. All Night Lighting.
2. New Ornamental Lights to cover the entire business zone.
3. Widening and repaving Green Bay Road to at least 40 feet from city limit to city limit.
4. Widening and repaving West Central Avenue from Green Bay Road west to first Skokie Bridge or Blodgett.
5. Ornamental Lighting System all over town. (Similar to Baird & Warner's Deere Park Subdivision.)

HARD ON THE WAGE EARNER

One of the great faults of the tax exemption plan is that it permits investments in tax-exempt securities, thus taking large sums of money out of commercial pursuits and at the same time allowing this money to escape all federal taxes and forcing an increased burden on those less able to pay. Unearned income, which should bear the greater portion of taxation, is thus escaping, and earned income is forced to shoulder an increasing burden. This is unfair, and as the Manufacturer says, discriminatory and un-American.

AMERICANS ARE WELL FED

Americans today are better fed and with more varieties of nourishing food than the people of any other country on earth. Our food in this country also is better prepared, according to statistics of the Household Arts department of the University of Oregon, which has been investigating this matter. Food is simpler, and in America there is a growing tendency to eat more vegetables in place of meats. More kinds and quantities of vitamin-containing raw foods are being used. Improved cooking facilities with the use of gas and electricity as fuels have facilitated the housewife's task and have done much to improve the regular bill of fare, as well as to reduce the cost.

HOME PAPER BEST

"Irreverent shears are never laid upon the President's home town paper. That is the greatest newspaper, the most important that comes to the White House, and the President wants it all."—Tomahawk, Wisconsin, Leader.

The population of every great city is largely made up of men and women from small towns. Many of them are never weaned away from the old home surroundings and they read the home town paper from the first paragraph to the last. That is the reason the rural papers of America have such a far-reaching influence, in safeguarding the ideals and traditions of our constitutional form of government and what it stands for.

SHOULD LEARN BY EXPERIENCE

Conservative estimates are that in the next four years America will pay to British exporters about four billions of dollars for rubber at prices fixed by a British monopoly. America has nobody to blame for this but herself. If steps had been taken to build up a rubber producing business in territory under American control it would have been impossible for any other nation's producers to fix a price. American rubber manufacturers are now attempting to establish rubber plantations under American control in Liberia and the Philippines, but until they begin producing, there seems to be nothing else to do than "pay the piper" because British commercial enterprise outstripped us for once at least. It ought to be a good lesson for American business interests. There are other commodities more widely used than rubber which should be protected from foreign control of prices. Sugar, for instance.

FINE FOR THE OTHER FELLOW

"Many citizens who believe absolutely in the individual right to private property, when their own stores or their own farms are in question, will favor public ownership of the other fellow's property or industry," says The Manufacturer.

"If you call these citizens socialists, they would be highly insulted. But that is what they are.

"The owner of a peanut wagon or a shoe store who voted for public ownership of some other business would object most strenuously if a proposal were made for the state to own and operate all the peanut wagons and shoe stores. That would be invading the private rights of the individual! But where is the difference in principle? There is none.

"There is constant pressure in politics to drive the socialistic wedge into some private industry. Once the constitutional log which protects private rights and liberty is cracked with the wedge of socialism in one business, it will be hard to prevent its being split wide open as the socialistic principle is applied to other lines of activity."

I AM THE NEWSPAPER

I was born in the silent forests far from the ports of men. I have watched the Redman hunt his game by day and great animals fight to death by the aurora's pale glare!

The woodsman's axe, an icy stream, a merciless shrieking of wheels and knives, terrific heat and pressure, and I am a great white ribbon, spun into a roll, only to be drawn out again through the battering thundering jaws of a printing press.

But in the hands of all men I am now an inspiration, a clairvoyant, a historian. My sides are covered with magic, symbols of a gigantic significance.

I am the voice of the nation; the light of the world. When I go forth I bear the decrees of the greatest brains and threats of the strongest mob forces of my time.

I tell my story; a king topples from his throne, and millions of soldiers march gallantly to an unknown death. I sing their requiem and it is known in the farthest corners of the earth, and in its deepest seas.

I weave dreamer's thoughts, spans of steel over great torrents, and build spires of stone to shelter men's gods. I speak, and continents are served and worlds are cemented.

I tell my tales of the prince and the pauper. My anthems are of the free and the brave; and I chant the song of the wage slave in dusty noon; or I bring comfort to tired eyes and jaded minds by feverish midnight.

I am feared by all men, yet wooed and courted like a fickle muse.

Where men have gathered together I am. And until the last man has gone home to the Great Beyond, I shall be.

I am the papyrus of time.
I am the newspaper.—Ex.

MCANDREW'S TALK IS HEARD BY BIG CROWD

"One of the troubles in the modern school is that we, the instructors, do all of the talking when the pupils are the ones who should be talking. We are in too much of a hurry; the children of today are really memorizing what the teachers say.

"I went into a classroom the other day in which, I was told, the children were estimating. I stood up and turned around before the class and said, 'Here's my front view, here's my side view, here's my back view; now how old am I?' After several varied guesses one little girl raised her hand and finally said, 'Well, we haven't ever had that.'

"We are trying in our Chicago schools to reduce the amount of work covered and to cover our work more thoroughly. In order to cover a lesson well, the lesson must be absorbed. If one is planning to make children think instead of memorize, fewer things must be done and they must be done better.

Purpose of Education
"A person needs to realize the real purpose of the American public schools. When I was a boy in school my teachers said the purpose of the school was to teach us to think. Now the purpose is to teach children to while.

think and to think of things worth. "In closing, the main thing is how I am to get the full benefit of the day.

"Marcus Aurelius, in one of the best sayings I know, said 'Lo, I am rising for that, to that in to which I was born into the world.'

"If you look at the things in the right way one gets a wonderful satisfaction."

Before Mr. McAndrew's talk Martha Milinowski, director of the Lake Forest school of music, played three selections on the piano: March Militaire ... Schubert-Tausig
Tercita ... Carreno
Capriccio Espagnole ... Moszkowski
Mrs. Finn Presides

Mrs. Raymond Finn, president of the high school P. T. A., was chairman, and opened the meeting with an especially appropriate introduction of the speaker.

TRIED TO GET DRINK OUT OF TELEPHONE

"Boss, kin I have a drink of water?"

The speaker was an old colored man who recently came into a store in a typical old South Carolina town, where a cooler of ice water is usually kept in the rear of the store for the convenience of employees and customers. There is also a desk stand telephone on the shelf nearby. The proprietor told the colored man the cooler was in the rear of the store and to go ahead and drink all he wanted. A few minutes later the darkey called: "Boss, I can't get any water out o' this here thing." When the proprietor looked around he found the old man with the telephone in one hand and a tin cup in the other trying his best to pour out the thirst quenching fluid.

Judging from some of the addresses delivered over the radio they might be called "gas" stations.
