

COUNCIL AND BOARD IN REGULAR SESSION

Insurance, $250.00; maintenance of autos, $180.49; job orders, $267.00; building permit refunds, $48.68; pumping station repairs, $1,686.68.

Financial Condition Excellent
Commissioner Cheney moved that to confer with the county treasurer the corporation counsel be directed regarding payment of amount due the city on account of 1925 tax levy. It was explained in this connection that the county treasurer's office was later this year than usual in turning over the bulk of the taxes due the city, and because of this an erroneous report had got into circulation to the effect that the city was "broke," because the April report showed an overdraft in the general fund. This was because the taxes due the city had not been received at that time. Since then about $19,000 has been received and now the city has a good balance in all funds, and the city has yet to receive from the county treasurer about $81,000, which provides adequately for the expenditures of the fiscal year, Highland Park, unlike many other cities, does not anticipate its taxes, and this year its financial condition is better than in the past.

To Resurface Green Bay
Commissioner Card moved that the city clerk be directed to advertise bids for resurfacing Green Bay road from Laurel avenue south to end of brick pavement, with either Tuft Tread or Tarvia, covered with gravel.

Commissioner Card moved passage of ordinance providing for construction of connected system of water mains in Forest avenue, Golf View avenue, Melvin drive, Northmoor drive, Linden avenue, the ordinance having remained on file for inspection according to law.

Commissioner Preston moved passage of ordinance for construction of connected system of water mains in Grove avenue, the ordinance having remained on file for inspection according to law.

Commissioner Cheney moved passage of salary ordinance, which had remained on file for public inspection according to law.

Commissioner Cheney moved that Baird & Warner be granted permit to construct reinforced concrete bridge by private contract in their addition to Deere Park subdivision, subject to the usual conditions.

Street Lighting Project
The council directed the city clerk to collect all information and data, including cost of engineering fees, etc., of proposed improved street lighting system and submit same to council at earliest possible time.

Commissioner Card moved that John J. Rosen be granted permit to lay by private contract an extra heavy two-inch water service pipe in his Military Academy subdivision, in place of a four-inch pipe, providing a fire hydrant is placed in Ravine drive at intersection of street entering said property, and that he conforms to the usual conditions.

Board Meeting
At the board meeting a resolution was adopted adhering to the original plan for construction of sanitary sewer in Ravinia Dells subdivision and certain lots in Lakewood Manor subdivision. Another resolution was adopted to the same effect with regard to the construction of water mains in Ravinia Dells subdivision.

A motion to abandon the plan for extension of Sheridan road from Central avenue to Laurel avenue was passed.

The E. A. Meyer Construction Co. was granted extension of 15 days on contract for paving Lakewood drive, providing they pay all additional engineering costs, etc.

Winder & Marsh, engineers, submitted report No. 1 for Highways Construction Co., on contract for constructing sidewalks in Ravinia Highlands and first addition thereto. Total amount due was reported to be $6300, and this amount was, on motion, allowed.

KNOW YOUR CAR IS ADVICE OF EXPERT

LEARN ABOUT AUTOMOBILE New York Y. M. Technical Adviser Tells How Owner Should Familiarize Himself With His Machine

(By H. Clifford Brokaw, technical adviser, New York City West Side Y. M. C. A. Automobile school).

Some people complain because the second-hand value of an automobile which has been in possession of the owner but a very short time appears to be excessively low. In a good many cases there is plenty of reason for a new automobile dropping in value after an owner has had it for two weeks. The reason lies in the kind of use the new motorist makes of his machine. In many instances it is not by any means what it should be. It is probably more difficult for an American to properly break in an automobile than for a person of any other nationality. This is due to the fact that a typical American is apt to be in an awful hurry. The driver of a new motor vehicle cannot afford to be in a hurry. He must constrain his desires to go rapidly from one place to another. There are a number of points to be borne in mind when operating a newly purchased car.

Reasonable Speed

It cannot be over-emphasized that during the first 1,000 to 1,500 miles a new automobile should be driven at a reasonable speed. In the case of most cars the manufacturers recommend a maximum speed of 20 to 25 miles per hour.

Of course it is important to watch the matter of lubrication. In order to provide an automobile to its owner at the least possible expense, the manufacturers have undertaken to build engines with reasonably smooth bearing surfaces and cylinder walls but they have not in most cases gone through the expensive process of polishing to a glass smooth surface such bearings. This is being accomplished when the engine is running. All of this, however, makes it highly important that every possible precaution is taken to insure thorough lubrication.

Some manufacturers recommend putting a little lubricating oil in the gasoline during the first few weeks of driving—for instance, one quart of medium oil to five gallons of gasoline is sometimes the proportion used. This oil goes into the cylinders with the gasoline and is deposited on the cylinder walls in the combustion chambers, getting a little better working arrangement than otherwise might be the case.

Tire Inflation

It is well for the driver of a new car to check up on his tire inflation. It often happens that one tire will become somewhat deflated at a little faster rate than another. By a constant checking up in these early stages he can become familiar with about how often he will need to pay attention to each tire in order to keep it at the proper pressure. He can also find out at what pressure the car seems to ride most comfortably.

He should watch his consumption of gasoline to see how many miles per gallon it is taking to operate the machine. In this way he will know about how often he needs to put in a new supply of gasoline, which may prevent the inconvenience of finding himself stalled some night on a dark road with his fuel tank empty. This checking up also gives him an opportunity to note if there is any excessive use of gasoline and if so to locate the cause. It also involves getting an adjustment on the carburetor which is likely to give the best results in driving.

Like the average pair of shoes, the automobile is not built to the order of the particular person buying it. It is, however, built closely to specifications as far as the manufacturer is concerned. Consequently it must pass through a certain period of adjustment and during this period small factors may develop, such as the sticking of a window on a closed car or the rattling of a door. Such matters can be remedied easily but if allowed to continue may become a real annoyance to the driver.

Exterior Finish

The care of the exterior finish is something which should receive attention. Due to the introduction of lacquer finishes the matter of care of the car's finish has been somewhat simplified. However, the automobile is much like a piece of furniture which needs some attention to keep it in the best possible shape. It is good for the new owner to get into the habit of keeping his car well washed and polished.

During the first 1,000 miles some of the bolts which have been tightened up at the factory are liable to work loose. It is therefore important for the owner to check up, especially at the end of the first 1,000 miles, to see if any bolts are loose and if so to tighten them up. After these bolts have been once tightened in this way they are not so apt to become loose.

Check Up Motor

The motor should also be checked up occasionally during the initiation period of ownership. To a certain extent the machine will make its own adjustments but there are sometimes cases where by taking out a little play here and there a definite improvement will be noted.

The tenth injunction for a new owner is "be fussy." No one would recommend that this sort of thing be over done but it appears that most automobile owners do not have enough of this quality. By being fussy is meant merely having due respect for all the various elements which enter into the automobile as a mechanism and as a useful vehicle and treating them with certain deference and respect, which is likely to insure the greatest possible length of service from the automobile.

PLAN TO REMODEL LIBRARY AT H. S.

Alterations to Be Made During Vacation, Affording More Accommodations

The board of education of Deerfield-Shields high school has accepted plans for remodeling the library and study hall at the school and the library will be the south half of the study hall thereafter, it is announced. The north side of study hall will be made into two history class rooms for the history classes have the greatest need of the library. Mr. Slocum's and Mr. Platt's classes will meet in these two rooms and Mr. Peers and Mr. Burwell will use the library and the room vacated by Mr. Slocum.

Rooms 214E and 216E now used by Mr. Peers and Mr. Burwell will be remodeled to serve as study hall. Although the new study hall will be smaller than the present hall, the library will be so much larger that there ought not to be any crowding of seats in hall.

The present study hall has an eighteen foot ceiling, so the ceiling will be built at a ten foot level and a little balcony with book cases constructed around the room. With the addition of this upper floor the new library will provide space for many more books. This mezzanine floor will be reached by several small iron staircases.

It is quite probable that a passage will be made through the present dean's office over a bridge into the gymnasium building thus providing two different entrances to the gym from Shields hall.
