TOO MUCH PATERNALISM

The dangers of paternalism in the United States were called to the attention of the lawyers of the United States recently in a report submitted at their Denver convention by F. F. Dumont-Smith of Hutchinson, Kansas, who acted as chairman of the committee on American citizenship.

The report said in part:

"The Roman citizens bartered their ancient liberties for bread and circuses. The American citizen today freely barter his individual liberties and rights for government bounties and bonuses. He demands government interference in everything and surrenders freedom and his individuality for it.

"The old virile spirit it waning to extinction. The American citizen is being pauperized by government alms. If he supports the government he asks the government in return to support him. If prices are too high, instead of doing without, he wants the government to lower them; if they are too low, he wants the government to raise them.

"He wants the government to build his roads, educate his offspring, sanitize him, physic him, bring his children into the world, prescribe his dietary, and tell him what to believe in matters of conscience.

"This tendency, constantly accelerated, is furthered by powerful groups, some of whom have selfish interests at stake, but by many whose leaders are impelled by the loftiest motives and seek them on the grounds of economic or social welfare."

The United States leads the world in social service, in charity and in other activities designed to raise the standard of citizenship. Nearly all this work has been done by our private citizens and by our smaller units of government. We are proud of this as a measure of our high civilization.

But here of late the tendency has grown to let the federal government do the bulk of the work. As a result bureaucracy has grown in a degree never dreamed of in the early days of the republic, and there are many who seem to feel that the government at Washington should regulate not only the economic but the social activities of our life. There is a danger here which should not be lost sight of in our present day of prosperity. We will only remain free and happy if we continue to govern ourselves.

The Charm of Good Taste

We all know people who spend a great deal of money and only succeed in making vulgar display of themselves.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Oct. 3.

The Golden Text was from I Thessalonians 5:21, "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else" (Isiah 45:12, 22).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we term mortal mind or carnal mind, dependent on matter for manifestation, is not Mind. God is Mind: all that Mind, God, is, or hath made, is good, and He made all. Hence evil is not made and is not real" (p. 311).
