NUMBER 5

Stratton Is Candidate

The candidacy of William J. Stratton of Ingleside, Grant Township, for nomination for state treasurer, is a matter of interest to all the voters of Lake county. Several other announced candidates have withdrawn, leaving the chief contest between Mr. Stratton and Garrett D. Kinney of Peoria in the primaries, April 13.

Mr. Stratton, who is now director in charge of the department of conservation of the state, is one of Lake County's best known residents. At present he spends his time between Lake County and Springfield and various parts of the state in looking after the duties consequent to this important position which he has held for some time.

Mr. Stratton was appointed chief game warden in 1920, and he served in that capacity up to 1925, when, with the creation of a new Department of Conservation in Illinois, he was named director of the department. He has functioned in that position since that time and has made rapid strides in the development of the important branch which comes under his direction. In the matter of fish and game laws there is no man in the state better qualified than Mr. Stratton, and therefore he has developed a wide acquaintance which he and his friends figure will mean much in the campaign he is now entering as a candidate for the state office.

Mr. Stratton has been chairman of the Republican committee of Lake County for the past six years and has served as supervisor from Grant township for the past fourteen years. He is now supervisor from that district as well as county chairman.

Mr. Stratton has served this county well on the board of supervisors. He has been an efficient and faithful state official, and if nominated and elected, there is every reason to believe that he will make an excellent state treasurer. He merits the support of all his Lake County friends.

Where Coolidge Is Sound

Opponents of the Coolidge Administration surely ought to realize that they are wasting time and effort when they attempt to prejudice the people against the president by belittling his achievements in the reduction of governmental expenditures, says the Houston Post-Dispatch and continues: The figures speak for themselves. Political claptrap cannot obscure them. At the semi-annual meeting of the Federal department and bureau chiefs in Washington the other day it was shown by the books that the expenditures of the Federal government had been reduced from $5,538,000,000 in 1920-21 to $3,619,000,000 in 1925-26.

In this fiscal year, in other words, the Federal government is spending nearly 2,000,000,000 less than it did in 1920-21. And, in addition, $4,000,000,000 has been paid on the public debt, reducing the annual interest charge on it by $179,000,000. These smaller expenditures are being reflected in the heavy tax cuts that have been made and are now being authorized by Congress. It is not only unfair, but it is silly, to try to ridicule such a record as has been made in reducing Federal government costs. Of course, there is room for further improvement. The president does not say that all has been done that should be done in the way of eliminating expenditures. But the people are not such fools as to give him credit for the saving already effected.

This Bill Should Pass

A bill providing that the United States government shall purchase and own its legations and embassies abroad is passing through the House, and there is every prospect that it will be enacted at this session of Congress. It is a measure which deserves the support of all. Those who have travelled abroad and who have been obliged to visit American consular and legation offices located over grocery stores and notion shops in disreputable buildings, have not been able to escape the feeling that the rule which provides that the American flag must always be displayed before American quarters should be ignored if we are to function in such quarters. In Washington, even the smallest foreign legation owns its own home, and it is worth noting that the smaller the country, the more impressive the embassy. At this time, as a plain business proposition, if nothing else, we should house our representatives abroad in buildings, dignified and impressive, owned by the government.
