CAMP ROOSEVELT AT FT. SHERIDAN AGAIN

War Dept. Announces Boys Will Be Given Same Location As Last Year

Highland Park people who were much interested in the activities of Camp Roosevelt, the annual training camp for high school boys, which was located at Fort Sheridan last summer for the first time, will be glad to know that the camp will again this summer be at the same location.

Major F. L. Beals, in charge of the R. O. T. C. in the Chicago high schools and in command of Camp Roosevelt in the summer, has just announced from his office at the board of education, that, through the efforts of Angus S. Hibbard, chairman of the Camp Roosevelt association, secretary of war Dwight F. Davis has authorized the continuance of the high school camp on the Fort Sheridan Military Reservation. This means that Camp Roosevelt will occupy the same site that it occupied in the summer of 1923.

Start Preparations

As a result of a conference with Wm. McAndrew, superintendent of schools, Major General William S. Graves, Brigadier General Michael J. Lenihan, in command at Fort Sheridan, and Mr. Hibbard, plans have been completed and work on the camp will be started immediately in order that everything may be ready on the opening date June 28th.

The Summer High School, with Capt. J. C. Thompson again in charge as principal, will be under canvas, making it a real camp school. A large assembly and study tent in addition to the tents for recitation purposes will be provided.

The school will be located in the same area with the tent camp which will simplify supervision and control. The whole camp will be on the ground west of the 600 yard firing point on the target range, the most ideal camp site in the middle west. There are ample drill and parade grounds, athletic fields, places for the classes in horsemanship, and all within easy reach of one of the finest beaches on the north shore.
