CONVENIENCES OFFERED AT ARDEN SHORE CAMP

Is Supported by Contributions; Guests Selected by United Charities

For the information of new residents the following annual statement concerning Arden Shore Camp, a North Shore charity, is submitted.

Arden Shore is a vacation and nutrition fresh-air camp, which is maintained almost entirely by the North Shore villages, for the benefit of the mothers and children of Chicago's congested districts. It is located on a beautifully wooded bluff on the shore of Lake Michigan about 30 miles north of Chicago.

The camp is well equipped with screened cottages for the living quarters of its guests and with assembly hall, library and club rooms for their entertainment. But its greatest charm is the outdoor life in the woods and on its unrivaled bathing beach—the latter an advantage not enjoyed by any other free camp near Chicago.

Arden Shore is supported by the generous contributions of its many friends. Practically no money is spent in raising funds. Every spring the women of the North Shore villages collect the money by personal solicitation. It is the ambition of the association to have every North Shore family on its subscription list. In the fall a Chicago committee works enthusiastically to supply its quota.

There is a trained staff of salaried workers who conduct the activities at the camp. Other than these there are no paid workers. All literature used in the drive has been donated for many years so that practically every dollar contributed is spent directly for the benefit of the mothers and children.

Guests are selected by the United Charities, the settlement houses, the hospitals and the vocational guidance bureau of the Chicago public schools.

The capacity of the camp in summer is 500 people at one time and the ordinary vacation is two weeks but this is often extended. About 90 undernourished and convalescent children stay all summer.

Summer camp is open during the vacation period of the Chicago schools. At this time it is primarily a vacation camp and every effort is made to give the guests the best possible time. But there is a broader, more constructive motive underlying all its joyous activities—the desire to give all those who gather at Arden Shore something that will permanently brighten their lives and make them better and therefore more contented Americans.

Square dealing in work and play is a new and interesting thought to many of these children, and bird and flower lore fascinates them. Lessons in homemaking are helpful to the women and the revival of the play spirit had eased the load of many a weary and disheartened mother.

This camp is absolutely non-sectarian and there is a spirit of friendliness in the air which levels differences of caste and creed.

Arden Shore keeps open house in winter also and during seven months as many as 125 boys, who are unfit for work, are scientifically built up. Physical disabilities give place to rugged health and sullen discouragement to a cheery optimism. Many Chicago business men have found these boys more efficient and of a more friendly spirit than others of their class.

Easy accessibility makes the camp a favorite visiting place for North Shore residents old and young and fosters a spirit of larger understanding and tolerance that is beneficial to all. The entrance is on Sheridan road a short distance north of the Lake Bluff station. Come and see us and judge for yourself how great returns in health and happiness come from even a small investment in this undertaking.

MRS. ANDERSON DIES AT HIGHWOOD HOME

Aged and Esteemed Resident of Community Passes On; Funeral June 27

Mrs. Emily Anderson, wife of Adolph Anderson of Highwood, where she had lived for forty years and who was one of that city's oldest residents, died on June 24. The funeral services were held June 27 at the home and at the Swedish Zion Lutheran church of Highwood, Rev. Engstrom officiating. Burial was in the Oakland cemetery at Waukegan. Death followed a lingering illness.

THE MAID'S REPLY WAS TO THE POINT

One of the Things Heard and Seen in Highland Park Recently

Two German maids were speaking in their mother tongue waiting for a North Shore train on Sunday. A rather stoulish lady approached them: "You speak German?" "Yes," they replied.

"Ah, We've just come out for the summer, only two in family and we must have a German maid. Only two in family, nothing to do—all Thursday off. All Sunday off, just set your price—money is nothing to us. Maybe some of your friends will come. Here's our address—What's your name? Where'd you work? I'll call you up. Remember no children in family. Nothing to do."

There are families here all year around—yes! and families with children; families who must have help—yes, and families who must set a limit on the price they pay help. Have such summer visitors no heart?

The maid's reply when she left was a good one. "If she doesn't have anything to do, why have any help?"

DEDICATE BUDD MEMORIAL HOME Ceremonies Held Sunday Mile North of Libertyville at Location

Dedication ceremonies were held Sunday at the Katharine Doddridge Kreigh Budd memorial home for children, a mile north of Libertyville. The home has been established by Britton I. Fifteen summer cottages and temporary buildings have been completed and several more cottages will be erected.

Officiating at the services was the Rt. Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, suffragan bishop of Chicago, who was assisted by the Rt. Rev. Benjamin P. Ivins, coadjutor bishop of Milwaukee and other clergy. Music was furnished by the parish choir of the Church of the Atonement.

Tributes to the life and the work of the late Mrs. Budd were given by Bernard J. Fallon, one of the trustees of the memorial, and by the Rev. Frederic S. Fleming, rector of the Church of the Atonement.

The home, which will accommodate 150 children, will be operated by the Sisters of St. Mary of the western province of the Protestant Episcopal church.
