"It is easier to save money when you are young than to beg it when you are old." Mr. Appel, president of the Highland Park State bank, told the large audience in the English club room of the Deerfield-Shielda high school, Thursday afternoon at the March meeting of the Parent-Teacher association. Mr. Appel's talk was on "Thrift" and the "Economy of the Wise and the Economy of the Foolish," were emphasized in striking examples.

The parent who fails to send his child to college is an example of the economy of the foolish. The hearers were admonished to keep fit physically and in appearance and to refrain from buying luxuries that they could not afford.

Statistics of the American Bankers Association were quoted to show that at the age of 25 all young men are self-supporting. At 45 77 per cent are self-supporting, 5 per cent are prosperous and 18 per cent dependent.

At 65 only 10 per cent are self-supporting, 5 per cent are prosperous and 85 per cent dependent upon friends, relatives or charity.

Mr. J. C. Baker, vice-president of the Pfanzstiel Products Co., told of the change of attitude of the machine shop foreman in the past fifteen years—at one time the man would not hire a college graduate, today the same man hires all high school graduates and prefers college men. High school and college men turn out more work and are easier to handle, and grasp things quicker, he said.

Mr. C. B. Goodsell, education director of the North Shore R. R., said that the best positions go to the men who have had high school education. He told of the elaborate apprentice system in Milwaukee. A chart was exhibited showing that the boy who starts to work at 14 years of age reaches his maximum salary of $1200 a year at 30 years of age. The boy who goes to school long enough to become a college graduate starts at $1200 a year and then climbs to an average salary of $600 by the time he is 60, when the grammar school's graduate salary has declined, because manual labor has weakened his vitality.

The Girls' Glee club of the high school under the direction of Mr. Dinkelo, with Sylvia Trout at the piano, sang "Invitation of the Bells" from the "Chimes of Normandy" and "Carissima."

Mr. R. L. Sandwick told of character education in the high school, and said "Knowledge is of less worth than character." He gave a brief report of the National Educational association meeting in Washington, last week, and expressed the wish that many students of D. S. H. S. would avail themselves of the opportunity to visit our national capitol during the spring vacation on the pilgrimage that the Pennsylvania railroad is promoting.
