

NORTH SHORE NEWS

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Marion Eddy, daughter of General and Mrs. James M. Eddy of Glencoe, to Frederic Goss of Pittsburgh, Pa., on Monday, August 23. Mr. and Mrs. Goss are at home at 4069 Kenmore avenue, Chicago.

Miss Isabelle Carlson gave a surprise shower and bridge for Mrs. Goss on Monday, August 30.

Mrs. William A. Fox, Glencoe, and the "S.C.E." girls gave a party for Mrs. Goss on Thursday, September 2, at the home of Mrs. Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Klotz, 722 Prospect avenue, Winnetka, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to the Rev. H. Austin Pardue, Lawrence hall, Chicago, Saturday, Sept. 4, at 4:30, in the chapel of Lawrence hall.

Members of the families and a few intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Pardue will make their home at Lawrence hall where the former is rector.

Mrs. Pardue is well known in Chicago and among north shore people as an outstanding golf player, having competed in many tournaments.

Last week Mrs. Pardue played in an exhibition match at the Medinah Country club, with three other prominent players.

Tuesday, September 7, Mrs. Robert C. Bennett, Mrs. Pardue's sister, 856 Sheridan road, gave a kitchen shower in her sister's honor.

The marriage of Miss Catherine deWolf Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eager Lloyd, 192 Glenwood avenue, Chicago, to William Ward Clure, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Clure, 654 Cherry street, Winnetka, will take place on Saturday, September 25, at 8:30 o'clock at Christ church, Winnetka. The Rev. E. Ash- ley Berhard will perform the ceremony.

Miss Lloyd will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Theodora Cox of Atlanta, Ga., as matron of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Elizabeth Clure, sister of the groom, Miss Elizabeth Pond of Evanston, and Mrs. Martin Below of Evanston.

Mr. Clure will have Clayton Seagars of New York as best man. The ushers will be Raymond Roth of Wilmette, Charles Shearer of Bay City, Mich., Donald McCabe of Bay City, Mich., Lauren Stokesberry of Indianapolis, Robert Seymour of Chicago, Alex Goetz of Chicago, Martin Below, Evanston, and the groom's brother, Wallace Clure, of Evanston.

Immediately following the wedding a small reception for the families and intimate friends will be held at the home of Mrs. George Forrest, Glenwood street, Glencoe.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Larned Blatchford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Wickes Blatchford, 605 Arbor Vitae road, Winnetka, to Ludlow Sebring Fowler, son of Mrs. Thomas Powell Fowler of New York, will take place Thursday evening, Oct. 21.

Miss Blatchford will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Albert G. Berry, Jr. (Marion Blatchford) as matron of honor. Thomas Powell Fowler, Jr., the groom's brother will act as best man.

Miss Emily Scott will be maid of honor, while Mrs. William D. Pittman, Miss Elizabeth Jones and Miss Edith Fairbanks, and Miss Pauline Rudolph will be the bridesmaids.

Miss Blatchford is a niece of Chas. and Arthur Scribner. She attended Miss Masters' school at Dobbs Ferry. Mr. Fowler is a graduate of Princeton university, class of 1917, and also of the law school of New York university, Class of 1921.

The Glencoe Union church Friday evening was the setting for the wedding of Miss Annabelle Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Hicks, 835 Grove street, Glencoe, and George Dwight Wible of St. Clair, Mich.

The Rev. Douglas H. Cornell read the service. After the ceremony at the church, a reception for the family was given at the Hicks' residence.

The bride and groom departed for a trip to the west coast, and on their return plan to reside in St. Clair, Mich.

Miss Hicks' sister, Mrs. William N. Yates of Rogers Park, gave a linen shower last Thursday in her honor.

Mrs. Maurice H. Lieber and her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Biery of California, were hostesses at a bridge party Wednesday, Sept. 15, at two o'clock at the Winnetka Woman's Club, in honor of Miss Margaret McCue of Wilmette, who is to become the bride of Perry W. Lieber, on Saturday, Sept. 25. Mrs. Biery, who has come on for the wedding festivities, will be the guest of her parents for two months. She is accompanied by her small son, Junior.

of his paradise for that long a time." "You're right!" I cried, spurred on to angry action by Ellie's sarcastic voice, "if he wants Letitia Evans he can have her. I'll not stand in his way! Furthermore, I'll go to any place to get that divorce, Ellie. Even to Mexico!"

"Hurrah!" Ellie exclaimed. I was so excited over the torturous state of affairs that Ellie had revealed that, only for a moment, did it occur to me that, instead of being the least bit sympathetic, she was plainly overjoyed.

Does Sallie turn to the young musician for consolation? (To be continued next week)

Dressed in the lovely, quaint wedding gown worn by her mother at her wedding, Miss Mildred Buffington, daughter of George Wood Buffington of Minneapolis, will become the bride of Francis Marion Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Rich, 1409 Scott avenue, Winnetka. The wedding will take place Saturday, October 16, at 8:30 o'clock, at Plymouth Congregational church, Minneapolis. Dr. Harry P. Dewey will perform the ceremony.

The waist of the dress to be worn by the bride is made in a tight basque, with a full, long skirt, and long, tight sleeves. The neck line will be trimmed in delicate rosepoint lace falling slightly over the shoulders in cape effect. The veil is princess point lace over a tulle foundation, and is held in cap effect by clusters of orange blossoms. The bride will carry a shower bouquet and a rosepoint lace handkerchief.

Miss Buffington will be attended by Miss Christine Maumann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Baumann, of 279 Linden street, Winnetka, as maid of honor. Miss Baumann has been spending the summer abroad with her parents and will land in Montreal on Sept. 18, in time for Miss Buffington's wedding, and in time to participate in the pre-nuptial affairs that will be given in Miss Buffington's honor.

The eight bridesmaids who will attend the bride are Miss Elizabeth Boney, Miss Elizabeth Griffin, Mrs. Harold Leland, and Miss Helen Carpenter of Minneapolis, Miss Harriet Allen of St. Paul, Mary Adelia Boynton of Cedar Rapids, Ia., Miss Louise Grainger of Rochester, Minn., and Miss Martha Bostford of Winona, Minn. They will wear shades of taffeta from pale to deep pink. Their gowns will be made with circular skirts, short in front and several inches longer in back. The sash and deep flat bow will be of a deep shade of pink. The bridesmaids will carry flowers in rose and lavender shades.

A reception will be held after the ceremony at the University club of Minneapolis, several hundred guests being invited.

At a garden reception given last Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Southworth Miller, 647 Spruce street, Winnetka, their daughter, Miss Mary Miller, will make her bow to society.

Miss Marjorie Janney, Miss Virginia Wallace, Miss Ashton Wilson, Miss Frederica Walling, Miss Betty Paine, Miss Susan Miller of Winnetka, and Miss Barbara Groves and Miss Helen Shimmin of Evanston have been invited to assist during the tea hours.

Miss Miller is returning to Vassar college next week to continue her work there.

Miss Bernice Hubsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hubsch, of 1072 Spruce street, Winnetka, Miss Mary Jarvis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Jarvis, 623 Lake avenue, Wilmette, and Miss Mary Edith Stahl, of Chicago, have been spending three months travelling abroad. They sailed Aug. 27 from Liverpool on the steamship Montroyal, and will arrive in Quebec, where they plan to stay for a few days before returning home.

Miss Dorothy Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Warner, 154 Church road, Winnetka, left Sept. 3, for an extended trip through the west. Going by way of the Canadian Rockies, Miss Warner will travel by auto from Calgary to Edmonton. She will stop at Lake Louise, Prince Rupert, Vancouver, and visit friends in Portland and San Francisco. She expects to spend the entire winter in California and other places along the coast.

Miss Barbara Nutt, 266 Hazel avenue, Glencoe has recently returned from a girls' camp in Georgia where she was a counselor. She also taught horseback riding at the camp.

Mrs. John W. Scott, Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods, has been entertaining Miss Maria Stella Grazzini of Florence, Italy, this summer. They left Hubbard Woods on Sept. 7, motoring to Williamstown, Mass., where they will spend two weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. George A. Cluett.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stults, of 418 Sheridan road, Winnetka, have returned from an extended trip thru Colorado, including Estes Park, Boulder, and a visit at Ward. Miss Margaret Stults, their daughter, has been spending the entire summer at Camp Newaka, located at Ward, and returned with her parents in time to re-enter school.

Miss Mariette Cassels, 750 Bluff street, has returned to her home in Glencoe, after a summer spent in Europe.

Mrs. Andrew J. Maloney, 535 Warwick road, Kenilworth, gave a luncheon and bridge at her home Tuesday, Sept. 14, in honor of Mrs. George Dorman of 622 Central avenue, who with her family is leaving Wilmette October 1, to reside in Pontiac.

Miss Marion Osten of 913 Cherry street, Winnetka, gave a miscellaneous shower and bridge at her home Saturday afternoon of last week in honor of Miss Harriet Childs, who became the bride of Burton H. Atwood, Jr., Saturday, Sept. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Hotz, 1072 Sheridan road, Winnetka, and family, returned Friday, Sept. 3, from Fish Creek, Wis., where they spent the summer. Dr. and Mrs. Aspelbach, who also spent the summer at Fish Creek, returned on Sunday.

Mrs. Richard Walsh, 1170 Scott avenue, Glencoe, and her daughter, Judith, returned last week from a motor trip of several weeks in the north. Because of a very recent illness of Mrs. Walsh their time of starting was delayed, and they have been further detained by severe rains in Wisconsin.

Miss Frances Weld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Weld, 315 Sunset road, Winnetka, has returned after a summer spent abroad with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Kablegard of Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Kablegard are in Winnetka at present visiting Mr. and Mrs. Weld.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. McMillan of 530 Longwood avenue, Glencoe, arrived in New York Sept. 1, after a three months' stay abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peabody Magoun (Francis Boyden) have returned from their wedding trip abroad, and are establishing their home in Cambridge, Mass. Mrs. William C. Boyden and her daughter, Elizabeth of 725 Pine street, Winnetka, are leaving shortly for the east where Miss Boyden will resume her studies at Smith college, and Mrs. Boyden will visit Mr. and Mrs. Magoun in their Cambridge home.

WHAT IT COSTS TO BRING UP A CHILD

It is estimated, says "Trends and Indications," that to bring a child into the world, feed, clothe and shelter him until the age of 18, costs parents and the community about 8,338 for a family living on about 2,500 a year income. To the parents the cost is $7,238, and to the community about $1,100 this later figure being for education. Of the parents' expenditure about $50 is for so-called minor educational expenses, such as books, writing utensils and carfare to school. The total expenditure per child is divided as follows: clothing, shelter, $3,400; food, $2,500; education, $1,500; miscellaneous, $624; recreation, health 141; and birth expenses, 250.

The kid element will gladly promote the cleanliness movement by going in bathing in the water supply reservoirs.

Sallie's Decision
 The struggle that was going on in Ellie's mind revealed itself in the changing expressions which swept her face. At first she shook her head; "Oh, never mind," she said, "just wait and you'll understand."

"Now listen Ellie, you can't do me like this!" I cried, "you must have some reason for saying what you did and I MUST know. Why did you say that you didn't think I was ever going back to Curtiss in that insinuating tone of voice? Tell me, PLEASE."

Again she seemed to be torn between two emotions, then her chin shot up in firm resolve and, with a toss of her pretty head, she began to talk. Her words were most emphatic and their meaning perfectly clear: "Because he's just waiting for you to get a divorce. Because he wants to be free. Because he's crazy to marry Letitia Evans. Because he doesn't love you any more and" she continued defiantly, "if you had any pride you could see it for yourself!"

"Oh!" a heartbroken little moan escaped my lips. It didn't occur to me to ask her how she knew all these wretched facts. Enough that someone had told her—written her per-and I've never had one of them ditch me yet. You see Sallie I believe in that modern little suggestion, "be yourself," and sooner or later you will, too. I'm not contending that you should go back to cocktails and cigarettes, as a matter of fact you're a million times prettier and wittier than you were when you used to jazz things up, and rotten gin and jazzettes are dynamite to a girl's looks, but, when you married Curtiss that wasn't all you gave up. You lost your individuality and every darn thing that made you adorably different from just any ordinary girl. You were so absorbed in Curtiss that you completely forgot your real self. That's always disastrous. My motto is, Ellie, first last and always, and believe me," she added, "it works!" She took a long breath and it seemed to me as if she would never stop but I listened spellbound to every word as it fell from her caustic lips.

"Anyway, she continued, "the sooner you make up your mind that you're holding Curtiss against his will and keeping him from marrying the little flapper down there the happier everybody'll be. I don't think you're half as much in love with Curtiss as you think you are and the hardest part haps. Ellie was my friend and she would not hurt me if she had not known the truth of the words she spoke.

After all, what difference did it make where she had learned the facts? That I had lost Curtiss was the only thing that stood out vividly against the desolate pattern of my thoughts.

"Yes," I murmured, scarcely knowing what I said and staring before me with unseeing eyes—thinking hard and trying to relize the significance of her revelation and attempting to find some connection between its import and my future life.

"Oh!" I sighed again, "I had no idea it was like that!" once more I moaned as if the burden were too much for me to bear.

"I don't see why you didn't know that he had given you the gate long ago!" Ellie said in a hard voice which she always used when Curtiss was being discussed. You're incurably sentimental, my dear, or you would have known that he wasn't pining his life away down there in Birmingham when one word would have sent you flying to his arms. You were too demonstrative in your affection for him. He knew he had you and like any other man he turned his attention to another chase. He won't admit it of course," she hurried on, "but while he seemed to disapprove of you before you married him, it was that devil-may-care charm and indifference that won him, Sallie, at the start, and when you made yourself over to HIS kind of a girl—you spilled the beans! Then too, as I said before, you let him see that you were too fond of him, sport. I've heard you around him and your saccharine tones positively made me sick. Too much endearment spoils men just as surely as an overdose of sugar makes insipid tea!"

"But you've never been married, Ellie," I interrupted, "one can't go on playing a game then. You've got to be sincere and real. At least that's what I thought."

"Well you see what you got for it, don't you? The gate!" she reiterated in her jazz varnacular, "I might not have been married but I do know men of the whole thing will be in taking the first step. After that is done, you'll begin to take a new lease on life. I know. All my 'misunderstood' married friends confide in me."

I tried to speak but no words came. My lips were dry and parched. Then finally I said: "Of course, if Curtiss wants a divorce I wouldn't think of not letting him have one." I wanted to put my head down and sob out the hurt pride and disappointment that had swelled up in me, but I determined, after what Ellie had said, that I would not lose my control. "But," I concluded, in a voice that quavered in spite of myself, "I'll never, never love anyone else as long as I live."

"Oh yes you will. Don't worry about that, Sallie. If we only had room for one big emotion in a lifetime think how stupid our days would be when the person on whom we lavished our affection failed."

"Please don't try to console me," I begged, "it's impossible to paint any picture that looks the least bit bright. With Curtiss gone out of my life I know that I'm facing despair. I might as well be frank. When one loves there is no such thing as pride and self-respect in the way you know, but, that isn't the point. I have no choice in the matter now and, as you say, if he had cared he would have written me long before this. Yes I was standing in the way of his happiness with—someone else, but I didn't know. I thank you for telling me Ellie," a sob rose in my throat but I struggled on, "I don't know what dad will think. I've kept all this from him because he has been ill. But he wouldn't try to influence me about the divorce under the circumstances. Not with his fire and pride! It would kill him to think that his Sallie had been put aside for some other girl, so, I'll keep it a secret until I have the divorce in my hand."

"Atta-Girl!" exclaimed Ellie, how about our trip to Mexico? You can get one so much quicker down there."

"But I'm not anxious to hurry things, you know."
